THE Sixth Volume 0 F LETTERS Writ by a Cutkity spp,  Who Liv'd Five and Forty YEARS Undifcover'd at  PA R I S:

 Giving an Impartial Account to the Divan at Conftantinople, of the moft Remarkable Tranfactions of Europe: And, Difcovering feveral Intrigues and Secrets of the Chriftian Courts (efpecially of That of France) Continued from the Year 1659, to the Year 1682.Written, Originally, in Arabick. Tranßlated into Italian, and from thence into Englifh, by the Tran@ator of the First Volume.

The Thirteenth Edition.
 LONDON:
Printed by A. Wilde,
For S. and E. Ballard, F. Brotbcrton, W. Meadows, T.Cox, R. Ware, 7. Clarke, S. Birt, D. Browne, T. Aflcy, F. Shuckburgh, 7. Hodges, E. Wickficed, 7. Ofwald, 7. Comyns, C. Butburff, R. Baldwin, A. Straban, and A. Wilde. [1753.]

. TOTHE

READER.

AS Superfluous as Prefaces feem, yet there is One Thing which makes it, in & Maniner, Neceffary to prefix a few Lines to this Volume, in Regard there is an Occafion given by the Objections fome Gentlemen have been lately pleafed to make againft the Style of the Englifb Tranflation. Thefe Perfons having, by a very coftly Inquifitivenefs, found and procured the Italian Copy of the Letters, and compared

A 3
them

To the READER.

them with the Englifh, pick many Faults in the latter, which they would fain improve to the leffening the Reputation of the Turki/b Spy, or at leaft to the Heightning of their own Characters as $W$ its and Criticks, Mafters of Languages, and the Grand Patentees of Human Senfe:

In the firft Place they fay, The Italian Trannlation keeps clofe to the Original Arabick; whereas the Eng${ }_{i j} \mathrm{~b}$ abounds too much with Angli$c i / m s$, which are not fufficient to exprefs the Autbor's Primitive Senfe.

How impoffible a Thing it is, to pleafe all People in Undertakings of this Nature! Formerly they were offended that fo many Turkijb and Arabick Words were left untranflated. And that being anfwer'd in the Preface to the Fourtb Volume, they have now form'd new Arguments out of that very Anfiwer, to affault us on the contrary Side, and tax us with being too Vernacular. 'Tis true, the Letters they have fent to the Bookjeller on this Account, are not fubterib'd at length : Yet, by Accident, one of the Gentlemen's Hand-writing is known. And tho' we acknowledge hin to be an ingenious Perfon, and a Man of Learning; yet I believe he would be unwilling his Letter fhould here be expos'd in Print (or the Original fhew'd to fome that know him, and perhaps may claim an equal Rank among the Criticks.)

To the READER.

But, to come to the Purpofe; I have often heard Tranflations blamed for keeping too clote to the Origin.l Phrafe ; but never any, before this, for a Negligence that is ablolutely neceffary to retain the Senfe of a For reign Autbor. All the World knows there is a vaft Difference between Arabick and the Languages of Europe; and if the Italian Iran/lator was more exact in forming his Words up to a near Imitation of the Eafern A 4 Pro-

To the READER.

Proprieties of Speech, no doubt but impartial Men will rather cenfure it as a Fault, than cry it up for an Excellency ; fince nothing founds well in any Language, which is not deliver'd in the Natural Idiom. Every Thing ought to be writ in as familiar a Style as we difcourfe; efpecial1y Letters, which are but a ProxyMethod of converfing at a Diftance. And he that Tranflates out of one Language into anotber, ought to aim chiefly at this, That he be fure to retain the OriginalSenfe, and render it fmootb and eafy to the Reader. The Flowers of Arabia and Italy, when once tranfplanted to our barien Engli/b Soil, lofe their Virtue and Beauty, till they are Naturaliz'd: What then muft we expect from their Weeds? Doubtlefs there are fome Peculiarities in all Languages; and to Tranflate Verbatim from to remote a Tongue, would found as harih as French does in an Englifbman's Mouth, when he pronounces it as 'tis writ.

What

To the READER.

What I have more to fay, is, That as this Volume contains a Hifory of Things tranfacted within the Memory of moft Men now living; fo the Two fucceeding Tomes fall down lower and nearer to the prefent Times: Giving an Account of Events whereof many have been Eye-witnefles, and, wherein not a few have had 2 perfopal Share, either by way of Action, or fuffering Profit or Damage; which muft needs afford Delight to thinking Men; fince there is nothing more agreeable to Mortals, than to reflect on the former Paffages of their Lives, according to that of the Poet:

Hec olim meminifo juvabit.

Besides, for the farther Encouragement of the candid Reader, He may affure himfelf, That towards the Conclufion of the Laft Volume, He will-meet with feveral Secrets between the French and Turki/b

A 5
Courts,

To the READER.

Courts, which will difcover the true Source of the Prefent War between the Emperor of Germany and the Grand Signior ; and give a Glimpfe of the private Machinations and Springs which have put all Europe into the Hurly-Burly 'tis now in.

I have but this more to fay, That we hope to be more fipeedy in publifhing the Remainder of thefe Letters, than we have hitherto been in the Former VOLUMES.

Reader, Adieu.

$$
\prod \underset{O F T H E}{A} B
$$

LETTERS and MATTERS Contained in this Volume.

$$
\frac{\text { VOL. VI. }}{\text { B O O K I. }} \text { L ETTER I. }
$$

AHMUT the Arabian at Paris, to Dgnet Oglou his Friend at Confantinople.

Page I
He relates the Errors be committed in Point of Addrefs. and Carriage when be firf came to Paris.
II. To the Reis Effendi, or Principal Sccretary of the Ottoman Empire.

$$
\begin{equation*}
\text { A } 6 \tag{of} \end{equation*}
$$

The TABLE

Of a Fellow that dogg'd bim up and down the the Streets of Paris; and bis Apprebenfions thereupon.
III. To Abdel Melec Muli Omar, Prefident of the College of Sciences at Fez. II
He complains of his frequent Sadnefs on the $A_{c}$ count of bis Emplogment.

IV. To the Kaimacham.  Of the Quakers in Holland, England, Germany, and otber Parts of Europe.

V. To the fame. 18

Of the Peace concluded between France and Spain. Of the Matcb between the King of France and the Spanifh Infanta. Of the Duke of Lorrain's Releafe, and of the Prince of Conti's Reforation.
VI. To Hamet, Reis Effendi, Principal Secretary of the Ottoman Empire.
He congratulates bis Acceffion to that Dignity. Of the Death of the King of Sweden, and the Duke of Orleans.
VII. To Dgnet Oglou.

He difcourfes againft tbe little Superfitions of tbe Mahometans. Of Mofes, and the Jews in Egypt.
VIII. To the Kaimacham.

Of the Prince of Conde's Recoption and Entertainment at tbe French Court. Some Pafages of his Life.
IX. To the lame.

The T A B L E.

Of King Chatles II. bis Reforation to the Crown.
X. To Mebemet, an exild Eunuch, at Grand Caire in Egpt.
He breaks fortb into melancboly Excurfions.
XI. To Hamet, Reis Effendi, Principal Secretary of the Ottoman Empire.
He relates fome Pafages of Henry IV's Life..
XII. To Muflapha Berber Aga. 43

Of the extraordinary Magnificence at the Newmarried King and 2ueen's Entry into Paris.
XIII. To Dgnet Oglou.

Of an Earthquake at Paris.
XIV. To Hamet, Reis Efendi, Principal Secretary of the Ottoman Empire. 47 Obfrevations on the Reign of Lewis XIII.
XV. To Mabummed in the Defart. 52

Of the Earthquake at Paris, and other Parts of France.

BOOK II.

LETTERI.

$7^{\circ}$O the Venerable Mufti. Of Cardinal Mazarini's Deatb. Some Remarks on bis Lifo.
II, To the Vizir Axem at the Porte. . 58 Farther Remarks on Cardinal Mazarini.

The TABLE.

III. To Pefeli Hali, his Brother, Mafier of the Cuftoms at Confantinople.
Of his Coufin Ifouf's Refidence at Aftracan. Charaiter of the Mufcovites.
IV. To Orcham Cabet, Student in the Sciences, and Penfioner to the Sultan.
He congratalates his Converfion to the Mahome$\tan$ Faitb.
V. To the Mufti:

Of the King of France's Power to cure the King's Evil.
VI. To Mirmadolin, Santone of the Vale of Sidon.
He applauds the bappy Life of a Santone.
VII. To Dgnet Oglous.

Of Painters. A Story of Martin Heemskirk. Anotber of Giotto.
VIII. To Lubano Abufai Saad, an Egyptian Knight.
Of the Dauphin's Bixth.
IX. To Cara Hali, Pbyjfician to the Grand Signior. $7^{8}$

- Of Hardinefs, Indifference, and Refignation.

X . To the fame. 83
Of Plays, and an odd Ac : 'dent that happen'd at cne, in the Prefence of the King, and the wbole Court.
XI. To Dgnet Oglou.

The TABLE.

He complains of the Slanders caft on bim by fome at the Seragiio.
XII. To Abraham Eli Zeid, Hadgi, Preacher to the Seraglio. 90
Of the uicked Lives of Prigfs and Monks.
XIII. To the Chiaus Baffa.

97
Of the French King's Conduct and Government.
XIV. To the fame.

101
Niore on the fame Subject. Of an extraordinary Tournament, or Caroufal, at the French Court.
XV. To Zeidi Alamanxi, a Merchant at Venice.

105
He app.auds bis Siuccrity in embracing the Muffulman Faitb.
XVI. To the Kaimacham.

109
Of the Attempts made on the Lives of the Duke and Dutchefs of Crequi.
XVII. To Mohammed, the illuffrious Eremite of Mount Uriel in Arabia. 111
Of the Contradizfions and Uncertainty of Antient Records, &cc.
XVIII. To Hagnadar-Baff, Chief Treafurer to his Higbnefs.

115
Of the Birth and Death of Madame of France. Of the Peace concluded between France and Spain. He refects on the Englifh for delivering up Dunikirk to the Frencb. Of the Mari iage betucen the King of England and the Infanta of Purtugal.
XIX.

The TABLE.

XIX. To the Kaimacham.

117 He relates aftrange Paffage that happen'd to bim in vifiting a Calabrian Iraveller, profefing Aftrology and Pbyick.
XX. To the Captain Baffa.

121
Of a wonderful Man taken up on the Coafts of North Halland.
XXI. To Nathan Ben Saddi, a fow, at Vienna. 124
He endeavours to comvince bim that Ifmael was Heir of the Promifes made to Abrabam, as being the Firft-born Son. With fome Recriminations on the Race of Ifaac.
XXII. To the fame.

He difcourfes concerning the Origin of Nobility and Grandeur among Men.
XXIII. To Codarafrad Ceik, a Man of the Law.

134
Of a Man tbat was executed at Paris, for afferting that be was the Son of GOD.

BOOK III.
LETTER I.

TO Solyman, his Coufin, at Cbalcedon. 136
He applauds bis Removing from Place to Place, and advijes bim to travel fartber and farther in the World; or at leaft to vift bis Coujon at Aftracan.

II. $T_{0}$

The TABLE:

II. To Peffeli Hali, his Brother, Mafter of the Cuttoms at Comfantinople.

139
Of the Wars and Revolutions in Indoftan; witt fome Remarks on the different Policy of Eaftern Nations.
III. To Ufeph, Bafa.

143
Of the Comverfion of the Duke of Mecklenburgh to the Roman Faitb. Of the magnificent Entry the Swifs Ambaffaders made imto Paris.
IV. To Hamet, Reis Effendi, Principal Secretary of the Ottoman Empirc.

145
Of the King of France's Amours. A pleafant Story of bis Confefor.
V. To Pefeli Hali, his Brother, Mafter of the Grand Seignior's Cuftoms at Conflantinople.

147
Of Mahmut's Inclination to travel; bis particular Fancy for Indoftan: Witb a Defription of the Pleafures be fould take in paying tbitber.
VI. To Hamet, Reis Effendi, Principal Secretary of the Oitoman Empire.
Of the Death of the Dutchefs of Savoy, and Carolus Jufephus, Brother to the German Emperor. A general Charafter of Germany, France, Spain, England, Holland, and other Parts of Europe.
VII. To Kerker Hafan, Bafa,

He acquaints bow be bad bcen affafinated one Night in the Streets, as be was returning to

The T A B L E:

 bis Lodings. Of his Removal thereupon to anotber Part of the City.VIII: To Natban Ben Saddi, a Few at Vienna. 162
He informs bim of the fame Accident, referring bim for farther Inftructions to Eliachim, wbo weuld be floortly at Vienna.
IX. To Zeidi Alamanzi, a Merchant at Venice. 164
He forbids him to fend any Letters to Paris, till he has receiv'd frefb Orders from the Porte. I
X. To Murat, Baffa. 166

He complains for want of timely Intelligence from the Minifters of the Porte. Of the Vietories and Suicceffes of the Ottomans in Hungary. Of Count Trozzi's Arrival at Paris, in Quality of Ambaffador from the Emperor.
XI. To jouf, his Kinman, a Merchant at Afracan.

- Character of Spain.
XII. To Afis Baffa.

171

- Of the general Confernation in Europe, upon the News of the Grand Signior's Advances 14 a into Hungary. Of Cardinal Chif's Arri14. val at Paris in 2uality of Legate de Latere - from the Pope.
XIII. To Hamet, Reis Effendi, Principal Secretary of the Ottoman Empire.

The TABLE.

XIV. To Mufu Abu'l Yahyan, Profeffor of Philofophy at Fex.

175
He difcourfes of the various Languages of Europe. A Story of a German Ambafader as the French Court.
XV. To Ofman Adrooneth, Aftrologer to the Sultan at Adriamople.

180
Of a Comet appearing in the Firmament. From whence be takes Occafion to dijcourfe about the Nature of Comets.
XVI. To Hamet, Reis Effendi, Principal Secretary of the Ottoman Empire. 182 He informs him of the Peace made between the Pope and the King of France, after the Affronts put upon the French Ambaljador at Rome. Of the French King's Defign on Africk.
XVII. To Aldel M.lce Muli Omar, Prefident of the College of Sciences at Fcz. 185 He complains that True Science is not to be found, unlefs among the Bramins of India.
XVIII. To Mirmadolin, Santone of the Vale of Sidon. Divine Nature. A Digrefion concerning the ancient Religion of the Gentiles.
XIX. To the fame.

190
A Sceptical Difcourye afier the Manner of an Epicurean Pbilofépher.
XX. To IJouf, his Coufin, a Morchant at Aftracan.

The TABLE.

Mahmut complains of bis Uneafiness in Paris, and exprefles bis Emulation of the Atabs and Tartars.
XXI. To Hamet, Reis Effendi, Principal Secretary to the Ottoman Empire.
Remarks on the Marefchal de Turenne, with a Charatter of that Prince.
XXII. To Orchan Cabet, Student of the Sciences, and Penfioner to the Grand Signior. 199
Of a Paper of Verfes which the King of France found one Morning on bis Table. Of Anne Marie de Skurman, the Learned Maid of Saxany.
XXIII. To the Captain Balfa. 201 Of a netable Victery obtain'd by the Englif, under the Command of the Duke of York, in a Sea-Fight with the Dutch. Of the King of France's Defign to unite hoth Seas, by cutting a Canal tbrougb Part of bis Kingdom.

The TABLE

及OOK IV.

LETTERI.

-O Achmet Beig. 205
Of the Death of Philip IV. King of Spain, and the Duke of Vendorme.
II. To William Vofpel, a Rechufe of Aighria.

Mabmut endeavowers to reclaim bim from Bigotry.
III. To Nathian Ben Saddi, a Fow at Viemec. 212
He refieds on the Mifaa and Talmud of the Jews: Rebearfing briefiy feveral ridiculous Stories out of the latter. Of a Sort of Jews in North Afia, different from the reft of that Lineage, in their Language, Laws, and Religion.
IV. To the fame.
H. gives bim a more particular. Accoment of thefe Jews, their Cuftoms, and Manner of Lifc.
V. To Mohammed, Hadgi, Dervich, Eremite of Mownt Uriel, in Arabia the Happy. 219

The TABLE.

He tells bim be is in doubt of his future State: Howiever, afferts, That 'tis good to meditate on the laft 7 bings.

VI. To the Kaimacham.

Of Mirrammud, the Son of the Xeriph of Sallec's being taken Prifoner by the Fiench. His Charadter, and Entertainment at the 20s Court.
VII. To Hamed Muladdin, Xeriph of Sallee. 225

- He acquaints bim with the fame Thing, and advijes bim to fend fpeedy Ambaffadors to the Court of France, in order to bis Son's Redemption.
XIII. To Pifeli Hali, his Bother, Mafter of the Cuftoms at Confantinople. 227 He informis him of the Treachery of Solyman his Coufin, in emplying fome Armenian Merchants at Paris, to pry into Mahmui's Secrets.

> IX. To Dgnet Oglou.

More on the fame Subject.
X. To Elamet, Reis Effendi, Principal Secretary of the Ottoman Empire.
Of the Plague in London, and in other Parts of England. Of the Death of the QueenMother of France, and of the Prince of Conti.

The TABLE.

XI. To Nathan Bew Saddi, a fow at Viemna, 235
He reproaches binn with Bigotry, in bilicving Sabbati Sevi, the pretended Meffi is of Smyrna, Ec, to be the true Redecmer of Ir rael. 13. . . bort Hiffory of Sabbati Sevi's Life.
XII. To the Kaimacham.

239 An. Account of the Jews Extravagancies on the Appearing of Sabbati Sevi, as their Meffias. Strange Reports of the Ten Tribes that were carried away Captive by Salmanaffar King of Aflyria, XIII. To Murat, Bafa, 242
Of a War between the French and the Englift. Of a Marriage between the Emperor of Germany, and the Infanta of Spain.
XIV. To Poffeli Hali, his Brocher, Mafter of the Cuftoms, and Superintendant of the Arfenal at Compantinople. 245
He congratulates bis new Advance: Relates the Blowing-up of Rezan, a City inR Ruffia, and defcants on the Day of Doung.
XV. To Ufepb, Bafla. 249

Of the Continuance of the Plague in England. Of the Fire at London.
XVI. To Cara Hali, Phyfician to the Grand Signior.
He complains that our Kno:vledge of a Future State is very uncertain.
BSETT:I XVII.To

The TABLE.

XVII. To Kerker, Haflan, Bafla. He rejoices to bear that be is to be remov'd from Paris to a Constry Life, fomewbere in Afia.
XVIII. To IJouf, his Kinfman, a Merchant at Afracan. 262
He gives bimea Cbarailer of his Coujin Solyman, and bids bim beware of bim if he fould come to Aftracan.
x+19:

LETTERS

LETTERI.

Mahmut, the Arabian at Paris, to Dgnet Oglou, kis Friend, at Contantinople.

IT makes me finile fonetimes, When I reflect how often I was put to it for an Addrefs fuitable to the Manners of the Nazarenes, and the particular Mode of Paris, when I firft arriv'd at this City : For, Thou knoweft, we had other Employments, than to learn Fafhions and Conge'sat Palermo. The Mind of a Slave is dejected, under the CircumCances of his Captivity; fo that he has not Leifure to regard any Thing, but how to accomplifh his daily Talk, and to pleafe his Patron. All his Study and Care is bent apon this, and there's no Room left for generous Thoughte ; neither, has he Means or Courage to venture on Prejects. of improve the prefent Occurences, in order to his future Happinefs. Nay, he hardly dares think of ever being happy again. This was my Cafe, and I believe, twas not much better with thee.

2 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

Yet, notwithtanding all the rigorous Ufage I had, the Baftinadoes, Kicks, Bruifes, Cuts and Wounds, I receiv'd from the Hands of that barbarous Giafor, my Mafter, which made me fometimes incapable of doing him any Service by Day, or of taking any Reft myfelf by Night, I was refolved to find fome fpare Time for Books. I rofe carly, and went late to fleep; n gleeting no Noment, wherein I could apply myfelt to Study. The Acquaintance I had with that Sicilian Carpenter, our Friend, was of fingular Advantage to me in this Kind: For, thou may'it remember he was well fock'd with many ancient and learned Treatifes. He furnifh'd me with Plutarch, Polibiws, Strabo, Pliny, and other Hifories. All which, and many more, I devoured with Greedinefs; for I had a ftrong Appetite to Knowledge. And after my Redemption, I pafs'd away fome Time in the Acadimies, where I learn'd the knotty Tricks of Logick, how to (plit Moods and Figures, and chain one impertinent Syllogifn to the Tail of another to E ernity. I alfo sun through a Courfe of Pbilefoply, and other Sciences. Neither was I altogether ignorant of Nen: For the Reading of Hiltories fits a Man the better to make practical Experiments in the Affairs of the World. To which alfo Ptilgfopby is not a little helpful, in directing our Cbfervations on the various Tempers of People, A ens perional Difpofitions and Singularities, with the Humours and Cuftoms peculiar to this or that that Nation. For thefe Things depend many Times on the Difference of the Climate, the Nature of the Soil, the Qualities of the Air, and the Manner of their Diet.

Vol.VI. a Sprat Paris.

But neither Hifory, Logick, or Pbilofophy, were able to efface the Impreflions of my early Years, or unteach me the Manners in which I had been educated from my Infancy. I brought Arabia and CamAantinople along with me even to Paris. And becaufe I had not been ufed to diffemble the Profeffion and Carriage of a Mufulman, during my Thraldom in Sicily, 1 was at a Lofo in my Deportment, when 1 came firt hither.

How often have I been like to difcover myfelf by pronouncing the facred Bi/in $\| l a b$, either when I fat down to Eat, or put a Glais of Water to my Lips ; or when I began any other Action of Importance! So likewife in uttering the Hundillub, after a Repatt, or when any Thing happened which prompted me to praice God.
When Imet any of my Acquaintance in the Streets, I was apt to forget Ihad a Hat on. And, inftead of putting off that, according to the Fathion of the Franks, I laid my Hand on my Breaft, and fometimes bow'd fo low, that my Hat fell of from my Head, before I was fenfible of my Error.

If I had Occifion to addrefs myrelf to a Perrnn of Qualty, I was ready to take up the Bottom of his Cloak, Gown, or Robe, and to kifs it in Token of Reverence, as the Cuftom is in the Eaft, when we falute the Grandes. Nay, fometimes I could not forbear falling on my Knee, or proftrate on the Ground before Cardinal Ricblicu, and thofe of his high Dignity. All which, neverthelefs, paffed on1y for Clownifhnefs, and Want of Courtly Education, which teaches the nice Punailio's of Addrefs. They took me for a Kind of Moldavian Ruftick, 4 Letters Writ by Vol.VI. without any farther Jealoufy. Or, perhapo, they fmild at alt this, as fome fingular Caprice or Hu mour, fike that of the Philofopher Pafcictes, who coming to falute a great Captain, and the Ceremony of thofe Times requiring him to touch the Cap. trin's Kriee, he laid his Hand on his Genitals. At which the Captain being affronted, and thrufting his Hand away with fcornful Words, Wbat ! fays the Pbilofopber, Does not that Part belong to you, as twell as your Krees? It often diverts my Melancholy, to confider how many Errors of this Kind I have committed, not through Ignorance, or any Cynical Humour, but only in pure Overfight, and Forgetfulnefs.

It was a long 'Time e'er I could frame my Fingers to handle a Knife and Fork at Meals, as is the uni-verfal Cutom in thefe Wefiern Parts; whereas thou knoweft, we make Ufe of no other Infirnments in Eating, but our Firgers and Teeth. Whence it was, that I could not fometimes forbear thrufting my Hand into a whole Difh of Meat; which is counted 2 great Indecency in France. And after I was reconciled to thole nicer Infruments of Voluptuoufnefs, fo as to carve my Meat d-la-Mode; yet, when Ionce biad it on my own Plate, I laid afide thofe Tools as ufelefs, and tore it afunder with my Fingers and Teeth, feeding a la Turcefque, as the French call it; that is, like a Mufulman.

Neverthelefs, no Body fufpected me; but all thefe Mifcarriages pafs'd for Moldavian Barbarijns, the falvage Cuftoms of that my fuppofed Country. I tell thee, 'That tho' the Manner of Eating among the Frencb, fetms to have Yomething more of Neatnef's and Delicacy in it; yet $\dot{K}$ appears full of Softnefs and Luxury, and I cannot in Reafon prefer it to the more niatural and fimple Method of Diet, us d in the Eaf. Neither would the Framk's themfelves condemn us for Salvages in this Point, as they commonly monly do, did they but confider, That this Negligence very well becomes Men of the Sword; and that in their Campaigns, their own Generals are ambitious to appear Carelefs in every Thing relating totheir Body.

Vol. VL a Spyat Paxis

Doubtefs, the Ancient Romans, who brought the greateft Part of the World under their Power, thun'd all Fineneffes in Dief and Apparel, till fuch Time as their Manners were debaach'd, and their Empire in its Decline. Our Annals record, That when Sultan Selim lay down with his Army before a certain Place, and the Governor of the Town fent Commiffioners to treat with him about a Surrender; they found him at Dinner, which confifted only of Two or Three Onions, a little Salt and Bread.

Hiftories alfo relate of the faithful Omar, Succefior of the Prophet, That when he was with his Army not far from 7 erufalem, the Nazarene Prince who govern'd that City, fent a Spy into the Hof of the Muf. fulmans, to oblerve their Difcipline, and bring him a lively Character of their General. The Spy went according to his Mafter's Orders; and having tarried fome Time in the Arabian Camp, returned again, and thus fooke to the Governor.
"It will be needlefs to recount every Thing I " obferved among thefe Soldiers; fince by what I " Ohall fay of their Leader, Thou may't compre" hend the Manners of them all: For they obey " him, and follow his Example in every Thing, " with exquifite Silence and Modefty. I fiw Omar "their Prince, at the Head of his Army, fitting " on a Camel, his Face Tawny, and Scorch'd by the "Sun, in a Veit of Perrias Cotton, girded about " with a Belt of Leather, at which hung a Cymetar " and Dagger, with a Kuapfack tied behind him like " the meaneft Soldier. I faw him take out from "thence hard Crufts of Bread, thaking off the "Hulks of Millet which ftuck to them; and faying, in *Order and Modefty, as I never faw before, neither " can I exprefs.
When the Prince heard this, he ftood ftill a confiderable Time, mufing as one aftonifhed. Then turning to the Senicrs and Cbief of the People who were prefent, he faid, "It is neccflary that we fur" rencer our City to thefePeople; for they have the " Smiles of Heaven. Their Prophet and their Law * oblige 'em to Temperance, Frugality, Obedience, * and a modeft Deportment. Thele Virtues are" certain Steps to Victory and Empire. Befides, I " have receiv'd a Tracition from my Anceftors, That " a People fhall come out of Arabia, with a New " Law and Religion, which thall abolifh all that went " before it. They fhall fubdue Palefine and Egypt; " and fhall build Mofques; wherein their Prayers thall - Sound like the Humming of Bees. Their Empire "Ball extend from Eaft to Wrft, and to the Exires " mitics of the Eartb. This is what I have learned " from my Forefathers, and which I believe is now " ceming to pafs. Thercfore it will be in vain to " refift thefe Men; for they are Invincible by a De" cree from Above.

Thofe that were about him, did not approve the Counfel of this wife Nazarene. However, he fent to Omar, and obtain'd Favour for himfelf and his Family.

Thou wilt fay, I'm got wide of the Mark of my firlt Difcourfe, which related to myfelf, and not to any of the primitive Caliphs: But, "tis impoffible to reftrain our Thoughts from roving. Some fay, They hang together like the Links of a Chain; and that one Idea being fattened to another in our Memory, we mufter them in Rank and File, according to their proper Order, when we think, or make Reflections: G O D knows bow "tis. This I amfure of, Thit when I write to my Friends, I ftady not to make'zh claborate Speech ont, as if I were penning an Oration; but purfuing my firt Intention at Randomi: I run on, lettiog ope Thought and Word beget tho ther.(But I was telling thee how great a Bungler I was at firt, in all the Ceremonies and Manners of the Frants, which differ from thofe of the Eaft. I was as much to feek in my Addrefs, as an Afs would be to play on a Lxte according to the Roman Proverb: Yet Time and Practice render'd all thefe Things familiar and cary, Now methinks, 1 am a thoroughpac'd, Naxarene as to my Exteriour. I go to the Court and the Temples, with as much feeming Formalisy as the Cbrifians, whilf, G O D knows, my Heart is fomewhere elfe: All my Actions are out of their natural Byafo, fo long as I am abfent from the Society of Irme Believers

In a Word, I'm forc'd to imitate the Fox, which Creature, when it is environ'd with the Huntsmen and Dogs, counterfeits a Barking like the latter, and fo paffes undifcover'd for one of their Company.

8 Lettex Wrif by Wolvit.

 LETTER II.To tbe Reis Effendi, or Principal Secretary of the Ottoman Empire.sisha

1A M at thil Time poffeffied with more Apprehenfions and Jealoufies, than an old Infided Ufurer. My Lodging affects me with greater Melancholy than would a Prifon. And my Uneafinefs is the fame when I go out of Doors. Every Body that meets me, looks eitner as my Accufer or my Judge: And fome appear as terrible as Executioners' By Day, my Imagination tormente we like a Fury, and by Night, I am affrighted with melanchoiy Vifions. 1 drearn of nothing bat Racks, Wheels, Saws, Gibbets, and fuch like Infruments of human Cruelty. Or, That I am in fome dark Dungeon, condemn'd to mere unfufferable Tortures, by Order of the State; with Gaviinal Maxarinivi fitting by me, like a Spanibs Inguifitor, and in the mot T yranrical Manner, threatning me with Pains, to which the Damn'd themfelves are wholly Strangers, if I will not confefs what I am, and reveal the Secrets with which $I$ am entrufted.

The Occafion of thefe Terrors which harrafs me Night and Day, is this: I have for four or Five Days together, found my felf dogg'd up and down Paris, by a Man whofe Face 1 never faw before in my Life Let me go where I will, he's always at fome Diftance from me : If I fland ftill, fo does He : Or, if 1 tum back, He's quickly at my Heels. I have endeavour'd by all the prodent Methods I could take, to drop him in the Crowd of Peopie, or in the Churches: But all in vain; for Atill I encounter with the fame Face. He purfues me like my Shadow. Neither Coach nor Boax, Land or Water, Houfe or Alley, can refcue nie from this Fellow's Eyes, who is more quick-fighted than Argus, and nimbler than Mercury. He is very cunning alfo in this Bufinefs, and as dextrous as a Juggler; conveying himfelf when he pleafes out of my Sight; yet prefently after, he's in View again. And if I chance to lofe him in the Dark, I am fure to find him not far from my Lodging next Morning.

Vol.VI. a Spyat Paris.

This it is which gives me fo much Difturbance, and pierces me with a Thoufand Anxieties; for I know not what to conjecture of this Fellow's Defign. Sometimes I think he's employ'd by Cardinal Mazarini to watch my Motions, oblerve what Houles. and Company I frequent, and trace me in all my Appointments. And I am the more confirm'd in this Sufpicion, when I-reflect on my former Imprifonment in this City, and the Occafion of it. Befides, when I went Yefterday to fee Eliachim the Jewv, this Spark follow'd me 'near to the Door: And tho' I tarried there 'Two full Hours, yet when I came out, I had not walk'd a Hundred Paces, before I faw him again, footing it after me in a carelef! Manner, with his Arms folded, and his Eyes fix'd on the Ground, as if he knew nothing of the Matter. Thefe are convincing Circumftances, that he is fet at Work by the Cardinal, or fome Body elfe, to difcover my Bufinefs.

But when on the other Side, I confider, That if the Cardinal fufpected me, He might go a nearer Way to Work, and feize me in my Chamber, where my Letters would berray me, this Thought vanifhes, and I am at a Lois what to think.

Then comes into my Mind the Encounter I had once with my Sicilian Mafter, who Atrove to fet the Rabble upon me in the Streets of Paris; but my better Stars delivered me out of his and their

10 Lettens Writ by Vol. VI.

Hands, whilt, for aught I knew, he drew upon himfelf the Mifchief he defign'd for me. However, when I reflect on that Pafiage, I am apt to think he may be now in Paris, and having by fome Accident feen me go in or out at my Lodgings, contrives how to revenge himfelf on me, and ufes this Fellow's Affiftance in compaffing his Ends. Perhaps, think 1, he will caufe me to be flabtid or piftoll'd at fome convenient Scafon; or he will find out fome other Way, lefs noify and more malicious, to difpatch me. It may be he feeks to entrap me, and render me otnoxious to the State. I have a Thoufand Imaginations about it, and know not what to conclude. I value not my felf, nor am I careful to prolong a miferable Life for my own Sake. All that I can hope to enjoy in this World, would come far flort of tempting me to Akreen myfelf from the Stroke of Death, by an Action unworthy of a Philofopher, and a Man. But the Duty and Affection I owe to the Grand Signior's Service, makes me willing to live, till I have acquitted myfelf of my Provirce with perfect Succefs, that fo 1 may return to Conftantinctle with Honour: And then I care not how foon I poft to that unknown World, where all the Generations of Mortals take up their eternal Reft: For, in this there's nothing but Labour and Grief.

In the mean Time, I know not what Conduct to ufe in this Emergency; whether I'd belt to fpeak to this Fellow, or diffemble my Sufpicion ; whether it will be fafe to truft this Event to the General Providence, or to facrifice him that giles me to much Difquiet, and fo fecure my Peace. I csuld eafily have him difpatch'd without any farther Noife. But then my Confcience would trous ble me with After-Claps, leaft 1 mould have murtherd a Man without Reafon, which is exprefly Corbid by the Alcoran. Befides, I fhould always ftand in fear of fome Difcovery; I protelt, I am at a Lofs for Want of ample Intructions in fuch Cafes as thefe. And I am weary of mentioning what I have fo often intimated already to the Minilters of the Port, without any direct Aniwer. However, I will do what my Reafon fuggefts, and leave the Event to Defiiny.Happy Minifer / The Affairs of this World are full of dark Windings and Meanders; and we have all need of a Guide, or a Clew, to conduet us thro' them. May that Omaijrefent affift us, whenever we are catch'd in a Knot, or loft in a Labyrinth of Difficulces.

Vol.VI. a Spxat Panis. 11

Paris, 25 th of the gth Moom, of tbe Year 1659.

LETTER III.

To Abdel Melec Muli Omar, Prefident of the College of Sciences at Fez.

H H venerable Difpatch I receiv'd with Kiffes, and a Tranfport of Joy. I thrice touch'd my Eye-lids with the Paper of high Efteem, and as oft I laid it to my Ereaft. I broke up the Seals with Modefty and Revererice, and my greedy Eyes devoured the Lines of profound Wifdom; the Sentences and Aphorifms worthy to be written in Letters of Gold. Then 'twas I bleft the Hour of my Nativity, and the more happy-Moment wherein I firt had the Honour of thy Familiarity and FriendThip: Oh, Thou Sincere and Eximious Patron of fuch as love the Sciences! Renowned for thy Learning and Probity of Manners ! Prince of the B 6

12 Lettens Writ by Vol.VI.

 Afraqis, and Dafors! Croun of the Sage ASImbly of Pbilufopbern' Oracle of the Age!Glory be to GOD, who has neither Beginning nor End I Who alone poffefles the Infinite Expance and Life Eternal ; who is ador'd by the Inbabitants of Heaven, of Earth, and of Hell: Benediations on Micharl, Gabriel, IJpbrael, Leburiel, Jeremial, Hafevariel, and on all the Happy Minifters of his Divine Majefty; as alfo on the Angel of Deatb. Peace to the True Belicvers on Earth, and Salvation the the Devils and Damn'd, after they have accomplif'd their Penance in Heil, and the Term of Wrath thall be expir'd.

An univerfal Charity dilates my Heart; I embrace with Love ail the Creatures of GOD. This is owing to the feafonable Arrival of thy Letter: For at the Moment when that came, I was plung'd in fo deep a Melancholy, that I could hardly afford a kind Thought for any Thing on Earth, and I perfealy hated myfelf. I have thefe Fits of Saduels often, it being an Effect of my Couftitution.

At thofe Scafons, Life appears an infupportable Burthen, and all the Bufte and Noife of Mortals'a vain Fatigue. My Senfes, which at other Times, adminifter Delight and Pleafure, are now the Infruments of Anguith and Fain. Every Thing I fee and hear, digufts me, I abhor my Neceflary Food. Neither can the fweeteft Odours, or foffelt Strains of Mufick bring me into a better Temper: Till Sleep eelipfes the Light of my bufy Imagination, and puts out every glaring Thought. Then my Soul takes her Repofe: And ftealing from my Body, enters into the thady Vale of Vifions, and fports with innocent Ideas. 'Thus having divertod myfelf with jumbling Monftrous Efiences together, and hurlitig one Chimera at another, 1 return again to my Eody, and Sighing awake, griev'd that I could not longer flay in that Mock World, where rather than in Tbis, which gives me fo much real Pain. Thus is my Anguifh renew'd with the Morning. Light is more irkfome to me than Darknefs, and the Day which brings Joy to other Mortals, is more terrible to me than Night, and the Shadow of Death.I complain to the Elements, but they will not hear or regard me. All Nature feems to laugh at my Afliction, and the Beafts of the Field triumph over me. As for Men, here are none but Infdels, my profefled Enemies, to whom I can vent my Sorrows: And I'm atham'd to make a Woman my Confefor, tho' it were my own Mother, who lives in Paris, and daily fees me.

Vol.VI. $\quad \mathrm{S}_{\mathrm{PY}}$ at PARTs.  where I could have with'd my Refidence for Ever,

If, in this dolorous-Condition, I prepare myfelf with the accuftom'd Purifications of the Law, and addrefs to the Omnipotent, I know not where to find him. His Effence is. Unfearchable, and flies from Human Thought. I call him aloud by his Ninety-Nine Adorable Names, but receive no Anfiwer. I repeat his Incomprehenfible Attributes, but all to no Purpofe. In a Word, I fay and do all that the Law enjoins, the Prophet counfels, Holy Perfons recommend, or my own Reafon fuggefts, as proper Means to obtain the Favour of Heaven, and a Redrefs of my Calamity: But find no Comfort. And, for aught I know, that Spawiard might as foon be heard, who being ignorant what Form of Prayer to ufe, rehearfed the Four and Twenty Letters of the Alphabet, defiring GOD to form fuch Words out of em , as bett expreffed the Petitioner's Neceffities.

I tell Thee, Illuftrious Prelate, After I'm tir'd with vocal Devotions, I have Recourfe to Contemplation. I examine my paft Life, and find, That I myfelf am the Source of my own Melancholy, in not ftrietly obeying the Law of the Prophet, 14 Le,t TEAS Mrit by Vol. VF the Precepts of the Seniors, and the Dictates of my. Confcience: And all this, for the Sake of Loyalty to the Grand Signior, and in Confidence to the Mufti's Difpenfation Now I alk thee, Whether it be lawful to commit a Thoufand Vices, that I may only acquit myfelf fairly in one Virtue ? Or, to think, that in fuch Cafe, the Mufi has Power to difannul the exprefs, pofitive Injunctions of pur Holy Lawgiver? Is the Empire of the Faitbful to be ferv'd by the Infidelity and Prophanenefs of Mufulmans? Or, the Truth to be fupported by Lies and Perjuries?

I tremble to think what a Confufion I thall be in, when the Prophet thall reproach me, That I have preferr'd the Favour of Men, to the Smiles of Heaven. I know not what to do. Oh, that I were in the parching Defarts of Lybia? Or any the moft unfrequented Solitudes of Egypt ! A Companion of Dragons, and other horrid Monfters of Africk! Rather than in this Station, which renders my Life a Hell upon Earth, and torments me with half the Difquiets of the Damn'd.

But if this appears too extravagant and defperate a Thought, let me at leaft wifh myfelf at Fex, the meaneft of thy Slaves, or of thy incomparable $M u / u$ Abul Yabyan, of whom thy laft Letter gave fo high a CharaEter. I have addreffed a Difpatch to him, hoping for the Honour of his Friendifip and Corsefpondence.

Let not the Liberty I've taken to tell thee of my Sadnefs. difcourage thee from Writing: But reft alfur'd, That whenever thou fhalt vouchiafe me a Letter, though I were in the Agonies of Deatn, 'twould call me back again.

Paris, 25th of the g:h Moom, of the Year 1659.

Vol. VI. a Spy af Pakes.

LETTERIV.

To the Kaimacham.

THE SE Naxarenes are very fertile in new Rcligioms. Earope is a Wildernefs over-run with monfrous Seis and Herfies. Every Age produces frefh Pretenders to Propbecy and Divine Revelation. Error is prolifick, and multiplies infinitely, whilk Truth remains the fame for ever, and is comprehended in a few Rules.

Of late Years there are a Sort of People fprung up. in Englamd, Holland, Germany, and other Parts of the Nortb, boafting of a new Commiffion given them from Heaven, to preach the everlafting Truth, reform the Errors and Vices of Mankind, and lead People the only infallible Way to Happinefs Their Addrefs is Plain and Simple, Bold and Uniform, ufing no other Ceremonies or Compliments in their Difcourfe or Carriage to Perfons of the greateft 2nalify, than to the Vulgar, and thofe of the moft inferior Rank.

They file themfelves, The true Seed, the Off-gring of Jacob, Jeus of the Promife, Ifraelites withour Frand, with fuch like vain Titles; but by others they are generally call'd 2uakers.

They fay, the Ring-leader of this People, profeffes himedf to be the Mofras, being in all Parts of his Body, and Features of his Face, like Fefus the Son of Mary: Or, at leaft, 'tis obferved, That he exaclly refembles the Pourtraiture of him which Publius Lentulus fent to the Senate of Rome out of fudea, when he was Governor of that Province. Hence his Followers fcruple not to call him Jefurs, Tbe Beexty of Ten Thouland, Tbe enly begofiem Son of God, Tbe Propbet ubo is to feal up all Things, ## 36 Lexteke Writ by Vol,VI.

The Prince of Peace, King of Ifrael,. Fudge, Confolation and Hope of the World.

When he travels, his Difciptes attend him bareheaded, (which thou know'it is a Token of Reverence among the Franks) yet they never uncover to any ather Mortal. He Ades on Horfeback, whilft they walk on Foot before, behind, and on each fide of him, fpreading their Garments in the Way thro' which he paffes. The Hoofs of his Beaft tread only on Silks, or other coftly Stuffs. And as they enter any Town or City, they chaunt aloud his Praifes, proclaiming him The Sen of David, and Heir of the Divine Premifes.

All his Follecwers pretend to be Propbert, boafting of frange Illuminations and Raptures, forecelling Things to come, and reproaching the Vices of Governors, and the Greateft Princes, with a Boldnefs which has but few Precedents. In a Word, they every where preach, That G OD is laying the Foundation of a New Momarcby, which thall deftroy all the rel in the World, and fhall never have an End itfelf.

This gives a Jealoufy to the States where they live, and therefore they are perfecuted in all Places. Yet they appear very conitant in their Sufferings, and tenacious of the Doifrines they preach.
They feem, in my Opinion, to refemble one of our Mu $\int$ ulman Seels, who affert, That fefus the Son of Mary fhall return again upon Earth; That He Thall Marry, and Beget Children, be Anointed King of the Nations who believe in one God, and in this Glorious State fhall reign Forty Years; after which, He Thall fubdue Anticbrifi, and tien, thall follow the Diffolution of all Things. Yet the Oribodox Believers reject this Tenet as rabulous. Neither is there any Countenance given to it in that Verficle of the Alcoran, where tis iaid, Thou Mahomet fhalt fee thy Lord retura in tbe Clowds: Siace that only inthaneen the Glotious Defeent which Mypen, Yigut, and Mabomet fhall make from Paradife, with Emoch, Elias, and the One Hundred Twenty Four Thoufand Proptitis, to affemble the Elect at the Day of Jwag. ment.-If thou would't have my Opinion of thefe New Religionifs in Exrope, and their Leader; I take him to be an Impofier, and his Followers to be either fools or Madmen. Even fuft fuchr another Crieiw as thofe who follow'd Mefoileima, in the Days of our Holy Lawv-giver. This was an Arabian Impofior, who pretended to fet up for a Propbct, and attempted to compofe a Book like the Afcoras. But he was infa. tuated with a vair Arrogance, and there was no Truth of Elegance in bis Writings, no Juftice on his Side, nor Undertanding in him or his Party. To be fhort, both he and they were all cut to Pieces in the Vale of Alireb, by the Troops of Abw-Beariffadic, the Firt Calipto.

Vol.VI. aSpylat Pance. 17

As to thefe modern Seducers, they are not Men of Armis, but a Hend of filly, infigaificant People, aiming rather to heap up Riches in Obrcurity, than to aequire Fame by an Heroick Undertaking. They are generally Merchants, or Mechanicks, and are obr ferv d to be very. Punctual in their Dealings. Men of few Words in a Bargain, Modeft and Compos'd in their Deportment, Temperate in their Lives, and ufing great Frugality in all Things. In a Word, They are fingularly Induftrious, fparing no Labour or Pains to increafe their Wealch; and to Subcle and Inventive, that they would, if pofible, extrad Gold out of Afhes. I know none that excel them in thefe Characters, but the fows and the Bamians: The Former being the Craftieft of all Men, and the Latter fo fuperlatively Cunning, that they will overreach the Dovil.

But thefe are no Signs of a Pure Religion; for that only prefcribes the Methods of withdrawing 18 Lextera Write by Yolott and feparating the Soul from the Contagion of Earthly Things, and of uniting it to the Deity, which is its Source.

Illuftrions Kaimachems-I bid thee Adieu, praying, That Thou and I may at laft meet in that Centre of all Things, after our various. Epicycles apd isxcurfions iat this lower. World win ,iq an ni ch wigin? alouy gatien ed ar surch Tere bas mayel rood on ISenc a Difluarb fome Moens paft to the Cadilfguier of Romeli, Guardian of the Iinpotial Canems, Imeoprefer of the Laws of Equity; wherein I inform'd him of the Advances that were made in order to $\omega$ Pebice berween Fravice and Spain. Now I can wfire thee, That Peace is concluded, and the Articles fign'd on both Sides by the Two Plenipotentiariess :s 1 need inot repeat what I patticularly related to that Granidec. My Letters are aill publifh'd in the Dican, and regifter'd. Yet it will not be unwelcome perhaps to thee, to hear with what Nicenefs of PunCtitio, there wifidel Minifites meet to accomplifh an Affair, whereon depends the Intereft and Honear of their refpective Mafters. the Happinefs of the Iwo King doms. and the General Byafs of all the Weft. There is a little Tfland form'd by she River Bidapoar, call'd the Ife of Pbea) ants, through the Middie of which a Line is drawn, which axaetly feparates the Territories of both Monarchs. Tnis Place was agreed on for the Intervicew of the Two Miniflers. Each had his Bridger to enter the Ifand in 1755.

 जएकी LETTERY

that

Val. VI. a Spyat Panis. 19

that Part which belong'd to his Mafter. And over the Line of Separation was erefted a large Diviaw or Conntil-Room, to be enterd only by Two privare Doors, one out of Cardinal Mazerimi's Lodgings, raifed on the French Side of the Coancil-Room, the other out of Don Lowis d Aiv's A partment, built on the Spanifb Side.
Each of thefe Minifters was accompanied by feved ral Princes and Grandees of the Court, and above Sixty other Perfons of Quality, with a Guard of Four Hundred Horfe and Foot, to fecure their Bridges, and the Place of Conference. In a Word, Things were manag'd with fo much Moderation, and good Succefs, that the Marefcbal de Gramont was fent Ambaflador Extraordinary into ipain, and receiv'd at that Court with infinite Civilities and Honoar.

- The Subjeat of his Negotiation was to treat of a Matcb beiween the King his Mafter, and the Infanta of Spain. His Condua and Addrefs were fuch, as foon procur'd the Catbolick King's Confent : And from that Time the Marefcbal approach'd the Infantd with more than ordinary Submiffions, efteeming her now as the 2 neen of France. Soon after this, the Nuptial Contrag and the Peace were mutually fign'd, to the immenfe Joy of the Subjects of both Sides, who were very glad to exchange the Toilt and Calamities of War, for the Sweets and Profits of Pace:

It will be endlefs to iniert here all the Articles on which they agreed. Twockill bo worth the Rnowledge of the Supreme Divam And thafe are, the Releafe of Cbarles, Duke of Lorrain, on the Spanis King's Side': And, on the Part of the King of Franct, the Reftoration of the Prince of Cande to the free Poffeflion and Enjoyment of all his Eftates, Honours, Dignities, and Privileges, as the firft Prince of the Royal Blood, with the Government of the Provinces of Bowrgoigne and Breffe.

A litcle

20 Levters. Writ by Vol.VI.

A little before chefe Articles were fign'd, the Young Prince of Spain dy'd fuddenly, not having feen twelve Mooms. I mention'd the Birth of this Royal Infant in one of my Letters, and the extraordinary Solemnities that were made thereupon by the King of Spain, and his Ambáfiadors at Foreign Courts. Thefe. Infidels appear in all Things too paffionately affected with the Glories of our Mortal State, which at the Heighth are but tranfient Shadows, or fomething lef confiderable.
I'm amaz'd at the bold Rebellion of the Bafa of Aleppo, and that he fhould endeavour to cheat the Empire with fo ftale an Impollure, as a fham Son of Amarath. Yet i: feems he made a confiderable Progrefs under this Pretence. Some were glad of Novelty, others were frighten'd out of their Allegiance: Whilt only a few ferved his Intereft in pure Difcontent, and Hopes to amend their Fortune. The Country People are generally opprefs'd by their Governors, and 'is no Wonder if they take up Arms for one that promifes to deliver them from their Calamities. This is the ufual Pretext of all Innovations in the State. The Soldiers are alfo defrauded of their due Pay; and then they are ready to fight under the next General that bringa moft Money with him. Neither are there wainting Mal-contents among the Grandecs at fuch Times, to foment and abet an Infurreciiom.

All thefe Events proceed from the ill Conduct of the Supreme Minitterss who alone are refponfible for the Mifcarriages of the Stare."
Illuftious Kainmachom, the Frame of the Ottomas Government is out of Order; I wifh Fate does not pull it is Pieces, as a neceilary Step to its Amendment. Adieu:

Paris, 2d of the laft Moom, -If the Ticar 1659.

Vol. VI. a Sprat Panis. 22  LETTERIV.

To Hamet, Reis Effendi, Primcigal Sorctary of the Ottoman Empire.

IWim thee all imaginable Joy of thy new Dignity; yet quettion, Whether thou or thy Predecefior be the Happier Min. Tis a vaft Honour indeed, and attended with immenfe Profit, to ferve in this Station the moft High, moft Potent, and mot Invincible Monarch on Earth. But at the fame Time, there's infinite Toil and Fatigue in it, with Abundance of Perils, From all whihh the fortunate Maslu is now defiver'd, and they are become thy Portion.

As for him, I camnot but efteem him happy, in that he has got Permiffion to retire to his CountrySeat, out of the Croud and Noife of the City, and from the fiffling Bofineffes of State, which choak the more innocent and natoral Delights of the Sour. Now he is fully reftord to the Elements, and to himfelf; whereas before, the perpetual Hurry of the Court, mate him in Part a Stranger to both : For there a Man infenfibly fofes Acquaintance with his own moft intimate Affections. His Spirit is alienated amidft the Multiplicity of his Concerns; 'cis ftretch'd on the Rack of Ten Thouffand Cares and Inquietudes ; tis divided, flatter'd, and rent in Pieces.

Befides, Were he as free from thefe dittracting Thoughts as a Santone; yet the very Neceffity of living always in a City, was enough to render him miferable. For I eiteem fuch a Confinement no better than a Prifon at large; and not far from being buried alive.
'Tis true, Comfantinople has the Advantage of all the Cities in the World, for the Delightfulnefs of its Situation ; the Houfes being fo pleafantly intermix'd with fair Gardens, and the Screets yefrefh'd with cold Breezes from the Sea. It looks at a Diftance like a Town in a Wood: Or one may term it a Foreft compofed of Minarets and Cy preffes. The. Terafics afford agrecable Proipects of the neighbouring Fields and Mountains ; and 'tis pleafant to ftand on the Water-fide, and view the innumerable Varieiy of Boats and Veffels failing from one Port to another, with all the other Divertifements on the Sea, and the beautiful Mixture of Pa. laces and Groves, Chiofes and Gardens, Seraglio's, and Villages, which grace the oppofite Shores. O 2ueen of Cities, Mifrefs of Kingdoms, Glery of Na. tions, Commandi cfs and Sanciuary of the whole Eartb! Thrice happy fhould I count my felf, if imight have the Favour to refide within thy venerable Walls, and exchange the polluted Society of Infidils, for that of True Belicerrs.

22 Lettere Writ by Vol.VI.

How often do I languih to fee the glittering Crefcents, the triumphant Enfigas of the Ottomams on the Tops of the Minarets in the Imperial City ! How oft do. I with myfelf proitrate on the Carpets of the facred Mofques, in the devout Affemblies of the Faithful, adoring the Eternal in the Perfection of Sandity! Whereas, now I'm forc'd to go into the Icmple of Idolaters, to kneel and bow down before Stocks and Statues, to join feemingly with Unbelice. ers, and pray to that which has no Life, nor Senie, nor Power.

How do I envy the bleffed State of the meaneft Artizan in Conflantinople, who daily feeds on the wholefome Pillaw of the Eaft, and drinks the delectable Sbcrbets, or Waters, tinEur'd with the rich Fruits of Greece? Whereas, I am compell'd to Eat Meats forbidden by our Holy Propbet, and to render my Soul execrable, by an impure and profane Diet, or 1 muft Starve. For thefe Uncircumcifed are thore abominable than Revens and $V_{\text {ulfirites, to }}$ whom the niof filthy Carrion is a Dainty. And to doak theif Uncleannefs, they corrapt their own Gopel, and forge a Toleration from the Meffas himv feif. A if that Holy Propbit, who, in every the leait Tittle obeyed the Lave of Mofrs, and fee bimfelf as an Example for his Followers to imitate, could be guity of contradicting thofe Divine Precepts, and running counter to his own Practice, in recommending Uncleannifs and Libcritivim. No: The add mirable Son of Maty, was the mof Temperate and Abtemious Man if the World, and both in his Words and Actions preach'd ap thofe Virtues to others; having of en exprefly declar'd to his Difitiplis, Tbat be came not to abolifh the Law, but to refine and perfect if

Wbivit aspat Pikis.

He was Circumcifed on the Eighth Day after his Na*ivity, according to the Injunction of Moles, and the conflant Practice of the Sons of Ifred In a Word, Through the whole Coarfe of his Life, he ne ${ }^{2}$ ver deviated from the Traditions of his Fathers; the Seniors of the Houfe of Jacob.
'Tis true, he frequently argued againft the many trivial Superftitions of the Pbarifoes, who evacuated the more effential Points of the Law, by fuperinducing a Numbet of infignificant Ceremonies : But hemever open'd his Mouth againft any pofitive Precept ; fuch as were thofe which limited the Choice they were to make of Meats, dittinguifhing the Impure from the Clean. Yet the Chriftians delude themfelves with a falfe Belief, that he gave them a Difpenfation to eat any Thing, without Caution or Referve.
Hence it is, that they defile themelves with Swine's Flefh and creeping Things, and Blood is in all their Dithes. They ficruple not to eat of that which died of itfelf, and banquet as frecly with what was knock'd down or Atrangled, as we would do with the Flefh, of a Beaf that was kill'd in pronouncing the Name of GOD. The Shambles here afford no other Provifion but fach as this : and he that, will not Eat that which is an Abomination to 2 Musiulmak, muft be contented with Herbs. This I reckon $2 s$ one of the Greatell of my Misfortunes, and it makes me burn widh Defire to return to ConAenstimople.Yet, after all, 1 fhould think myfelf far more bappy, if I might have the Liberty to fpend the reft of myy Days in my Native Country : So great an Admiter I am of a Rural Life, and Solitude. And pis for this Reafon, I count thy Predeceffior a bappy Man, in having the Privilege of a fweet Retirement; where he may take Breath from the vain Importunity and Bufle of Mortals.

24 Lexters. Writ by Vol. VI.

In the mean Time, there is a Spccies of Felicity in thy Employment: And thou can it not be called miSerable, fo long as thou acquitteft thyfelf fairly, and enjoyeft the Favour of thy Soveregn.
I perceive by thy Letter, That Thou art curious to know the Charatern of Foreign States, with the various Interefts of Naxarene Princes; the Intrigues of thele Wiffern Courts; their Overtures of Peace and War; and the different Laws, Maxims, and Cuftoms by which the People are govern'd. Thy Converation with Ambaffadors at the Porta, will furnifh thee with Abundance of ufefal Remarks in this Kind : But fince Thou requireft me to fend my Obfervations, I will hereafter obey thy Commands in fucceffive Letters; for chis is too large a Theme for one Di/patch.

At prefent, Thou may't receive and regifter for true News, That the Peace between France and Spain has been fign'd by both Kings, and folemnly publith'd throughout their Territories, with inexprefible Joy and Magnificence. It is certain alfo, That the King of Sweden is dead, and the Duke of

Orleans

Vol, VI. a Spy at PARis. 25

 Orleams, Uncle to the Frencb King: Which has in seme Meafure qualified the Mirth of the French on this Occafion. Affuredly, Human Affairs are equally checquer'd with Good and Evil. Blifs comes not to us in pure unnaix'd Streams. Deatb keeps an even Pace, and knocks as boldly at the Gates of Kings, as at the Cattages of the meanest Slaves.It is the Part of a Wife Man, to be always refign'd to Heavem, and prepar'd for the worft Events: As for the Boft, they never come amifs.

Paris, 17 th of tbe 3 d Moons of the Vear 1660.

LETTER VII.

To Dgnet Oglou.

3HALL I converfe with thee, as Horace ufert to do with his Friends,over a Glafs of generus Wine? Lex us lay afide Mafques for a while, and difcourfe with open Souls. I believe thou hat as equal a Veneration for our Holy Propbet as I; and halt been educated in all the Tenderneffefs of Piety, the Niceties of Divine Love, as our Mollabs are pleafed to call if. We have been both of us careful to rife before the Sun, and fay our Oraifons every Morning in a Demi-Trance, that is, half afleep, and half awake. This, no doubt, is a neceflary Point of Piety. And we have been no lefs folicitous in obferving the other Four Heurs of Prager. Either of us would have accounted it an irreligious Negligence, if we had feen a Piece of Paper on the Ground, and had not foppd to take it up, with Reverence wiping off the Dirt, and kifing the Tabula Rifa, on which Men we to write the Neme of GOD. As if 'twere not an C equal Argument of Refpect, to fecure from Profanation, Sticks, Stones, Rags, or any Thing whereon 'twere poffible to engrave of print the All-Myfierious Charalicrs: Nay, or the very Sands themfelves, which, as fome fay, were the Firft Bocks on Earth. However, if they were not the Firf, we are fure, That in very early Ages, Men ufed to ftamp their Memoirs, or draw them out in perceptible Figures on the Surface of the Earth: Witnefs the old Ship-wreck'd Pbilofopher, who being caft afthore in an unknown Land, foon traced out the Manners of the People, by certain Matkematical Imprefions which he found in the Sands: For, he concluded thefe to be the very Footfeps of Humanity and Virtue. But, to return to the Bufinefs of Religion? We have been obedient to the Inftructions of our Fathers and Tutors; zealous in obferving every $P_{\text {aun- }}$ aillio of Traditional Piety: We have fafted, prayed, wafhed, and given Alms, at the appointed Seafons, and in the Manners prefcrib'd by the Lew. All thefe, I own, are commendable Exercifes: But methinks, they are not the folid and fubftantial Parts of True Religion. I hate Hypocrify, and the devout Wantonnefs of fome who think to mock GOD with Ceremonies and empty Forms. It were much better to mix with the Idolatrous Rites of Bacsbus (if they deferve. that Epitbet) and rant in Honour of eternal Wine, talk reputed Blafphemy, and reform the Model of the Univerfe; 1 fay, I'd chufe to do all this, and more, rather than cheat myfelf with empty Hopes of gaining Paradife, for acting to the Life, the Shams of pioas Mimickry.

26 Letters Writ by Vol. VE.

I would not have thee think, That what I ha f now faid, proceeds from any Contempt of the 1 ternal Majefty.

By thofe fair Heavcnsabove, and all the Immo $t: l$ Spangles of the Sky, I fwear, There's not a Faculty in Mulmut's Scul, which is not filld with Gratitud.

Vol.VI. a SPY at PARIs.

and Veneration, which does not burn with Flames of facred Love to the adorable Fountain of all Things. In a Word, I only frive to refcue my Friend from the Attempts of pious Frauds, and the religious Burlefques of our Mellab's and Mufti's.

Believe me dear Dgnet, That there is a GOD, a Firft Caufe, a fuf fudge prefiding over the World: Believe alio his Propbet, the Holy, the Beloved Mabomet, the Minion, as I may fay, of the Omnipotent. But; have fome Faith alfo for the reft of his Mefiengers and Favourites. Let not Hali be thought of without fome inward Flurries of Devotion. He was a Muf. fulman, and the Fourth Caliph, tho' his Followers be damned Hereticks in our Divinity. Had Bight taken Place, perhaps he had been the Firt of the Vicars, but his Caule was fufpended by his Ablence. Let him and that reft, till the Final Inquifition. And acknowledge that I have faid too little for at Scbiai, and not too much for a Sunni.

I know no Reafon alro, Why we thould not reverence the Memoirs of Mercuy, Orpbeas, Cadmus, Melifus, Faunus, and the reft of the ancient Sages and Law-givers, who inftructed the Nations of the Earth in the Myfteries of Religion, taught them to adore One Supreme GOD, to believe the Immortality of the Soul, and to practice Good Works.

What, tho' the Ceremonies of the Wer/bip were different from ours, and perhaps polluted with an unjuiltifiable Adoration of Images? What tho' their Al , tars reeik'd with the Blood of flain Beafts, and fone. times fmoak'd even with Human Sacrifices & Thefe barbarons Rites were not inflituted by the Firf Oracle, of Religion, Illuminated Souls, Nuncio's from God to this Lower World: But they were afterwards fuperinduced, through the Corruption of Times, the Avarice of Priefts, and the Supertition of the People. And, for aught we know, onr own Hifterians have not been impartial in relating the Truth.

28 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

There is an innate Envy between People of different Families and Nations. Both we and our Fathers, that defcend from Abrabam by I/mael, and the Foess who are his Pefterity by IJaac, have been too favourable to the Off'spring of that Beloved of GOD. We generally entertain and clerifh a fpecifick Pride on the Score of our illuftrious Pedigree; Efpecially the fows, who will not allow any People on Earth to be their Equals, either in Point of Antiquity, the Nobility of their Race, or the innumerable Multitude of their Brechren. Whereas they confider not, that they are difperfed up and down over the whole Earth, like Sheep without a Shepherd, not permitted to poffefs a Cubit of Land, which they can call their own : Contemn'd, hated, and made a Proverbial Scoff amiong all Nations: Infamous Vagabonds, Ufurers, Slaves, and Pimps to other Mens Pleafures: Men of no Fame, or Character: Finally; In their prefent Circumfances, the moft fusrious and ignoble, of all the Son of Adam, except the Kafars of Etbiepia, who feed on the Guts and Dung of Beafts.
"Tis true, indeed, their Ancettors made a confidesable Figure in the Werld, in the Days of Solomon, and other vielorious Kings, during their Poffeffion of Palefine. And yet, in thofe very Times they were ofien humbled and led away into Captivity, by the mere fortunate Kings of Babylen, Perfia, and ADyria, and afterwards fubdued by the Greciams; till, at laft, they were totally ruined, their Cities laid wafte, their Temple burnt to Athes, and their Country quite difpeopled by the Romams.

If we afcend yet higher, to their celebrated Migration out of $E_{q y p t}$, oi which their own Hiftorians make fuch a Noile, and tell fo many Fabulous Wonders, we fhall find a very Mean and Contemptible Character given of them by Essptian Writers, and thofe other Nations, Men of as great Authority as fofepher, or anly other Fewijb Hiforiams. Ma. sethos, a Prielt of Egypt, calls them a Crew of leprous and nafty People, and fays, they wete expell'd the Counury by Amcwopbis, then reigning, and driven into Syria; their Caprain being Mofes, an Egypriam, Prieft. A like Relation we have from Cbaremon, an Author of good Credit among the Grorks, who tells us, That in the Reign of Amenopbis, Two Hundred and Fify Thoufand Lepers were forcibly banifh'd out of Egypt, under the Conduct of $\mathcal{T}_{i}$ : firbers ard Petefetb (i. e. Mefes and Marom.) And tho other Writers differ in the Name of the King then reigning in Egypt, yet all agree in affetting the Ifraelites to be a nafty Sort of Peopie, over run with Scabs and infectious Boils, and that they were efteem'd the Scam and rilth of the Nation. Tacitus, a Roman W riter, of unqueftionable Authority, adds, That Mofes, one of the exild Lepers, being a Man of Wis and Reputation among them, when he faw the Grief and Confufion of his Brethern, bid them be of good Chear, and neither truft the Gods, or Men of Egypt, but only confide in him, and obey his Counfel: For, that he was fent from Heaven to be their Conductor out of this Calamity, and to proteet them from all their Enemies. Upon which, the People not knowing what Courfe to take, furrender'd themfelves wholly to his Difpofal ; from whick Time be became their Captain and Law-giver, leading them through the Difarts of Arabia, where they committed great Rapine and Spoil, putting Man, Woman and Child, to the Sword, burning their Ci ties, and laying all Things defolate. Dear Dgnct, What could be faid worfe of a Company of Rebbers and Banditti?

Vol. VI. a Spy at PARis.

Mofes is gone to Paradife, and when I mention his Name, it is with a profound Reverence; for he was the Greateft of the Ancient Prophets. Yet give me leave to have fome Regard for my own Realon.

30 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

He was but a Mortal as well as I; and without doubt, was not exempt from Human Frailties. He had the Advantage to be educated in the Collcge of the Royal Priefs at Mempbis, which none of his Nation could boait of befides himfelf. Suffer me to tell thee my Thoughts frankly, and without Difguife. Magick and Afrology were the only Sciences then in Vogue: And he, being perfectly vers'd in all the Myfteries and Secrets of Egyptian Wijddom, 'twas no hard Tafk for him to poffefs the rude and ignorant Sons of Facob, with 2 profound Attach and $Y$ eneration for his Perfon ; and in that diftreffed Condition, to mould their flexible Spirits to what Difcipline he pleafed.

Sufpect me not for an Irfidcl, or an Atbrift, becaufe 1 difcourfe with this freedom. I have heard fome of our Molab's fay, a great deal more in their private Converfation. And 'tis a fupefticious Timorouinefs, not to be bold in the Excrcife of our Reafon, which taught even the Prophet Mofes himfelf, the Method of Conqueft, and getting a Fame which fhould know no End.

I am not ambitous, nor would I tempt thee to afpire at an undue Grandeur: But let us not be lefs than ourfelves, that is, Men. There is no Reafon we fhould be impos'd upon by fabulous Reports of interelted and defigning Writers: Or, That we fhould give Faith to every credulous Fool. Doubtlefs, there were many Nations eftablifh'd on Earth before the Ifraelites; and great Propbets, who were not of the Lineage of Abrabam. The Date of the Olympiads is much more certain to a Day, nay, to an Hour, than the Hegyra of the I/raelites; fince the former is demoftrated by the Exlipfes of the Sun and Moon, interwoven by the Gentile Hiftoriams in the Body of their Hifory; whereas the latter is defective in this material Point, and is expofed to a Thoufand Difputes among Writers.

Vol.VI. a SPY at PARis. 3 I

My Friend, Let not Thou and I trouble ourfelves with needlefs Controverfies, or be zealous for Things of no Moment ; but Adoring One GOD, and believing what is Rational, we may poffefs our Souls in Tranquility, and Peace.

Paris, 1 th of the 5 th Moom, of tbe Year 1660.

LETTER VIII.

To the Kaimacham.

AT length, afier a long Alienation, the Prince of Conde is reftored to the King s Favour: For which he is obliged to the King of Spain. I have already intimated in one of my Letters, That this was agreed on in the Treaty of Peace between there Two Crowns, as an Article Equivalent to that of the Duke of Lorrain's Releafe, follicited by the King of France. Now 'tis put in Execution, and the Rebel Prince is received with Abundance of Careffes, by the King, Quetn-Motber, Cardinal Mazarimi, and the whole Court.

He is counted the valianteft Man of this Age; and was fo pronounced long ago by the Marejcbal Turenne, who is a Soldier of no mean Character, both for his Judgment and Curaje. He was once extremely belov'd by all the French. But his Wildnefs and Inconftancy, with the defructive Effects of the Civil Wars which he rai ${ }^{\text {' }}$ ed, changed their Affectious for a while, into Indifference, Coldneis and Illwill. But now all's well again.

He, and his Brother the Prince of Conti, feldom agreed, being often the Heads of contrary Parties, during the Minority of this King, And the Younger being

32 Letterg Writ by Vol. VI.

being cr mp thoulder'd, Conde afed to be a little Sarcaftick upon him, threatning to thave his uncourtly Back into the Fafhinn with his Sword.

It is certain the Prince of Conde was very wild and profufe whien Young but now he begins to take icberer Meafures. During his Father's Life, he was called the Duke of Enguien. And, to seflect on the Parfimony of the Old Prince, he ufeft to take feveral Handfuls of Gold with one Hand, and fill a Purfe, faying, Tbs is my Fatber's Prastice. Then he would turn the Purfe upfide down with tother Hand, and fcattering the Goid among his Favouritis, would add, This is my Humour.

Once as he was palfing on Foot through a Town in Framee, under his Father's Government, the chief Migitrate of the Place, who was anOld Man, meet him. and began to make an Oration with the beit Rhetorick he could. But, the Prince being in a frolick fome Humour, took Adiantage of a very low Conge the old Gentleman made him, and leap'd over his Head, and ftood ftill behind him. The Magifrate not taking any Notice of this wild Prank, turn'd very gravely about, and addreffed himelf with a new Obeifance, but not fo low as the former. However, the nimble Prince catch'd him apon the Half bent, and fetting his Hand upon the old Momfrur's Soulders, whipt over again the Second Time; which quite fpoil'd his intended Speech, to the great Diverfion of all the Spectators.
in his Youth he was múch addizted to Women, and took a peculiar Delight in debauching Nums; which occafion'd the 2ueen-Motber to reflect on him fomething Satyrically once, when he inform'd her, That the Suife Soldiers were guilty of great Diforders, fome of them getting into the Nunneries, and violating the Chaftity of thofe confecrated Females. For the Qucen replied, If you bad told me they broke into the Wine Collars, 1 quould beliceve gou;

Vol. VI, a SPY at PARis. 33

for the Suifies are all known Drumkards. But as for Amours with Nuns, none is folikely to make theth as tioe Duke of Enguien

However, All that I have faid, hinders not but that he is now a prudent Man, a good General, and Fortunate in recovering his Soveicign's Favour.

In a Word, this Court is fo overjoyed at the Marsiage of the King with the Infanta of Spain, they have no Room left for peevih Refentments. Alt Crimes are forgiven ; and the Devil iimfelf would bo welcome at the Wedding, provided he would be debomair, and good Company

The Nuptials are only celebrated by Proxy as yet: But here are valt Preparations making for the compleating the Ceremony.

What the Ifue of this Marriage and Peace will be, 'tis not eafy to divine: But I doube, the Cbrifitiams are hatching Evil againit the Ottoman Port, in regard a the Primces in Europe are coming to an Agreement.

Illuftrious Kainsacbam, Let not this Intimation priss away as a Dream. For I tell thee again, there Ingidels are plotting of Mifchief.
Patis, if of the 7th Meon, of the Yaar 1660.

LETTER IX.

To tbe Same

IBelieve thou wilt now receive from me the carlieft News of a mighty Cbange, a furprizing Revolation in the Eaglifh Government. Know then, That he whom I have fo often mentioned, under the Tide of King of the Scots in my former Letters, the Eddeft Son, and Rigktful Heir of the Britiß Kingdoms, Cbarles II. is retored to the Tbrene of his Fatber's without Violence or Bloodthod, by the unanimous Confent and earneft Defire of his Subjects.

C 5
withous

34 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

This young Prince has been an Exile for twelve Years in Foreign Courts, and has heard of as many feveral Alterations in the State of his Dominions, during his Abfence ; every Change producing a new Form of Government. The Ribels had run over all Arifotle's Politicks, and the various Models of Plato, and other Pbilooppers, who treated of Commorwealths, to find out fuch Patterns as beft fuited with the Neceffities and Genius of that Nation. Tlee is not a Species of Arifocracy, Democracy, and Oligarchy, which they did not put in Practice, to fupport the Frame of that Government, whofe Bafis they had moved; for it was founded on a Monarchy of a-long and hereditary Defcent. And therefore all their moft artificial Contrivances were ineffectual, and they might as well have endeavoured to make Buttrefles for a Caftle in the Air. In a Word, the Engli/b found themfelves fo dif-jointed and weakened by Civil Wars, Taxes, and the other ufual Effects of Ufurpation and Tyramny, that they had no other Way left to fave their Nation from utter Ruin, but by bringing their Lawful King back again, who is the Angular Stone whereon all their Welfare and Intereft is built.

There is one Thing remarkable in this Turn of Englifb Affairs,' That their Sovereign landed and made his Triumphant Entry into that Ifland, on the Anviverfary Day of his Birth. Which puts me in mind of what is generally difcourfed here at Paris ; That on the Day of his Nativity, there was feen a bright Star in the Heavens, when the Snn was jult above the Meridian. From hence the Aftrologers of chofe Times predicted great Things concerning him. And thofe of the prefent Age, who have feen his Fortune to return to his Kingdoms, prefage yet greater Events to come.

Vol. VI. -a SPY at PARIS. 35

GOD only knows what Embryo's are in the Womb of Futurity ; and we MuJulmans have no Reafon to rejoice at the Grandeur of any of thefe Infidel Princes. Yet, fuch a Sign as that of a Star appearing at Noon-Day, juft over the Place where a mighty Queen was in Labour with a Prince, has fomething in it Extraordinary, and full of promifing Circumflances. It was an Appearnce of this Nature which render'd the Birth of the Mefias fo Illuftrious, tho, otherwife Obfcure enough ; when, the Eaftern Magi, directed by fuch a Star, came and found Mary the Mother of $\mathcal{F}_{\mathrm{f}} \mathrm{fus}$ in a Stable, and the Infant Propbet lying in a Manger, intead of a Cradle. So we are told, That Eclipfes of the Sun portend the Misforture or Death of great Perfonages ; and, That all other Prodigies, whether in Heaven or Earth, have their proper Signification.

But whether thefe Obfervations be true or no, 'tis certain, this late banifh'd Prince is return'd with Abundance of Splendor and Advantage to his native Royal Poffeffions. And I thought it would be a grand Negleet in me, to let one Poft-Day pafs, before I gave thee an Account of a Revolution fo aftonifhing to all Europe, and which is like to give a new Turn to the Affairs of mof Chriftian Princes and States.

Befides, I know there is an Ambafiador from $E_{n g}$ land refiding at the Auguft Porte, which determines the Quarrels of all the Nation on Earth. 'There are alfo Abundance of Engliß Merchants in the Impericl City. They may have Feuds among oneanother. The Intereft of fome of them is join'd with that of the Engliy 3 Rebels; others are for their King. Therefore knowing of his Refioration, thou wilt be better able to adjuft all Matters of this Na ture, according to Reaion, Equity, and the Honour of the majeftick Porte. For this King makes already a greater Figure than any of his Progenitors; C 6

36 Letters Writ by Vol.VI. and therefore his Friendhip is not to be contemn'd.

The Care of thefe Things reft on thee, who att the Vicar's Vicar of the Vicagerent of GOD.
Paris, $3^{\text {dof }}$ the 7 th Moom, of the Year $\mathbf{1 6 6 0}$.

LETTER X.

To Mehemet, an exil d Ennuch, at Caire iu Egypt.

oH that I were in one of the Pjraswids near the City where thou refideft, thut up in tromendous Darknefs, in the moft obfcure and horrible Vault of the Royal Pile! That I might converfe with the Gbofs of Egytian Kings, hug Dewoms in my Arms, and run the Gerit with Hobgoblins, and all the Sjirits of the Night round the Tomb of Clooops, or up and down the difmal Galleries, or in the Neft of Bats, Screccb.Orls, Harpies, and the reft of the Winged Monfors, the Excrementitious Spawn of Human Souls, or at leaft the Siperfatation of pickled Carcaffes, repofited there for eternal Mummies, fome of them before Noab's Flood, and the reft after, if the Story be true. God knows whether it be or no: That's nothing to me: But I bave ftrong Inclimafion to try what I can find in thofe antique Monuments, after all the Search of fo many Travellers I have a Specifick Sort of a Melancholy upon me, which cannot be vented any other Way, than by keeping Company with the Dcad, or having Ten Hundred Thoufand ugly rampant Spirits dancing their Infernal Meafures about me, and grinuing like Baboons of Hell. Oh, G O D! how 'twould fet me a Laughing! An Entertainment of this Naturn would would cafe my Splien, and reftore me to a good Hz mour.

Vol.VI. a Spyat Paris.

Are there no Beingt extant, but thofe which are: every Day expofed to our Senfen? $\mathrm{On}_{4}$ is Nature poorer than the Imagination of 8 Mertal, which caan form the ilhas of an Infinity of Criatures that he never faw I I an cloy'd with the Crambe of Objeets and Joys which thefe narrow Elemients afford, and therefore would groge out fome new and untry'd World, to find Refrethment in.

But oh, my Mabemet, whert I look toward the Heavens, and behold the Moon and Stars; when my Eye is loft in the boundlefs Firmament, and my Soul can find no Limien to the Univerfe; then I fink into myfilf, full of Hutnility and Confufions becaufe I have injurioully reproach'd the Ommipotenty. and cat Obloguies on his Works. For all Things appear admirable Beautiful and Perfect, and the leait Atom is large enough to afford Apartments for a Tboufand Souls. Every Thing in Nature is pregnant and full of pleafing Wonders: Yet I cannot be free from thefe Hypochomdriac Fits at certain Seafons. I am fometimes the faddef and mot melancholy Man in the World. I take all Things by the wrong Handle, look on them through falfe Opicks, and yet perfuade myfelf I am in the right, and fee them in their true Complexion. Such is the fatal Sophiftry of this black and fudden Paffion ; it takes away the Guf and Relifh of the fweeteft Enjoyments. And if the Contagion could pofitibly find Admittance among the Ble's $d$ above, furely, 'twould render their Paradife a Hell, and would afford fome Ground for the Fiction of the ancient Poets, who brought up the Uife of Napenthe among the Gods, to appeafe their Choler, and put 'em in a good Humour.

I know not what that Drink was: But I tell thee, my Nefentbe in a Glafs of good Langueder Wine, which which is as rich, and far more dilicious than the Wines of Tenedes and Mitylene. I once could boaft of another Method to fubdue my Melancholy, by giving Battle to my Thoughts in open lield; but now I am fain to have Recourfe to Stratagems and Ambufcades, trapanning the ugly hideous Monfters out of their ftrong Retrenchments and Faftneffes in the Spleen, by generous Frolicks with Wine, Women and Mufick. I bury all Care in profound Sleep, the Effect of brik and free Drinking: And then I awake as merry as a Lark; as Young as if I'd been in Medea's Cauldron.

38 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

What fignifies it to pretend Sanclity in our Wordsand exterior Carriage, whilf at the fame Time we are ready to burft with Malice, Pride, Ambition, Avarice, and a Thoufand more Vices? Whereas, Wine, feafonably drank, enres all thefe Diftempers of the Soul, makes a Mifer Liberal, a cruel Man Tender, a Spightful Fellow Kind; melts ftiff and haughty Spirits into a wonderful Softnefs and Complailance : In fine, it makes a Lamb of a Lion, and changes a Vulture to a Dove, purifying and transforming Souls into a Temper wholly Divine.

Why then flauld we be ty'd to Laws of Morality, never practis'd by thofe who made them ? All the Philofophers were boon Companions, and our Holy Prophet himelf privately drank the Juice of the Grape. Our Emperors and Grendees do the fame. The only Reafon why they forbid it to their Subjects, is, Left they fhould grow too wife, and ftrive to thake off the Yoke: For, Wine elevates the Spirits, emboldens the Heart, and transforms a Slave to a Lord, in his own Conceit. For Want of this Liquor, all Nations where the Vine grows not, have found out one Beverage or another, as efficacious to relieve Melancholy, and drive away. Sorrow from the Heart. The Cbinefe make Wine of Rice:

In my Country they have another intoxicating Drink compounded with certain Reots. The fame is ufed in fome Parts of Perfia. In thefe Wefiern Provinces, they Brew divers Sorts of Strong Liquors of Wheat, Barley, Honcy, Moloffa's, and other Ingredients. And they make Wine of Apples, Pcars, Cherries, Currants, and moft Fruits that grow. I tell thee, my Friend, there's no living, unlefs we fometimes give Nature a new Ferment, to rouze her from her Lees.

Yet, let us practice a due Mediocrity, reemmbring That GOD gave us thefe Things for our Health and Refrefhment, and not for our Banc. In a Word, Mebemet, Let us be Merry and Wife.

> Paris, 26th of the 8th Moon, of the Year 1660.

LETTER XI.

To Hamet, Reis Effendi, Principal Secretary of the Ottoman Empire.

IHave taken fome Pains, turn'd over a great many Memoirs of old Cexrtiers, and converfed with not a few now living, who can remember the Days of Henry IV. that fo I may comply with thy Order, and oblige thee with fome Remarks on the Life of that Prince, who, tho' he had but a little Body, yet, like another Alexander, had fo valt a Soul, and perfermed fuch Illuftrious Actions, as defervecly fatten'd on him the Title of Great, and made him be efteem'd the Arbiter of all Europe.

It is obferved of him, That he was always Unfortunate in his Wives ; yet they relate a pretty Paflage

40 Lettere Writ by Vol.VI.

 Paffage of his firt Wife, Margaret of Valois, which feems to contradiet that RemarkHe was then a Proiffamt, and only King of Nevarre, when the famous Maflacre of Paris, was committed, with Defign to Murder him among the Keft of his Religion. But, being aware of this, when he heard the A Jaffum making towards his Chamber,where Sle fat with the Queen, he hid himfelf under her Garments, as the fate in her Chair. The Villains rufhing in, afk'd for the King: She, with a great AF farance of Spirit, told them, He went aut from ber in a Peffion. They feeming fatisfied, went away, wichout doing any farther Hurt. Which occafioned a common Jeft, Tbat 2neen Margaret's Smock Javid King Henry's Life.

This Woman was called the Mimerva, and Venus of France, on the Score of her Learning and Amours, never denying any Thing to her Lovers, and being feldom without Men of Science in her Company. In a Word, King Henre look'd upon himfelf as a noted Cackold, and lo gave her a Bill of Divorce. Her own Mother, Katberine de Medicis, was call'd, Tbe Fourth Fary of Hell.

It is recorded of this Lady, That the pratis'd much with Wizards and Magicians, who in an Enchanted Glafs, thew'd her who fhould Reign in France for the Time to come. Firt, appeared this Henry IV, then Lewis XIII, next Lewis XIV, and after him a Pack of Tefuits, who fhould abolifh the Monarchy, and govern the Nations themfelves. This Glafs is to be feen in the King's Palace to this Day.

As for Henry IV's Second Wife, 'tis faid, he never enjoyed a peaceable Hour with her, but when fhe was alleep. They of en fought together, and the fpar'd not fometimes to beat and freatch him, even in his Bed fo that he has been forced to quit the Field, and take Sanctuary in another Chamber. This Prince was tax'd with Ingraticude towards his moft

Vol. VI. a Spy at Paris. 41 moft faithful Servants, and Want of Liberality to all. It was a common Saying of his Prideceffor Henry III. Tbat be fbar'd bis Kingdom with bir Loyal Servants and Friends. But Hewry IV. lov'd not to part with any Thing which he could handfomely keep.

Yet he was very obliging to his Miftreffes, and his Paffion for them carried him into many Irregularitior. He was fo deeply enamour'd of One, That to enjoy her, he fign'd a Promife of Marriage to her with his own Blood, which one of his Favcurites feeing, tore the Paper in Peices. The King being incenfed at that, fwore by the Belly of St. Gris, (an ordinary Oath with him) That this Perfon was mad. Yes, reply'd he, but I wifb I were the only Madman is the Kingrowat. Tkereby refleating on the King's Extravagancy. Another Time, He gave Fifty Thoufand Crowns, for one Night's Enjoyment of a Lady.

I have many Years ago fpoke of the Death of this Prince in my Letters to the Minifters of the Port. Now I will acquaint thee with one Circumftance, to which I was then a Stranger.

It happen'd, that the Vicerey of Navarre was walking with feveral Nobles in the Meadows of Bearm, a Town under his Jurifdiction, waft'd by the River Paw. When on a fudden, all the Cowus (of which there was a great Numbers in thofe Fields) ran violently into the River, and were there drown'd. The Viceroy being aftonifh'd at this, as at a Prodigs, writ down the Day and Hour when it happen'd, which prov'd exactly the very fame Time to a Minute, when Henry IV. was ftabb'd in his Coach by Ravaillac; as the Vicergy was foon certify'd, by Dipatcbes which he receiv'd from the Court, containing Intelligence of that Iragedy.

All this may be pure Chance, for aught I know, But there are Abundance of Symptoms of fomething elfe. As for Man, he is wholly a Stranger to himfelf, and the fecret Operations of his own Soul are hid from him. How then can he know the Natures of other Things, or be familiarly acquainted with the occult Dilpofitions of Beafts ? The leaft Worm or Infect baffles our fevereft Scrutiny, and we are loft in the Speculation of their Embryo's. The moft filent and inanimate Beings, proclaim aloud the Folly of our boafted Science: Every Atom in Nature ridicnles our beft Philofophy. Who then will pretend to unriddle the more uncommon Myferies of Providence, or trace the Pootitepts of eternal Deftiny? Hiftorians fpeak varioully of this Parricide. Some fay, the Villain was approv'd of at the Court of Rome, and, That he was there rank'd in the Number of Martyrs. 'Tis certain he underwent as horrible a Death as the Wit of Man could invent, to punifh his matchlefs Treafon. And it feems, the Judges that examin'd him were either afraid, or afham'd to divulge what they heard from his Mouth : Obliging themfelves by an Oath to eternal Secrecy. Revaillac himfelf own'd, That he had twice before attempted to kill the King, but was thruft back by one of his Nobles, who fufpected fome ill Defign in his Looks.

42 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

Sage Hamet, May G O D preferve our glorious Sultan from the Rage of Mutineers, from a 7 fewi/h Phyfician, and from the common Difafters of Human Life. And the Care of his Attendants, will prevent the fudden Strokes of a defperate Affaffin.

> Paris, 25 th of the 8th Moon, of tbe $Y_{\text {ear }} 1660$.

LETTER

LETTER XII.

To Muftapha, Berber Aga.

TH I S City is now as full of Noife and Lights, as fome Cities of Afia are at an Eclipfe of the Moon, or as Conflantinople is during the Faft of Ramexam. 'Tis near Midnight, and yet here's fuch a Medley of Noifes, compounded of the loud Acclamations of Mortals, the Ringing of Bells, Beat of Drums, Sound of Trumpets, and other Mufical InAtruments, with the Thunder of Sky-Rockets, Guns, and other Fire-works, that a Body would think one's felf in a Battle or a Siege.

The Occafion of all this, is, The publick Entry of the New-married King and Quecn, it being the firft Time they have feen Paris fince the Naptials. Neither my Tongue or Pen are able to exprefs to the Life, the inimitable Pomp and Magnificence that have appear'd to Day in the Royal Train, and in the Preparations which the City made to receive them. The Luftre of Gold, Silver, and Precious Stones, dazzled one's Eyes from all Parts; and I could have wifh'd for a Mufu/man Army, to have been at the Plunder of fuch immenfe Riches. Yet there were Forty Thoufand of the Citizens, the King's Guards in Arms, to augment the Glory of the Day.

The Monarch with his Royal Spoufe appear'd, feated on a Majeltick Throne, all glittering with Gold and Diamonds. It was raifed on High, and there were feveral Steps, or Degrees, to afcend up to it. On thefe were placed the Princes of the Blood, the Dukes and Peers of the Realm, with other Grandees and Nobles, as alfo Princeffes, Ducheffes, and Ladies of the firt Quality.

Twas at the Foot of this Throne, there were made innumerable Speeches, and Congratulatory Addrefles

44 Letters Writ by Vol. Vt.

Addreffes by the Priefts and Monks of all Orders, by the Students in the Academy, and by the feveral Companies of Tradefmen. But, that which was moft furprizing, a certain ftrange Maid utter'd feveral Oratioms in Latim, Greek, French, and Spanifo, wherein tha magnified the King's herbic Undertakings, his wonderful Succefies, great Wifdom and Conrage, with other Virtues, which the made the Subject of her Panegyrick. She alfo no lei's extoll'd the Queen's Matchlefs Beauty, the Greatnefs of her Birth, the Royal Endowments of her Mind; and concluded, with refiecting on the Joy of all Exropi, for this illeftrious Match, and Alliance of Two of the mot potent Growns in Cbriftendom.

She delivered herie! with fuch an incomparable Grace and Modelty, as drew the Eyes and Fars of all that were prefent. And 'tis laid, the King was extremely pleafed with her; much more the Queen; who had never before encounter'd fo Learned a Fet male.

The Frencb Ladies have for many Year applied themielves to the Study of Lame ges and Pbilojifhy. But 'tis not fo in Spain, where the ivien are too rigotous to the Fair, to allow them that Liberty. They are as morole to Women as the Moors, from whom a great Part of that Nation are faid to defcend. Every Country in Ewrope has fuffered mighty Changes, by the Incurfioms and Conga.fts of the Moors, Goubs, Huns, and Vandals. So that tis too difficult to trace the Original of any People in fuch a Hotcb-S rch of Foreign Blood: Neither have they any Care of their Genenlogies, as we Arabians have in the $E: A$.
'Illuftrious Aga, Tho' it fignifies no ing to fring of a noble Stock, unlefs we innerit the Virtues oi our Ancefiors, as well as their (plendid Tirles and Eitates; yet 'tis both profitable and pleafant to have by us a Regitter of our Families, that reading their Chasacters and herejc Actions, we may inaitste their Examples,

Vol. VI. SPY at PARIs. 45

Examples, and add to the Glory of the Tribe from which we defcend.

Paris, 26th of tbe 8th Moon, of the Year 1660.

LETTER XIII.

$T_{0}$ Dgaet Oglou.

1Know not whether I hall finifh the Letter I begin ; or, if I do, Whether it will be above Ground, or in the Bowels of the Earth. However, I cannot forbear writing to thee, my dear Friend the? both the Paper and I, with the Houfe wherein I lodge, and all this Beautiful City, may, for aught I know, betranfported to another Region before Morning. Nay, 'tis poffible this very Hour may people Elyfism with a new Colony from France, and Paris may defcend with all her magnificent Palaces to the Shades below, changing the Banks of the River Scyne for thofe of Acberon or Styx, and the refrehing Airs of Cbampagne, for the choaking Sulphurs of Hell. In a Word, We have fele the Menaces of a terrible Earthquake this Evening; but, as yet, we have fuffered no Damage.

When I livd in Afia, an Earthquake was aimot as common as the Yearly Revolution of a Summer and Winter: And we took as little Notice of it, as we did of Lightning, Hail, or Rain. Befides, one Muy/ fulman encourag'd another; and the General Faith of True Believers confirm'd us all, That we ought to be refign'd to GOD, and to the Appointment of Eternal Deftiny, whether it were for Pleafure or Pain, Good or Evil, Life or Death. But, now I have been fo long difus'd to thofe Convalfions of the Globe, (for 1 have not felt one above thefe Two and twenty Years) and am alfo feparated from the Society of the Faithful; that I am become like the reft of the World, and even like thefe Infidels, Timorous, Aitonifhed, veid of Reafon, and of little or no Faith.

46 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

My Mind at firft fagger'd as much as my Body, when I was walking acrofs my Chamber, and felt the Floor rock under me with that fingular Kind of Motion, which no buman Art or Force can imitate. I foon concluded, 'twas an Eartbquake, but knew not how to bear that Thought with Indifference. Deatb is familiar to me in any other Figures, but that of being fo furprizingly buried alive. It appeared horrible to fink on a fudden into an unknown Grave, I knew not whither: Perhaps I might full into fome dark Lake of Water ; or it may be, I might be drench'd in a River of Fire, or be dafh'd on a Rock: For, who can tell the Difpofition of the Caverns below, or what Sort of Apartments we thall find under the Surface of the Eartb? We walk on the Battlements of a marvellous Structure, a Globe full of tremendous Secrets! And whether Nature or Definy, Providence or Cbance occafion the Ruptures that we find are made in divers Parts of the Earth, it matters not much, fo long as we are in Danger of tumbling in. Such a terrible Fall would put the beft Philofopher in the World out of Humour, and fpoil all his Reafoning. I'm fure 'twould vex me, thus, in a Trice to be plunder d of my Thoughts: Which makes me either wonder at the Vanity of Empedocles, if he threw himfelf into the flaming Chafm of Mount -步tna, only for the Sake of being efteemed a God (as the common Report is ; ) or, give me Reafon to conclude, He had fome other End in his venturous Leap; fince 'tis not probable, That empty Fame could be efteemed by that great Sage, as his final Happinefs. A mnch eafier Way had Arifotle, who, difgufted at his I gnorance of the Flux and Refux of the Sea, threw himfelf in, to put an End to his Di/quifitions, if the Story be true. But, I can hardly believe the Stagyrite was fuch a Fool. I guefs of other Men, according to the Experience I have of myfelf. I am as little folicitous about Death as any Man, yet 1 fhould be unwilling to hurl myfelf out of the World headlong, without a Firm or a Tefta. I love New Experiments, but am not very fond of fuch as take from us irrecoverably the Means of trying any more.

Vol. VI. a Spy at Paris. 47

We had News here of an Eartbquake which has overthrown Part of the Pyrencan Mountains, fome Days before this happen'd at Paris; but few regarded it. Calamities at a Diftance frighten no Body: Yet thofe which we feel, put us all in Tears. For my Part, it has this Effect on me, That I am improved in my Carelefsnefs, and become fearful of Nothing. And, I think, there is Reafon on my Side, fince all my Care, Apprehenfion and Forecaft, can never defend me from the Underminings of the Omnipotent.

Paris, 1 gth of the 1 ith Moon, of the Year 1669.

LETTER XIV.

$\tau_{0}$ Hamet, Reis Effendi, Principal Socretary of the Ottoman Empire.

LE T not the Difance of Time between my Letters prompt thee to conclude, I forgot my Duty ; or that I am carelefs to oblige to Illuftrious a Friend. I have many Obligations to difcharge ; and therefore endeavour to hulband my Hours to the beft Advantage, and fo to divide my Difpatcbes, that the Grand Signior may be ferv'd, the Divan inform'd of all matcrial Emergencies, and the Expectations of each Miniffer gratified.As to the Reign of Lewvis XIIL. it was Ghar'd fucceflively between the Mareficbel & Ancre, the Dake of Eximes, and Cardinal Ricblien. The firt was the 2xoon-Mother's Favourite; the Second was the King'si as for the Third, He was abfolute Mafter both of King, Queer, and Kingdom.

48 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

During the King's Minority indeed, 2ecen Mary 4 Medicio, the Relia of Hemry IV, took the Regency into her own Hands, and manag'd Things in an arbitrary Manaer. But, the Princes of the Blood, with other Grandeos, net able to brook the Gevernment of a Woman, confpir'd againt her. Among thefe were the Priver of Conde, Fatber to the prefent Primen and the Duke of Bovillas. The former was a bold Man, and durf do any Thing that was brave: The latter was a cunning Starefman.

They caballd not fo privately, but the quermMotber was acquainted with their Meeting, and the Dake of Bovillort was the firt who knew his Party was betray'd. This Intelligence was brought him from affur'd Hands, whilft he was fitting with the Prince of Conde, and other Nobles at the Place of their private Reddezvous. Whereupon be acquainted them with it, exhorting all to abicond immediately, feft they thould be feiz'd on the Spot. But they recorting, That the 2 reen would not venture on an Action of fuch dubiqus Congequence; he farted up, and took his Leave of 'em with thefe Words, "My "Lords, You may follow your own Counfel. I'l " immediately to Horle, and efcape to Sedan in my "Stockings: Where, if they make me wear out a " Pair, as an Exile; by Heavens, I'll make them wear as out a Thoufand Pair of Boots."

His Words came to pafs, and the Effect was a diminutive Civil War; when the Queen was forced to raife an Army to reduce this Prince to Obedience, the reft of his Party being imprifoned, as foon as the heard of bis Flight.

Vol. VI. a Spyat Paris.

Whilit tiefe Difurbances lated, the Moors were expelid out of Spain, to the Number of Six Hunderd Thoufand. Part of thofe who liv'd toward the Miaritime Coafts, went by Sea into Africk. The relt, whofe Refidence was farther within Land, fought a Paffage over the Pyrencan Mountains, and fo through the Southern Provinces of France; offering a Ducat a Head to the Viccroy of Naverie, for their fafe Conduct. He, out of Curiofity coming to fee theie Traveliers, and beholding them ragged, and almoft naked, with Vifages like Ghofis, took Pity on them, and gave them Liberty of Parfage gratis 3 faying, "God forbid I fhould extort is much Money " from thefe miferable Wretches, who are aban" don'd to the wide World."

But, it feems, his Compaffion was needlefs. For thefe Mufuhmen were too cunning for him, having their fqualid, torn Garments, quilted all over with Gold and Precious Stones. Which occafioned all People to ridicule the Viciroy's Eafinefs, and to call him the Friend of the Gibeomies.

I fhould appear too par ial in refecting Satyrically on this Prince, whote Generofity deferves Praife : Yet, I cannot but fmile at the Craft of the Moors, whereby they not only efcaped paying the accuftom'd Tribuies of Pallengers, but alfo blinded thefe Infidels, and took from them the unpicion of greater Ricies; which, if they had once known, per:aps not a Mioor thould have carried a Piece of Money along with him into Africk.

This Paflage feem'd worthy of thy Knowledge, fince it in Part riembles the famous Departure of the liraclitus out of Egypt, tho' it comes fhort of the Robbery and Plunder uhich they commited on the lonalitants the Day before they began thecir Jou n:y Howeres this Story may afford thee fome Divestutement.

50 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

As to the Marfoal d' Ancre, the Queen's Favourite, in his Life and Death, he was compared to Sejamws, being qualified with the like Virtues and Vices, and having much the fame Fortune ; his Body, after having been dragg'd about the Streets by the Rabble, was at laft torn to Pieces.

If thou would'f know how the Duke of Luines obtain'd the King's Favour, it was by Ingratitude. For, when he and his Brother were firft brought to Court, they were both fo poor, that they had but one Cloak between them; and for that Reafon could net go abroad together. Yet, being recommended to the King, by a certain Nobleman, for excellent Falconers, they were received into Favour. But they abufed the Kindnefs of their Patron ; and infinuating malicious Things into the King's Ear, againit the Nobleman and his Family, caufed him to be banifh'd from the Court. After which they managed all Things.

Then fucceeded Cardinal Ricblicu in the chief Minittry; of whom I have faid a great deal in my former Letters to the Grandees of the Porte; and thou wilt find them in the Regiffer. I will now add, what I never mentioned before, That he was very ambitious to be thought a good Judge of Verfe. He gave to one Poet for a witty Conceit on his Coat of Arms, Two Thoufand Sequins tho' 'twas but a Verfe of feven Words. Another he promoted to an Ecclefiafical Dignity worth a Thoufand a Year, for comparing him to the Primum Mobile. But, he caus'd a Third to be kick'd out of Doors, for his Obftinacy, in denying to alter a Word of his Poem, which the Cardinal difiliked.

This Minifter was very Revengeful, and amongt othe! Effects of his Temper, none was more taken Notice of, or reflected on, than the Death of Monfieur de Thou, whom the Cardinal cut off for no other Reafon, but becaufe his Father in a General Hiftory which he wrote, had reprefented one of Richliew's Anceftors under a very ignominious and abominable Figure. That Hiftorian was the renowned Tbwanus, of whom I fuppofe thou haft heard.

Vol. VI. a Spy at Paris. Si

As to King Lequis XIII. himfelf, he was eiteem'd a great Diffembler; accuftomed to carefs thofe with more than ordinary Endearments, whom he defigned fuddenly to ruin: Whence it grew to a Proverb in his Time at the Fronch Court, when they faw any Nobleman frmil'd on, to fay, His Bufinefs is dome. It cannot be denied, That this Prince had a great Spirit, and fome Wifdom ; yet he was oblerv'd to take Delight in many petty Actions unbecoming Royal Majefty. He would fpend much of his Time in Painting, and fend for the moft famous Mafter in that Art to view his Works. An equal Inclination he fhewed to Mufick: And fometimes he was ambitious to be thought a good Cook. Once he made a great Pafty with his own Hands, filling it with Venifon only git for the Mouths of Infidels, vix. The Flefh of Dogs, Wolves and Foxes, with other abominable Animals, of which it is not lawful for a True Believer to tatte. This he caufed to be ferv'd up to Table, at a Fealt which he made to fome of his Courtiers, who, to honour the King's Handy-Work, eat greedily of the horrid Difh, and highly praifed his Skill; whilt he diverted himfelf with laughing at them. He had many other fuch Freaks as thefe, which render'd him contemptible and ridiculous to the Grandees of his Kingdom. In a Word, he was more reverenced Abroad than at Home. And this was owing to the Conduct of Cardinal Ricbliex, who was juftly efteem'd the very Genius of France.

Illuftrious Minitter, all that I have faid of this Monarch fpeaks him but a Man : And no body is wife at all Times. But the Follies of Princes are more Confpicuous, than thofe of meaner Perfons.

Paris, 15 th of the 12 th Moon, of tbe Year 1660.

D 2
£ ET-

52  Leiters Writ by Vol.VI.

LETTER XV.

To Mahummed in tbe Defart.

MA Y the Angel of Peace pitch his Pavilion at the Entrance of that bleffed-Cave, where thou refideft. May thy Soul feel calm and undifturbed Joys, and for ever repofe in Divine Tranquility ; whilft the the reft of World are molefted wilh perpetual Cares and Fears, Broils and Enmities; Paffions within, and Furies without: In a Word, whilt they are always in Danger of one another, of themfelves, and of the Elements which compound their Nature.

O Man, highly belov'd of G OD, Favourite of the Angels, Care of Heaven, and the fingular Darling of Providence! The Palm of an Almighty Hand is extended under thee when thou fitteft down or walkeft, always ready to fnatch thee up from the Calamities which threaten this lower World, and lift thee to Paradife, where the Affembly of the Juft wait for thy Prefence.

There has been an Earthquake lately in thefe Parts, which has put all France into a great Confternation, aftonifh'd every Body, and increafed the Thoughtfulnefs of the Wife. The Firt Effects of it were felt by the Inhabitants of the Pyrences, which are certain Mountains dividing France and Spain. There it did great Mifchief; overwhelming fome Medicinal Baths, many Houfes, and deftroying Hundreds of People. Only one Mofque or Church, which funk into the Caverns below, was thrown up again, and ftands very firm, but in another Place. This is look'd upon as a great Miracle, efpecially by the French, who, for aught I know, may cenfure partially, favouring their own Intereft; in regard this Church has been difputed between them and the Spaziards, each Nation claiming Right to it, and ilading before exactly on the Frontier Line. But now their Quarrel is unconteftably decided, for tis cemord $d$ by this Convalfion of the Globe, near half a licague from its former Situation, which is fo fai vi hin the aciknowledg d Limits of France. This it. F.encl Priefts magnify as an apparent Proof of the Juitice of their Pretenfions, and the People feem ve $y$ wil' ing to believe it.

Vol.VI. a Spreat Paris.

As for me, I have another Opinion of Earth. quakes, and am periuaded. That they are as Natural as the Winds, which no Man knows how to draw into any Party or Fahion, unlefs we believe the Stories of the Lapland Witcbes. I'm perfuaded wat this Globe is mach more ancient than the Geacrality of Mankind imagine it to be: That it has undergone various Changes by the Predominance of Fire and Water : And, That it is now haltening towards another Revolution. I believe the central Fire has caten its Way almof to the Surface, and kindled all the Mines of Sulphur, and other inflamable Matter, which it meets within its circular Afcent. Thefe corroding, and daily confuming, their own Vaults, approaching alfo iometimes too near the vaft Receptacles of Subterranean Waters which lie nea:er the Surface, overheat the Lakes; which being thus rirfed into Vapours and pent up in the Holiow of the Globe, frive to break forth with immenfe Violence, which caufes that Heaving and Rocking of the Superficies, that fo terrifies Mortals. But then the Caufe is very deep and far from us. For where the Surface is thallow, in fuch Paffions of the Globe, the Earth conmonly breaks and tumblesin, with whatfoever is upon it. Nay, whole Cities fometimes have been thus fwallowed up. And the Danger is eatily foreknown, by a fhort Snatching and Trepidation of the Ground, Houfes, Trees, Men, and every Thing within its Reach; for then the Convulfion is generally fatal. But where the Motion is heavy, Grave and Regular, 'tis a Sign that both the Source and the Danger of it are far off. And this is fo much the more evident, by how much farther the Earthquake is felt above Ground. For, the neater any fuch Pailion happens to the Centre, it muft be granted, Tyat its Force is extended the wider on the Circumference. This depends on a Mathematical Demonftration, and there needs no more be faid to thee, who art Confummate in the Scie ices.What I efteem a due Reflection on this, is, That, tho' there be no Peril in thefe remote Earthquakes, yet we know not how foon they will come nearer to us; neither can we be affured, where or when they will happen, or how far they will reach. It follows therefore, by a natural Confequence, That fince thefe Things are Unavoidable, and all the Wit of Man cannot invent a Means to efcape finking into the Bowels of the Earth where it breaks in, we ought to be carelefs and indifferent what Death we die, and only folicitous to live like Men, that is, according to Reafon. For, whether our Souls furvive or no, 'twill be comfortable to expire in Peace, and full of our own Innocence.

54 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

Paris, 5 th of the 12 th Moon, of the Year 1660.

Tbe End of the Firt Boox.

LETTERS

LETTERS

 Writ by
A Spy at Paris.

VOL. IV.
BOOKII.

LETTERI.

To tbe Venerable Mufti.

HERE is now like to be a great Change at this Court. Cardinal Mazarini is dead. He died at the Cafle of the Wood of Vinciennes, on the Ninth of this Moon, having been fick a long Time. There happened a great Fire at the Lowure, (fo they call the King's Palace in this City) about five Weeks ago, which obliged the Cardinal, who lodged there at that Time, to remove to his own Houfe. From D 4 whence, whence for the Sake of the Air, he was advifed by his Phyficians to go to the aforefaid Cafle. But all in vain : For Death, which finds Accefs into the ftrongeft Fortrofies, purfued him thither, and led him in 1 riumph to the Region of Silence and Forgetful$\pi / \mathrm{s}$, who made so great a Noife and Buftle in this our World.

3t Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

It is reported. That a certain Afirologer foretold him, He frould die in this Moon. But the Cardinal gave no Crec'it to him : Tho' one would think he had fome Reafon to believe him in this, for the Sake of former Fredietion of his, conserning the Duke of Beaufort. I have mentioned this Prince, and the Enmity that was between Mazariri and him, which occafioned the Duke's Imprifonment in the Caftle of the Wood of Vinciennes. During his Reftraint, the aforementioned Afrologer gave it out, in Paris, Ihat the Duke fhould efcape out of PriSon precifely on fuch a Day. The Cardinal being informed of this, waited 'till the Day came, de figning to puniß the Affrologer as a Cheat, or, at leaft, to expore him as an ignorant Perfon. To which End he fent for him, and npbraiding him with Pre. fumption and Folly, in that the Day was now come, and yet the Duke of Beaufort was ftill a Prifoner, without any Hopes, or fcarce a Poffibility of efcaping, ordered him to be fent to the Bifile. But the Aftrologer addrefling himfelf with much Submiffion and Earnelinefs fpoke to this Effect: May it pleafe your Eminence only to refpite my Sentence till Io-morrow, and iben bang me, if you do not find that I bave Jpoke Trutb. Tbe Day which I foretold is come indeed, but it is not paff. A Courier will foon convince jok, that I bave not fiudted this Sciuce in vain. The Cardinal moved with thefe Words, only confin'd the Afirologer in a Chamber of his own Palace. And the next Day be receired an Exprefs which gave him an Account of the Duke's Efcape, and the

Manner

Vol. VI. a Spyat Paris.

Manner of it, vir. Ihat on the Lay befoce, in . 1 ! let himielf down by a ladder of Ropes into tie Caftle Ditch, and was no more to be icen or ise a. 4 of. Thus the Afirologer efcaped the Cardizial's Revenge, and got much fame at the Court, which was increas'd by the Cardinal's Death, falling out exactiy according to his Prediction.

This Minifter was a very fubtle I'an; and Cardinal Ricbliew us'd to fay of him, That if be ruere minded to put a Trick on tbe Devil, be wusuld only fot Mazarini to work. Therefore he made him his Confidant, inftructed him in all the Secerts of he French Conrt, the Art of Government, and on his Deathbed recommended him to the King, as the fitteft Nan to fucceed him in the Management of the Publick. He was, after the Death of Lewis XIII. at firft oppofed by feveral Grandees; but the Qiern's Authority, and that of the Prince of Cinde, fupported him: Whence arofs a common Proverb in thofe Days, Tbe 2uecn permits All, the Cardinal commands All, and tbe Pricce puts All in Execution: For this laft had the Office of General.

This Minifter was not efteem'd fo Covetous as his Predeceffor ; yet he heap'd up vaft Treafures; Part of which he beftow'd in magnificent Buildings and Furniture ; the reft he fent into Italy to his Father: who, aftonifhed at the prodigious Quantities of Gold he receiv'd, us'd to fay, Sure it rains Momey in France! However, he made himfelf odious to the Subjects of this Nation, by his continual Oppreffions; and they are glad he is gone.

T is a By-word at Rome, when any Pope dies, to fay, Now the Dog is dead, all bis Malice is buried with bim. But I doubt it will not prove true in the Court of France, at this Juncture. For the King will either find a Minifter equal in Subtilty to the deceas'd Cardinal, who thall fupply his Place; or, he will take the Adminiftration of Affairs into bis own Hands. Be it which Way it will, we are like to fee the fame Maxims purfued, fo long as Cardinal Ricblien's Memoirs are in Being, who firft taught this Crown to underftand its own Strength.> Paris, 14th of the 3d Moon, of the Year 1661.

58 Lexteas Writ by Vol.VE.

LETTER II.

Totbe Vizir Azem, at the Porte.

Have fent a Difpatch to the Mufi, acquainting him with the Death of Cardinal Mararini, Frit Minifter of State, and the greateft Favourite that ever liv'd. Now I will inform thee of fome Paflages which I omitted in my Letter to that Venerable Prelate. It is neceffary for me thus to diftribute my Intelligence, with a due Refpect to the different Quality of my Superiors.

Thou, I fuppofe, wilt require fome Account of his Difpofition and Morals, with fuch a Character as may render this great Genius familiar to thy Knowledge.

He feem'd to place his chief Happinefs in ag. grandizing his Mafter, whom he ferv'd with a Zeal to pure and difinterefted, a Loyalty fo uncorruptible, and by fuch rigular Metbods of Yrudence and Policy; as if in his Days, uothing were to be counted Virtue or Vice, but what either favour'd or op, pos'd the King of France's Intereft. He was of a. happy Conftitution for a Courtier, being by Nature debomair, complaifant, affable, and of a fweet Deportment. Yet, Experience and Art taught hins to improve thefe Advantages, to the Heighth of Diffimulation. You fhould fee Courtefy and extraordinary

Vol. VI. - Spy at Pasts.

 Face; you thould hear Words breathing from his Mouth, like the foft Benedictions of an Angel. Yet: at the fame Time, his Heart gave the Lye to both. He meant nothing lefs, than that a Man, fhould find him as good as his Word. He was ever ready to promife any Thing that was demanded of him : But in Performance, flow, and full of Excufes; Frugal of his Prince's Money, and Liberal of his own: Magnificent in his Buildings, and the Furniture belonging to them ; aiming in all Things to exceed other Men, his Equals, and in fome, to fuspafs, even mighty Princes, his Superiors. In a Word, He was accomplifh'd with all Qualifications requifite in a fortunate Courtier, and a good Statefman.Yet, after all, this Sublime Genius yielded to Deatb: But not like common Mortals. He died altogether like Himfelf, without fo much as changing that fettled Gravity, and ferene Air of his Face, as has been Remarkable during his Life. He made the King Heir of his Eftate, and bequeath'd Abundance of Legacies.

To fay all in Brief: If he was great in his Life, he was much more fo in his Deatb; mingling his laft Breath with the Sighs and Tears of the King, who lamented his Departure with the Mourning of a Sen for a Fatber.

Paris, 26th of the 3d Moomy. of the Year 1661.

6o Letreas Writ by Vol.VI. LETTER III.

To Pefteli Hali, bis Brotber, Mafter of Cuftoms at Conitantinople.

YEfterday a Difpatch came to my Hand from a very remote Part of the Earth. Our Coufin Ifouf fent it from Afiracan, a famous City for Traffick, formerly belonging to the Crim Tartars, but now in Pofteffion of the Mufcovites. He has been there a confiderable Time, finding Profit by Merchandize: For, the e is a vall Refort to that City from Cbina, Imdofian, Perfia, Mufccev, and other Provinces of Europe and Afia. The Roads to it, are daily cover'd with the Caravans of Trading People. And the River Volga can hardly fuftain the innumerable Multititude of Veffels that tranfport Paffengers with their Goods backwards and foruards between Aftracam and the Regions round about the Cafiin Sea, into which that mighty River difcharges itfeif.

IJouf is Ingenious, and has pitch'd upon fome ad. vantageous Way of enriching himfel', which tempts him to take up his Abode in that City, and there end his Travels or as leaft, he will repofe himfelf there, 'till Fortune prefents him with a fairer Opportunity of encreafing his Wealth.

In the mean Time, I perceive by his Letter, That he gets Money apace, and lives happily, and has the Wit to keep himielf free from the Yoke of Marriage, which embarrafs'd him fo much formerly. He foon put that troublefome Wife out of his Mind, after he had divorc'd her; and he never faild to gratify himfelf with new Amours, where-ever he came in his Travels. He writes very comically, and I can't forbear fmiling, when he tells me, He has had as many Concobines as the Grand Seignier. By which thou wilt perceive, that IJouf is much addicted to Gallantry. He frankly confefles, That he firtt learn'd this Mode, of loving, at large, in Perfra, efpecially at Ipaban ; where he fays, 'cis a Mark of Honour for a Man to be good at intriguing with the Ladies: And he is called a $\tau_{a r k}$, by Way of Difgrace, who frequents not every Evening the Gardens and Houfes of Pleafure in the Suburbs. But he adds, That in India, the Liberty of Courting Women is much greattr. And that the very Nacure of that Climate, difpofes a Man to this foft Paffion. In a Word, our Amorous Kinfman retains the fame Hu mour ftill.

Vol. VI.

Yet this does not hinder him from profecuting his neceffary A ffairs, with Diligence and and Alacrity. He difpatch'd a Bnfinef's for me at Arcbangel in Rufra, and another at Mofrow, very dextroufly. Which convinces me, That he is not lefs fedulous and careful in Things which concern himfelf. He fays, the Mufcovites are the greateft Drumkards in the World. I heir chief and moft beloved Liquor is, what the Frencb call, Tbe Water of Life. Tis a Cbymical Drink, extratted from the Lee of Wine, or other ftrong Bederages: Such as thou knoweft is common among the Greck, Armeniams, and Franks, in the Levant. When the Mu/covites are once got into a Houfe where this Niaar is fold, and are a little warm'd and elevated with it, they will not depart till all their Money is gone: Nay, they will pawn their very Garments from their Backs in a Frolick, rather than want their Dofe of this inebrating Stuff, and go out tark naked in the coldeft Weather, that is, fall alleep in the open Streets, and yet are ne'er the worfe for it when they awake, but go to their daily Work with the greater Ardour. For, 'tis only the common People are guilty of this Extravagance. As for the ## 63 Iefxexs Writ by Volve.

Gentry and Nobility, they aremore clofe and referv'd in their dranken Debauches.

The Mufcovites, according to the Character hegives me of them, are a very rude and unpolin'd People ; furly to one another, and extremely rugged. to Strangers. They defpife all other Nations in theWorld, and fay, 'tis impoffible for any Man to go to Heaven, who has not a Mufcovite Soul in him. They profef́s the Chrifian Religiom, and were formerly of the Groek Cburcb; but now they have feparated themfelves, and fet up a Patriarch of their own; to whom fo great a Veneration is paid, that the Emperor himfelf holds his Stirrup when he mounts on Horfeback.

Brother, I defire thee to fpeak advantageoufly of IJouff, to the Illuftrious Kerker Haflan, and to the other Baffa's of the Bench. He will be a ferviceable Man to the Grand Seignior, if encouraged by fome Place of Honour and Profit. I wifh I could fay the fame of our Confis Solyman. But he is too wife in his own Conceit.

Dear Pefeli, excufe my Abruptnels; for my Hours are divided between the Service I owe to the Sultam, and the Affection I bear my Friends.

Paris, 7 th of the $5^{\text {th }}$ Moos, of the Year 1661.

L ETTER IV.

To Orchan Cabet, Student in tbe Sciences, and Penfioner to the Sultan.

1Have teard of thy Fame, and the Manner of thy Conzerfion to the Law brought down from Heaven: How that from a Chrifian Prieft, thou att become a Muffulman Abdalla, that is, a Believer and Sirvant

Vol. VI. Spyat Paris.

Servant of the True God. May thy Rewand, both here and hereafter, be according to thy Integrity in this Change of Faith and Religion : For Hyppcrites are neither acceptable to GOD nor Man; yet moft Men are prolelyted for Intereft, Fear, or other Human Regards. And in the Senfe of the Cbrifiams thou know'ft a Renegado and a Villain. are reciprocal Terms.

The infupportable Miferies of Servitude, tempt many to embrace Circumcifion, which at once fets 'em free, and often puts themin a Condition to mend their Fortunes, and live more happily than they did, even before they were Captives: Whilft Ambition and Avarice, are prevailing Motives with others in more profperous Circumftances to be of the Grand Signier's Religion, that fo they may rife in his Favour, and obtain fome confiderable Preferment at the Court, or Office in the Army ; like the ancient Melcbites among the Cbriffians, who were fo call'd becaufe they always profeff'd the Faith of the Grecian Emperor, without examining whether it was Orthodox or no. A Sort of Religious Paraftes, who would be any Thing to ferve their own Intereft, and adore the Devil himfelf, previded their Sovereign thew'd 'em an Example.

Yet after all, there are fome who change their Religion in pure Sincerity, oaly compell'd thereto by the Dint of Exalted Reafon, and Motives of Virtue. Such as thefe are Thinking Men, Perfons of bold Spirits, who dare call in Queftion the Traditions of their Fathers, examine the Principles in which they were Educated, difpute every Thing, and bring all to the Standard et Natural Truth.

I rejoice to hear that thou art one of this Character, and not in the Number of Counterfeits or Bigots: For each bring no Credit to the Religion they embiace, but rather a Scandal. Yet the Arms of the munificent Port are open to receive all who profefs that GOD is One, and that Mabomet is his Acoflle; leaving the Scrutiny of their Intention, to Him whe fearches the Heart.

64 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

Thy Learning gives thee fair Opportunities of doing Good. Put it to a right Ufe. Convince the Infidels, whom thou hatt foriaken, of their Errors : confirm the True Believers, in the Faith without Blemifh

Do this by Difcourfe, by Writing, and thine own Exemplary Life, which latt will prevail above Ten Thouland Eloquent Sermons.

In a Werd, hew thyfelf a true and faithful Follower of the Prophet on Earth, and GOD will tranIlate thee to his Company in Paradife; where Mofes will Introduce thee, J $f / \sqrt{w}$ will Entertain thee with Joy, and all the 124,000 Prophets will Welcome thee to the Pleafures which know no End.

Paris, 21 ft of the 5 th Moon, of the Year 1661 .
LETTER V.

To the Mufti.

WE are apt to admire fome ftrange Paffages which we find recorded in ancient Hiftory, and whofe Truth is out of the Reach of any Mortal to prove: Yet we flight the Miracles which are before our Byes, evident Matters of Fact, which noBody can contradict. Whence this thould proceed, I know not; unlefs it be from a natural Kind of Drowfinefs in the Soul, common to the greateft Part of Men; like the Sleep of thofe, who cannot fo foon be awaken'd by the loudeft Noife they are accuftom'd accuflom'd to, as by foft and ftill Ldeas of a ftrange Dream: So we regard not the Things to which we are daily habiruated, tho in themfelves never fo prodigious; whilf we ftartle, and are amazed at the moft ordinary Relations of Antiquity, only becaufe they are Novel to us, and we were not Eye witneffes of the Things themfelves.

Vol.vi. a $\mathrm{Spy}_{\mathrm{py}}$ at Paris.

1 formerly fent a Letter to Cara Hali, the Sultan's Pbyjician, wherein I mentioned Yeveral Pbyjucia; of Arabia, who, in paft Ages, were eminent for fome remarkable Cures But, I tell thee, not one of them could match the King of France's Succers in Curing an Epidemical Dittemper, which they call The KING's EVIL. The general Symproms of this Malady, are certain Swelling in the Face, Neck, or other Parts of the Body; fometimes accompanied with Blindnefs, Deafnefs, Lamenefs, and other Imperfections. Thofe who are troubled with this $D_{i}$ fecfe. flock to the King's Court at certain Seafons of the Year, and being introduced into his Prefence, he only touches the Part affected with his Hand, and an infallible Cure follows.

They fay, This Gift has been inherent in the Kings of France for mauy Geaerations: And the Priefts magnify it as a great Miracle. But, I tell thee, all the Prodigy, in my Opinion, lies in the Strength of the People's Imagination, which thou knoweft works half the Cure, in many Diftempers. The Priefts ftand by the King, whilft he touches the Sick: They repeat their Gofpel, and ufe certain Prayers and Exorcifms, being vefted all in White, like Magicians. Thefe Ceremanies are performed with Alu udance of Gravity, which trikes an Awe into the credulous Patients. And, to render the Bufinefs yet more Myfterious, whereas other Phyficians take Money of the Sick, this Royal Efculapins beftows a Piece of Gold on every one whom he touches, which they are oblig'd to wear about their 66 Levters Writ by Vol.VI.

Necks as long as they live. Now whether the Charm lies in the Gold, or the King's Touch, or the Prayers and Ceremonies of the Priefts, or finally, in the Patient's Fancy, it matters not much. This is certain, that Thoulands who come to the King's Feet, very much diforder'd by this Evil, find a fenfible Alteration in their Bodies, before they depart from his Prefence; and in a few Hours, or Days at moft, are perfectly recovered.

Perhaps, the Kings of France have fome Magical or Phyfical Tincture in their Blood. Or, it may be, they have found out the Philofopher's Stone fo much talk'd of; and deliver'd it down to their Pofterity, as a Part of the Royal Inberitance; which enables the prefent King to do fo many prodigious Things both at Home and Abroad, in Peace and in War, befides his Part in Curing this Sicknefs. I am no Roficrucian, nor very fond or credulous of Miracles; yet, I often wonder at the Treafures of this Monarch, which appear Inexhauftible. But, the Ways of Kings are fecret, and he of France is fingular in his mytterious Methods of growing Rich and Great. Neither do all his Magnificent Expences feem to diminifh his Wealth. The King of Sweden has been his Penfioner ever fince he began to Reign: And Millions of Frencb Gold, are difperfed among the German Princes.

Thefe Things caufe his Subjects to defcant varioully. But I refer them to thy oraculous Judgment, whofe fingle Tefta is of Ten Thoufand Times more Worth, than the Decrees of a French Parliament.

> Paris, 3d of the 7 th Moos, of the Year 166 I .

Vol.VI. a Spy at Paris.

LETTER VI.

To Mirmadolin, Santone of tbe Vale of Sidon:

NO W I will vent Holy Things, and what the Divinity thall infpire. The World was in Weeds when Hofain the Prophet was flain, and the Moon put on her Mourning Drefs. The Timbrels of Perfia, Arabia, and Babylon were heard in the Dead of the Night: Their Sound reach'd to the Tbird Heaven: The Sbepberds ran to the Heightbs of the Earth, to difcover the Occafion of 10 much Noife. The Centinels of Forts and Cafler gave the Alarm, and the Men of War took hold of the Sword, the Bow, and the Spear. The Tygris overflow'd its Banks, and Diarbekir became a Lake. A dark Body of Clouds o'er-caft the Sky, and pour'd forth Thunder, Lightning and Hail. Fire ran all along on the Sands of the Defarts, and the Air was all in a Flame. Horror poffefled the Minds of Mortals, and the Angels themfelves were Uneafy. The Beafts of the Fields ran into Dens and Caves, and the Dragons were touch'd with Remorfe: Only the more venomous $K y / j$ ilbafchi fwell'd with Pride: The Poifon of Murther and Herefy had puffed up their Souls: They and their Pofterity are accurfed to this Day, and to the Hour of the irrevocable Sentence.

O Santome, Great is thy Faith, in that thou haft abandoned the Shadow of this World, and feparated thyfelf from the Contagion of Mortals! I revere the Majefty of thy Sublime Soul, the Intellect ranging at Liberty. Thou daily gathereft Flowers from the Garden of Eden, and being in the Body, enjoyeft the Sweets of Paradife. Kings would lay down their Crowns to tafte of thy Pleafures, did they they but know them; and exchange all the Glory of Empires for one Mionient of thy Unipeakable Blifs. Thou Companion and Care of Angels, Darling of the 1 i onarch Ommipotent !

68 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

Where ever thou lieft down, whether by Day, or by Night, the Watches above ftand ready with Umlrclla's to Akreen thee irom the fcorching Beams of the Sun, the chilling Darts of the Moon and the Stars, and from ail Irjuries of Weather. The Elements go out of their Courfes to ferve thee, and all Nature efpoufes thy Intereft.

The Merct ant hires a Thoufand Camels, and loads them with the choicut Riches of the Levant. He end res all the ratigue of a long and dangerous Travel 'hro' Syria, Arabia, and Perfia; runs the Rifque of kobbers, Dileafes, and Ten Thoufand Methods of Dea h: And, afier all his Hazards and Puins, is not haif fo $\mathrm{H}_{\text {ppy }}$ nor fo Rích as thoo, who aboundeft in Every Thing, becaufe thou defireft Nothing which thou haft not, or that is Unneceffary. The Floughmen labour for thee in the Field, and fo do the Arificers in the City. The Noble and the Vulgar are thy Purvegors, and the Greatut Sovereigns pay Tribute to thee. Every Houfe is thy Home, and they count themielves happy, under whore Roof thou vouchrafeft to fleep They are really fo; for Benedietion accompanics the Perfect Man in all his Way, and the Favours of Heaven overtake them that thew Kindnefs to tim. Thou art Lord of other Men's Eftates, and every Man's Field is thy Inheritance. Thou erjoyeft the Riches of the World, without being tainted with the Vices that attend 'em, and receiveft Immortal Affurances and Seals of the future Glory, in the Life which is to come. On, happy Eftate of the Righteous! Oh, Life to be truly envied!

As for me, I'm like a Galley-Slave, chain'd down to the Oar, and forc'd to row inceffantly, whither

Vol. VI. a Spyat Paris.

the Maftcr of the Veffel commands. So am I oblig'd to obey the Dietates of my Superiors, whether there be Sin in the Cafe or no. I am faften'd in the Cares of this vain World, and the more particular Anxieties of State. From all which thou art happily free

Oh, that it were Lawful for me to thake off the fretting Yoke, and difentangle my felf from the Snares of Human Policy! That I might live like the Men of the Firft Ages, who honour'd the Earth as their common Mother, and made no envious Inclofures! They fported innocently on her fragrant Bofom, and never molefted their Kind Parent, by Cruelty to any of her Offspring. They fuck'd the Milk of her Breafts: Her Veins fream'd with Wine and Honey. They banquetted on Variety of excellent Fruits ; and no Body thought of Killing and Eating his Fellow-Animals. The Birds could then range the Air without Fear of the Fowler; neither did any yawling Hunfman rouze the timorous Hare from her Seat. The Roes and the Hinds coald fcamper at Pleafure over the Plain, without being hatter'd to the Mountains and Rocks for Sanctuary; neither did any fly Angler trepan the Fifh of the Rivers. As for the Sea, 'twas then Unknown; no Man, as yet, had ventur'd upon that perfidious Element, or found out the Ufe of Sinips. There was in thofe Days, no Foreign Commerce or Traffick, or any Need of it. Every Region fupply'd its Inhabitants with what was UCeful and Neceffay : And thofe temperate Mortals defir'd no more. They liv'd without irregular Appetites, free from Ambition, Fraud, and Blood.

This is the Life fo much defired by me, and which thou actually erjoyeft. GOD augment thy Felicities and Raptures, that thou mayelt pafs from one Vifion and Extafy to another, till Gabriel fnatch thy Soul away in a Divine Tranfport, beyond the Poffibility of a Relapfe.Holy Santone, while thou art on Earth, pray for me; and when thou art among the Immortals, do me fome Favour which may laft for ever.

90 Letiens Writ by Vol.VI.

Paris, 26th of the 8th Moon. of the Year 1661.

LETTER VII.

To Dgnet Oglou.

1Y Bufinefs in this Place obliges me to keep Company with all Sorts of People. Hence I indifferently affociate myfelf with Statefmen, Soldiers, Courtiers, Priefts, Fidlers, Mechanicks, Seamen, Perfons of any Profeffion, from whom I can hope for any Improvement: For, there is hardly fo defpicable a Fellow in the World, who may not teach ar inquifitive Mind fomething, to which it was a sranger before.

Sometimes I converfe with Painters, whom I generally find to be Men of Wit and Senfe, but very lewd and diffolute: However, they ferve to divert my Melancholy, to which thou know'it I am much inclin'd. For they are the merrieft Sparks in the World, abounding with fmart Repartees, Jefts and comical Stories, befides a Hundred mimical Tricks of good Buffoonry to make one laugh ; that it is almoft impoffible to be fad in their Company.

They are moft of them bred in the Academy, or in Colleges and Schools where the Sciences are profefled: It being in a Manner neceffary, That Men of this Trade Mhould have a Smack of all Sorts of

Vol. VI. aSpy at Paris. ir

Learning, and efpecially, that they thould be indifferent good Hiftorians; they being many Times defired to reprefent Pieces of antique and modern Hiftory, without a Pattern. They have a very facetious Way alfo of telling a Story to the Life, as well as of drawing it $\mathrm{fo}_{0}$ in Picture. The would diffolve the moft fiif and morofe Hadgi into Laughter and Jollity, to hear how gracefully they will ridicule the molt ferious Matters, and turn every Thing into Burlefque: For they are admirable Satyrifs by Nature.

Yet thefe are not all alike, but differ in their Tempers like other Men. Some of them are Proud and Stately, others Fawning and Abject : And all of them great Humourifts.

It was an odd Whim of Martin Heem/kirk, a famous Painter, that was born at a Village of the fame Name. He died in the Year of the Cbriflians Hegyra, 1574. This Man had amafs'd together in his Life-time, a vaft Quantity of Money; and having no Wife or Children, nor other Relations of his own to leave it to, he was refolved to do fomething, for which he might be talk'd of after his Death. I have heard of many dying Men, that have had one Caprice or other in making their laft Will and $\tau_{e f} f$ tament: But thou wilt fay, this of Martin's was Singular. For, on his Death-bed he bequeath'd all his Wealth to be diftributed into equal Dowries, or Portions, wherewith to marry a certain Number of Maids of Heem/kirk, his Birth-place, Yearly, on this Condition, That the New married Couple, with all the Wedding-guefts, fhould dance on his Grave.

It is neceflary for thee to know, that fince his Death there has been a great Alteration of Religion in thofe Parts: The Inhabitants, which in his Time were Roman Catbolicks, are now all Protefants. And at the Time of this Change or Reformation, as they call it, it was the general Practice of the Protefiants, to demolifh ali the Images and Croffes wherever they found 'em. Now, it was the Cuftom of the Roman Catbolicks to fet up a Crofs at the End of every Scpulcbre of the Dead. Yet. fo great a Veneration have the Heemkirkers for the Memory of this Painter, that whereas there is not a Crofs to be feen ftanding in all the Country befides; yet his, being of Brafs, remains untouch'd, as the only Title their Daugbters. can thew to his Legacy.

72 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

'Twas a more cruel and inhuman Caprice of an Italian Painter (I think is Name was Giotto) who defigning to draw a Cracifx to the Life, wheedled a poor Man to fuffer himelelf to be bound to a Crefs, for an Hour, at the End of which he Qhould be releas'd again, and receive a confiderable Gratuity for bis Pains. But inftead of this, as foon as he had him fatt on the Crofs, he fabb'd him dead, and then fell to Drawing. He was efteem'd the greateft Mafier in all Italy at that Time. And having this Adyantage, of a dead Man hanging on a Crofs before him, there's no Queftion, but he made a Matchlefs Piece of Work on't.

As foon as he had finifh'd his Piequre, he carried it to the Pope, who was aftonin't, as at a Prodigy of Art, highly extolling the Exquifitnefs of the Features and Limbs, the languihing, pale Deadnefs of the Face, the unaffected Sinking of the Head: In a Word, He had drawn to the Life, not only that Privation of Senfe, and Motion, which we call Death; but alfo the very Want of the Vital Symptom.

This is better underfood than expreffed. Every Budy knows, that it is a Malter-pie e to reprefent a Paffion or a Thought, well and naturally. Much greater is it, to decribe the total Abfence of thefe intericr Faculties, to as to diftinguifh the Figure of a Dead Man, from one that is only Afleep.

Vol. VI. a Spy at Paris.

Yet all this, and much more, could the Pope difcern in the amirable Draught which Giotto prefentel him. And be liked it to well, that he seiolved to place it over the Altar of his own Chappel: For thou knoweft, this is the Practice of the Nazarenes, to adore Pietures and Images. Giotto to'd him, Since he liked the Copy fo well, he woald fhew him the Original if he pleafed.

What doft thou mean by the Original, faid the Pope P Wilt thou fhew me Ce/us Corrift on the Creys in his own Perfon? No, replied Giotto, btt Ill thew your Holisefs the Original from whence I drew this, if you will ablolve me from all Punifhment.
The good Old Father, fufpecting fomething extraordinary, by the Painter's thas capitu lating with him, promifed on his Word, to pardon him. Which Giatie believing, immediately told him where it was: And attending him to the Place, as foon as they were enter'd, he drew a Curtain b.ck, which hung before the dead Man on the Crafs, and told the Pope what he had done.

The Holy Father, extremely troubled at $f 0$ inhaman and barbarous an Action, repeal'd his Prosi fe, and told the Painter, he ilould furely be put to an Examplary Death.

Giotto feeming refign'd to the Sentence pronounc'd uponthim, only begg'd leave to finifh the Pieture before he died; which was granted him. In the mean while, a Guard was fet upon him to prevent his Eicape. As foon as the Pope had caus'd the Pieture to be delivered into his Hands, he takes a Brufh, and dipping it into a Sort of Stuff he had ready for that Iurpoie, daubs the Piturre all over with it, fo that nothing could now be feen of the Crucifix; but it was quite effaced in all outward Appearance.

This made the Pope flark mad: He flamp'd, foam'd and rav'd like one in a Frenzy. He fwore the Painter thould fuffer the moft cruel Death that could be invented, unlefs he drew another fuil as good as the former ; for, if but the leaft Grace was mifing, he would not pardon tim : But, if he could produce an exact Parallel, he would not only give him his Life, but an ample Reward in Money.The Painter, as he had Reafon, defir'd this under the Pope's Signet, that he might not be in Danger of a Second Repeal; which was granted him. And then be took a wet Sponge, and wiped off all the Vamith he had daub'd on the Picture. And the Crucifix appear'd the fame in all Refpocts as it was before.

74 Lexters Writ by Vol.VI.

The Pope, who look'd upon this as a great Secret. being ignorant of the Arts which Painters ufe, was ravifh'd at the ftrange Metamorphofis. And, to regard the Painter's treble Ingenuity, he abfolved him from all his Sins, and the Punithments due to them; ordering moreover his Steward to cover the Picture all over with Gold, as a farther Gratuity for the Painter. And they fay, This Crucifix is the Originals, by which the moft famous Cruci fixes in Europe are drawn.

I need make no other Reflection on this, than, That as the fuppofed Murther of $\mathcal{F} f$ fus, the Son of Mary, is the Source of all the Cbrifians Devotion ; fo the real Homicide which this Painter committed, has made it more intenfe and fervent, by how much the Crucifixes drawn after the Pattern, excel all the were feen before them, in the Tragical Portraiture of the Martyr'd Mefias.

And for this Reafon it is, That Painters are in fo great Etteem among the Italians, becaufe they form the Gods which thofe Infidils adore. It is no Wonder therefore, That the cbief Head of their Church, flould fo eafily abfolve Murther in a Painter, as a venial Sin, efpecially when it is done in Ordine ad Deum, as the Ffefuits fay, that is, to pro.

Vol:VI. a Spy at Parise 75

 mote God's Glory, as the Popr cafily perfuaded himfelf this was; fince Idolatry is the main Engine which fupports the State and Grandeur of the Roman Court. And all the World knows, that Holy City is the Type of Heaven; or at leaft, the crafty Prielts would fain reprefent it fo.My Friend, Thou and I have feen enough of their Tricks, and holy Frauds, in Sicily. Praife be to God, they have no Power to Pervert us. Our Faith remains inviolate: We fill poffefs the Integrity of MuJulmans, the Native Attach we owe to the Prophet, who was fent to exterminate Idcly. In a Word, We Adore none bit One God, Creator of all the Worlds May that Incomprehenfible for ever keep us is the fame Faith and Practice, till. the Releafe of our Souls.

> Paris, 13 th of the 9 th Moon, of the Year 1661 .

LETTER VIII.

To Labano Abufci Saad, an Egyptian Knight.

THIS Court is now at Fontainbleaz, and all feems to be diffolv'd in Joy for the Birth of a Daxpbin. The Queen was deliver'd of this young Prince on the firt Day of this Moon. There's nothing but Feafting, Dancing, and Revelling on this Account, with Bonfires, and congratulatory Addrefies. Only the Duke of Orleans, the King's Brother, has little Reafon to be over merry, fince he was the next prefumptive Heir of the Crown, in Cafe the King died without Iflue Male: For the Laws of France exclude a Female from Reigning. Yet, this Duke E 2 diffembled diffembles his inward Grief, for beipg thus put by his Hope, and appears as joyful as the Father himfelf. He hugs and admires the Royal Babe, wilhing him Health and Long-life in a Compliment, whom he really could rather wifh out of the World; or at leaft that he had never come into it. So violent are the Temptations of a Crown, fo ftrong the Defire of Empire, that the Nearnefs of Relation, which endears the reft of Mortals one to aroiher, eftrang, ges the Hearts of Princes from thole of their own Blood, if they ftand in the $K_{2 y}$ of their Ambition. And I can affure thee, the French do not (pare to fay, the Dike of Orleans bas enough of this Vice to attempt great Things, were not his Gevius over-aw'd by the matchlefs Fortune and Spirit of his Brother.

76 Lexteks. Writ by Vol.VI.

Neither is this King himfelf infenfible of this; remembring wi $h$ what Warmeth the Duke stecived the flattering Aldieffes of fome Courtiers, during his Brother's dangerous sicknefs, when the Phyficians had well-nigh given him over for a dead Man.

I was acguainted with this Paffage but lately, by $\mathrm{O} / \mathrm{min}$ the Dwarf, who watches all the Motions of this Coint. He cells me, That the King being informed a Rumour was whifpered amiong the Granders of his Death, caufed them all to be fent for, and to pafs through his Chamber, whilf the Curtains of his Bed were drawn open, that they might fee their Sovereign alive, tho' in a bad State of Health. He fays moreover, that the yle Reafon why feveral Lords of late have been semoved from their Offices about the King, is, becaufe he tefented ill the too carly and paffionate Court they made to the Duke of Orleans, on tise Report of his Brother's Death 'Tis natural to all Men to love themfelves, and to defire the Difpofal of their own Affairs. No Man would be content to have his Eltate given away by his Servants, at their own Diferetion. And Sovereigh Monarchs are the molt jealous of all Men, in fuch Cafes: Particularly, the King of France is known to be a Prince very fenfible of his Honour, and foon touch'd in that Point, by the leaft Appearance of Difrefpect in his Subjoets, and of Incroahment in his Neighbonrs.As for the Duke of Orleams, he is a Prince of nogreat Character, either as a Soldier, or a Statefman : Neither has he been much talk'd of in the World, tilf the Beginning of this Year, when be married an Englijh Princefs. by Name Henrietta, Daughter so the late murdir'd King of that Nation.

Vol.vI. a Spy at Pakts. IT

We have had another Match here alfo, betweenthe late Duke of Orkean's-Daughter, and the Prince of Tufcany. Thefe Things occafion various Difcourfe among thofe who pretend to weigh exailly. the different Intereft of Cbrifitian Courts, efpecially of fuch as are concerned in the New Alliances. For the greateft Monarchs here in the Wef; marry only for Profit and Advantage, to fortify themfelves by a clofer Union with the Houfe to which they are Allied: Whereas our Eafern Princes only indulge their Paffions in the Choice of their Wives; admitting none to their Embraces, but the moll exquifite Beauties that can be found. And where they once pitch their Fancy, they neither regard Riches, Honour, or any other Recommendation, fave what their Love fuggeits; being themfelves inexhauftible Fountains of Wealth, Nobility, and good Fortune, to all who have the Happinefs to be in their Favour.

They forn to fell themfelves, and proftitute the Glory of their Diodim to a Foreign Prince, for the Sake of a little Gold, and much more Trouble, with a proud Female, whom perhaps they never faw. Yet this is the common Practice among the Princes of the Nazarene Belief; who confider not, that in-flend of a Wife, a Partner of the Empire, and a: Friend, they often entertain a Snake, a Traytor, and Enemy : Efpecially, if the be a Woman of Wit and Intrigue, as moft of them are. This made the now Queen-Mother, the Relict of Lowis XIII. fufpected: by her Hufband; and the prefent Queen of France is under the like Circumftances: And it will be always $f 0$, where Princes match themfelves afier this Manner, and cannet debar their Wives from holding a feeret Correfpondence with the Family from which they defcend.

> 78 Lexters. Wriz by Vol.VL

Afluredly, the Ottoman Politicks are the moft refined and fecere of any in the World ; our Religion mot Holy, and our Morals moft Sound. Which $T$ hree are evident Signs, that GOD has raifed up this Sacred Empire to fubdue all the Nations on Earth, and bring em to the Faith of his Divine Unity.

Paris, gth of the irth Miome of tbe Year 166 E .

LETTER IX.

To Cara Hali, Phyfician to the Grand Signior.

$T$A M now in my Chamber, by a glowing Fire, wasting Nothing that can comfort a reafonable Man: Whilft I bear the Winds whifling, the Snow driving upon the Windows, and the hollow Voices of the Watch proclaiming a Nighe little lefs Cold, than that lafting one they feel in the Aretuic Circle once a Year Yet I wifh my felf on a Plain, or on the Top of fome high Mountain, where I might feel Nature in the molt rigid of all ber $\mathrm{Hu}-$ moum,

Vol, VI. a Seriat Parise 79

mours. I love Variety, and 'tis a Pain to be confined to Pleafure itfelf, when 'tis all of one Kind, or what I am ufed to.
'Tis to thee, my dear Hcli, I owe this Thought, when you told me once, as we were walking together in the Camotery of Sultan Solyman's Mo/guc, Tbat Man is made for all $\tau$ bings.

I remember the Elegance and Force of Reafon with which you explain'd your Sentiments, upon a Lofs which I had then futtain'd by Ship-wreck; comforting me with this Reflections, That all the Gaing on Earth are only Burdens: All the Richeh, Honours, Pleafures, and whatfoever is defired by Mortals, are bat fo many Clogs to tie us fafter to this little, narrow Globe, which we are born to trample on as our Footfool.

All this is true: But I copfider farther, That the Occurrences of this Life ought to be received with Indifference, and we thould be as chearful in a Prifon as in a Palace ; becaufe Nothing can happen to us, which was not decreed by Fate. Methinks, I could go freely to Torments in a juft Caufe, as to a fumptuous Banquet. I could fmile at the Malice of my Profecutors, and triamph over the vain Executioners, when I fee them fweat at their inhu: man Toil, and yet can never have their Wills of a Soul caft into fuch a Mould as mine, whatever they may do with my Body. Tho' they excruciate me with a Thoufand Inventions of Cruelty, tho' they redice me to Athes, yet they cannor rob me of my Reafon. Neither Fire, nor Sword, nor Rack, nor any other Inftrument of barbarous Rage, can hurt my Thoughts. I fhall ftill have the Power of Meditating, in fpite of them all: And I efteem that the specifick Happinefs of a rational Creature. There's no fuch Thing as Pleafure or Pain, but what our Opinion makes fo. I have try'd to handle Fire ; I've grafped hot burning Coals in the Palm of my

80 Levters. Writ by Vol.VI.

Hand with which I now write. The elevouring Element foon farten'd on my Skin, and eat its Way trough into my Flefh, whilt I was bufy in contemplating its N ature and Effecis, without being concern'd in apy enfe of Pain. I kept a tight Rein, and curb'd my Soul. I held it wi hin Compafs, and would not fuffer it to winch, or lafh, or flounce out of itsfelf, or defeend into my Body, to refeue the Part affecied, or be concern'd at its Grievances. But, when I reflecied on the Inconveniences that might follow, and that it would hinder me from ferving the Grand Signicr and my Friends, I threw the Coals away, well fatisfy'd, That I had made the Experiment without projudicing my Reafon, or falling into any Pafion unbecoming a Man.

I take as much Pleafure in Fafting, as in Eating or Drinking ; in Labour, as in Reft ; in Watching. as in Sleep. There's no Excefs or Contrariety in Nature, which does not afford me as much Delightes Mediocrity, or the Golden Mean itfelf. I find a Guft is every Thing that happens to me. And this I take to be the proper Part of a Mugw/man, or of one Refign'd to GOD.

Yet this hinders me not from bufling in the World, and profecuting my Bufinefs with Alacrity and fome Eagernefs. We are born for Action, and not wholly for Thought. 'Tis a mix'd Life we are to lead on Farth But when I fail of my End or defir'd Succefs in any Undertaking, I am not troubled, confidering I was born to encounter Evil as well as Good in this mortal State.
In all that I have faid, I do not pretend to the celebrated Apathy of the rtoicks; I feel Pleafure and Pain from the fame Cbjects which thus affeet other Men; but I feel 'em with Indifference, not faffering my Underflanding and Judgment to participate with my Paffion and Senfe.

Vol. VI. a Spyat Paris. &i

- I have perceiv'd my felf fometimes in Agonies: which I theught exaely anfivered the Character of thofe which dying Perfons feel. And I believe they were in a Degree the very fame: Yet I found no panic Fears upon me, no Dread of that Amazing Change :- But rather certain blooming Hopes, young, tender, Springing Joys, arifing from the Thoughts of a new Life, the unavoidable Effect of that which we call Death, wherein I promifed iny felf the Pleafare of frefh Epjoyments and Diverfions, to which I was wholly then a Stranger.

If thou thinkeft this too extravagant, and that Death is not a proper Object of our Wifhes, yet thou. wilt at leaft acknowledge, that it may furnith us with fafficient Arguments of Content and Acquiefcence, fince no Man can avoid it, and it is fo fure to entertain us with Novelties, which we never were acquainted with before, which recommends it under a very defirable Figure, becaufe Human Nature perpetually covets New Things.

I have feen Perfons condemned to Death here ins Paris, who have been offered Life upon certain Conditions no agreeing with their Humour : yet have refufed it, and rather chole Death, which they knew would free 'em at once from all their prefent Troubles. And thou knowett with what Refignation our Greateft Baffi's fubmit their Necks to the Excrufiorers, when the Grand Signion thinks fit to call for: their Lives. All that they reply to the fatal Mar. late is, The Will of my Sovereign Lord be dine. They at once gather up all the Strength. of their fcattered Reafon, and Mrink their dilated Soxls to a Point. Then with a redoubled Force, they make of their Inclinations to Honours, Riches, and the Fleafures of this Life, as a Man rouzes from a long Dream or Trance. With Omiles, and a profound Subsaiffion they kifs the Royal Firme, being awken'd to the Thoughts of more Illuftrious and Serene Joys, than

$$
\text { E } 5 \text { this }
$$

82 Lextess Writ by Vol.VI. this grofs Earth affords, even to the ineffible Pleafares of Eden, the fure Reward of thofe that die in Obedience and Peace: Since they are to be efloem'd Martyrs, as well as thofe who meet Death in the Field of the facred Combat, in the War for our Holy Faith.

Ob ! That it were my Lot, thus to expire in Ho nour, to have my laft Breath mixed with the devout Afpirations and Suffiagen of Iree Belicuets, that fomy Example might odify others, and the publick - Charater of an untainted Loyalty might benefit myfelf: Whilat Fame proclaimed it before my Arrival at the Invifible Regions, to prepare the Ghoft of Juft Men to bidme Weloome, and give me a kind Reception, who am yet wholly a Seranger in thofe Parts of the World: For Death itfelf cannot banifh me out of the Uaiverfe. And there's my laft Comfort.

Thou, My dear Phyfician, wilt conslude I'm melancholy by this kind of Difeourfe. But, I tell thee, 'cis only another Way of exprefing the focret Piea. fure and Tranquility of my Soul, which is mone to be valued by him that erjoys it, than all the Laughter and extruxagant Mirth in the World. Thefe only ruffle our Paftions, and raife a Duft in our Eyes : Whereas, the ocher compoie and purify our Reafon, giving us a confant Profpect of: Things Paft, Pren fent, and to Come. So that we can never be at a Lofs, but always ready equip'd for the wort Contin:gencies. Hali, Adjeu.

Paris, 15 th of the 12 th Moom, of the Year 1661.

Vol.VI. a Spyat Pakia.

LETTER X

To the fame.

THE Court of Erance in all Things endeavours to imitate the ancient Granduer of the Remam Emperors, and their Policy. As they hed their Ampitbeatres, wherein were exhibited all Sorts of Shews and Speftacles to divert the Peeple in Time of Peace; fo have Thefe their Theatres, whereon, according to the more acceptable Mode of the prefent Age, are reprefented the various Kinds of Virtue and Vice; Mens Follies and Perfections; modern Hamours, and the andient Morality ; Intrigues of Love, and of State ; furprizing Actions of War; and the fubrle Overturea of Peace ; and Tyranny of Sovereigns, and Rebellion of Subjects. In fine, Whatfoever is trected of in Books, is here acted to the Life on the Stage, and with fo much Advantage of Scenes, Interludes, Mufick, Dances, Language, Wit, Humour, and the like charming Circumftances, that a Man, at fome Hours, cannot better pafs away his Time, than in being prefent at thefe Entertainments; where all that be has read, either in Ancient or Modern Hiftory, deferving Remark, thall be fucceffively prefented to his View, as efficaciounly as if the Perfons were now living. and in Prefence, whofe Aations each Play defreribes.

There you fhall be introduced as it were, into the Court and Camp, of the Grand Cyrus: You fhall accompany Aloxander the Great in his. Expeditions through 4 fra: You fhall fee him die of Poifon at Babyloms and the Macedonian Empire Cantonized among his Officers: You mall behold all the Romar Cafars in their Rife and Fall: With whatfoever Particularities were obfervable in this or any other renowned Monarchy on Barth; not excluding the

$$
\text { E } 6
$$

84 Lerteks Writ by Vol,VI.

laft and moft univerfat Empire of Ottomams. For thefe Infidels prefume to act o'er again, the Part of Tamerlane, and lead about in a Dramatick Triumph, the Encased, yes fill Invincible Bajazef. In Habits, which only become the deftin'd Conqnerors of the World, thefe Slaves dare perfonate the Glorious Solyman, Mabonct the Great, the Vietofious Selam, and even Amwratb himfelf, the flouteft Emperor that ever reign'd : I mean, the Uncle of our prefent Sovereign.

Befides True Hittory thus reprefented, the Spectasors are fometimes diverted with fabulous Entries of Gods, Njmpbs, Favus, Satyrs, Mufes, Graces, MonBers, and whatfoever we find in the Ancient Poets.

There you fhall fee Prometbous fetching Fire fromHeaven, to give Life to this Man of Clay; Lycaon transform'd into a Wolf, for his unhofpitable Carriage to Jupiter; Ganymede inatch'd up into Heaven: by an Eagle, and made Jupiter's Cup-bearer, for his fingular beauty. In is pleafant affo to fee Pbrizws,凶 $\mathbf{i t h}$ his Sifter Hille, fwimming o'er the the Hellefpont on the Back of a Ram. with a Golden Fleece; whilft fhe for Fear, falls off, and is drown'd: And from her Name (Helle) that Sea is fuppos'd to be fo called. In the mean while, Pbrixus fwims forward, and arrives at Colcbis, where he facrifices the Ram,' andhangs the Golden Fleece up in the Temple; which was afterwards ftole away by Jafon and his Argos.auts. It is equally diverting, to fee the Artifice of the Scenes and Machines, which reprefent Jupiter transforming himfelf into a Shower of Gold, and fodefcending into Dazae's Lap, when he begets Perfo${ }_{2 s}$ on her, who fubdued the Gorgons, and with $M_{c}$ dufa's Head turned the Capben Nobles into Statues: In a Word, all the Ingenious Filtion of Orpbeus, Homer, Hefood, Ovid, and the reft of the Greek and Roman Peots, are here tranflated, not fo much from one Language to another, as from Words to

Vol. VI. a Spy at Paris. $\quad 8_{5}$

 Ations, and from dead, inanimate Characters, to living Figures of the Things themfelves. For thefe Sort of Plays are aeted by Men, Women, and Children, culld out, and educated for that Purpofe; and the Managers are at a vatt Charge, for Variety of proper Scenes and Dreffes for every Occafion ; each Actor being exactly apparel'd according to the different Quality of Perfons reprefented; and the Mode of the Age and Country wherein they lived.Thefe Sorts of Divertifements are very agreeable both to the Court and City. The King takes great Delight in them, efpecially in Ballets and Paftorals, which confift chiefly of good Songs and Dances, mixed with bold and uncouth Entries of Antiques, reprefenting Monfters and Devils, as the Chrifiams ufually defcribe' 'em.

- But there was lately a Check given to their Sport, by an Accident which has furpriz'd all People that heard of it, and has puzzled the moft intelligent Heads to give an Account of fo ftrange an Occarrence.

On the 1 gth of this Moon, the King and the whole Coart were prefent at a Ballet, reprefenting the Grandeur of the Frencb Monarchy. About the. Middle of the Entertainment, there was an Antique Dance, perform'd by twelve. Mafqueraders, in the fuppos'd Forms of Demons. But before thy had. advanced far in their Dance, they found an Interloper amongt 'em, who, by encreafing the Number Thirteen, put them quite out of their Meafures : For they practice every Step and Motion beforehand, till they are perfect. Being abafh'd therefore at the unavoidable Bluaders the Thirteenth Antique made them commit, they ftood fill like Fools, gazing at one another: None daring to unmakk, or fpeak a Word; for that would have put. all the Spectators into a Diforder and Confufion.

86. Letiers Writ by Vol. VI.

Cardigal Maxarini (who was the chief Contriver of thefe Entertainments, to divert the King from mone ferious Thoughte) flood clofe by the young Monareh, with a Scheme of the Ballet in his Hand. Knowing therefore, that this Dance was to: confít but of Twelve Antiques, and taking Notice that there were actually Thirteen, at firt imputed it to fome Mifiake. But, afterwards, when he pefceived the Confufion of the Dancers, and that they could not proceed, he made a more narrow Enquiry into the Caufe of this Diforder. To be brief, they convinced the Cardinal, That it could. be no Ernor of theirs, by a Kind of Demonftration, in that they had but Twelve Antique Dreffes of that, Sort, which were made on Purpofe for that particular Ballet; whereas, the Thirteenth Dancer was difguifed after the fame Manner. Therefore they concluded, Thax either the Devil, or fome Body, elfe, had put a Trick on them. That which made it feem the greater Myftery was, That when they came behind the Scenes to uncafe, and examine the Matter, they found but Twelve Antiques, whereas on the Stage there were Thirteen.
The preciferSort of Bigots gave it out for certain, That the Devil was amongft them : Whilt others more probably fay, 'twas only fome envious or ambicious Dancing-matter, who was cither refolved to be revenged for not being one of the Twelve, or defigu'd to thew his Parts Incognite againt another Opportunity, and in the Luterioms let the Coust a wondering at his fingular Skill and Dexterity : For it wat oblerv'd, That one of the Thirteen far furpafr'd all whe reft, and did Things to a Miracle.

Be it how is will, it has brought to Memory a: Paffige that happened on the like Occafion, at a Town not far from Paris, about Eighteen Years ago, yet 'twas not half fo much talk'd of then, ast 'tis now; which was the Reafon, I took no Notice:

Vol. VL a Spy at Paribal &y

of it in any of my Letters. But now they are big with it: 'Tis the general' Difcourfe of all Companies who make Comparifon of that Event with this. Perhaps 'twill not be unpleafant to thee to know it.
In the Year r644, toward the litter End, a Company of Stage-Players were at a Place call'd Vitry, entertaining the People with Comodies: but there happened fomething really Tragical to one of the Asiors, This Man was to perform the Part of one Dead, and then he was to revive again by Magich. He acted his Part too truely, and baffed the Necramamcer's Art. For when he touch'd him with his Talifman, as the Rules of the Play requir'd, in order to his Refurredion, the inanimate Trunk could not obey. The Man was Dead indeed.

Whether he overftrain'd himfelf in imitating the filent, ${ }^{\text {, ftill, }}$, and irrecoverable Privations of parfive State, and gave his fippery Soul a frong Temptation, with a fair Opportunity to efcape it's. Bonds; or, Whether Hoevem had a parvicular Hand in fo remaskablea Catafiropbe, I will not prefume to divine. But this, and the other Occurrences, has put the People quite aut of Conceit with Playh Sage Hali, Remember the Arabiam Proverb, which fays, Tis ner good to jefe? wish God, Deatb, of tbe Dcvil. Fer tbe Fir $\beta$ meirthen can, mor will be mock'd; the Secomdmacks all Men, am Time or ouben; and tbon Tbird puts an cternal Sarcafin on thefe that are too familian with bim. Adiea.

Paris, 30th of the ift Meam, of the Year 1662.

88 Letrers Writ by Vol. VI.

LETTER XI.

To Dgnet Oglou.

$\square$OD unravel my Soul, reverfe my Faculties, turn my Nature infide out, make me a Monfter of a new Predicament, or annihilate me, which he pleafes, if I am not true to my Trutt; yet the: Minifters of the Port fufpect me.

By the Thoughts of Mabomet our holy Law-giver, whilt he was climbing the boundlefs Heighths of the Firmament, I've a Heart like the Roman Curtius, who bravely leap'd into the fathomlefs Abyso, to fave his Country from Ruin. They miftake Mabmut, who think he'll be pimp'd out of his Loyalty by Frowns or Smiles, Flatteries or Threats, Gold or Tortures. I'd run Rifque of Damnation it felf to ferve my Sovercign, or do any thing becoming a Man of Honour. Yet my Superiors ufe me like a Villain or a Traytor. Their Letters ate full of Reproaches and Threatnings, as if I were not worthy to live. 'Tis' ftrange to me whence all this Malice fthould proceed; and that after I have done and fuffered all that could be expected from a Mufriman in my Poft, to demonftrate my incorruptible Fidelity to. the Grand Seignior, I thall ftill be perfecuted as a Tiafer, and Enemy to the Otteman Interelt, I know not what to think of it.

If I have do any Thing which deferves Death, or Imprifonment, why do they not fend for me to Confantinople, and execute Juftice on me ? Or, if I am not thought fit to continue any longer in this Poft, why do they not call for my Commifion, and give it fomebody better qualify'd ? Either of thefe would be a merciful Proceeding, compar'd with the more cruel and ignominious Way they have invented to murder me: For, now they put me to a lingring Death, by cnntinually corroding and wafting the Peace of my Soul, which is my Life, with Contempts and Reproaches.

Vol.VI. a Spyat PARis.

I am not at all troubled when they tax me with Atheifm, or fay, Im a Kyfilbafcbi, a Libertine, a Cbrifiam, a Hentben:Pbilofopher; or, when they are pleas'd to make a Monfer of me, a Mungrel Gallimaxfy, a walking Hotcbpot, compounded of $\mathcal{F e u}$, Turk, Nazarene, and Epicure. In loading me with thefe opprobious Titles, they rank me with fome of the greateft Mortals, and engage even our Holy Propbet himfelf to efpoufe my Caufe, and vindicate my Reputation; fince he is in thefe very Terms blarphem'd by the Followers of $\mathcal{f e f u s}$ : Thefe Infidels, forgetting that their own Mefics was after the like Manner traduc'd by the fows, who call'd him Impopor, Magician, Heretick, Devil, and I know not what. This has been the Lot of all holy Men and Prophets, to be envy' $d$ and afpers'd by the Grandees of the Nation and Age wherein they liv'd: Becaufe they boldly reprov'd their Vices, and taught them the fincere Maxims of Virtue, both by Word and Example. And though I have not Vanity enough to lift. my'elf in the Number of Prophets, or perfect Men ; yet I have Reafon to conclude, That all this Perfecution is rais'd againft me, on the Account of the Liberty I take to reprehend the Errors and Failings of thofe who are Slaves to the Grand Signior as well as I : Tho' I have heen commanded to do this by the mot Auguft Minitter of the Empire. But Great Men in Power love not to be told of their Faults. They would live Arbitrary as Sovereigns, without the leaft Check or Controul. They will rather cherifh a Thoufand Flatterers and Sycophants, than fuffer one Diogenes to live.

But that which vexes me moft is, That they glance upon me in fome Exprefions, as if I were. falfe falie to the Truth which is repofed in me. A Crime for which I ever had an invincible Abhorrence, and which would fooner tempt me a Thoufand Times to die, than to be once guilty of it. Thou know'it my Temper, and I need fay no more.I thould have barft with Grief and Indignation, had I not given my Refentment this Vent, and that to a Friend; who, by knowing my Affliction, takes one half of it for his own Share, and fo I'm eas'd.

90 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

> Paris, 2d of the 4 th Moin, of the Year 1662.

LETTER XH.

To Abrahim Ali Zeid, Hadgi, Preacber to tbe Seraglio.

$T$HEY have a Proverb here in the Wef, which fays, All is not Gold that gliftrr. And 'is frequently verify'd in their own Priefts, who are gemerally the greatelt Hypocrises in the Wesid.

I had not been long in this City, before I fent a Letter to Bedradin, Superior of the Dervifes of Cogni in Natolia, whofe Soul is now with GOD; wherein I gave him an Account of the Converfe I once had with a Gefuis. For, pretending to be a Sudent, and Retainer to the Clergy, I could not avoid the Company of Ecclefiafticks; befidet, it was my Intereft to infinuate into their Acquaintance ; and, to tell the Truth, I have made it a great Part of my Buff nefs to gain a Familiarity with Priefts and Dervifes, ever' fince I came hither.

There was Abundance of Reafon for this, on fever rel Accounts. For I improved myfelf much by the Society of thefo amongit them that are Learned;

Vol.VI. a Spxat Parisel, gs

 and I edify'd not a little by the very Ignorance and Follics of others. From fome I fquecr'd out Secrets of State, and the Defign of Cabals: By other I penetrated into the myfferious Vices of their own Order. In a Word, All of them taught me fomething or other which I knew not before; and I never had Occafion to repent of keeping them Company.I contracted a particular Friendhip with an boneft Friar or two in this City, who were Perfons of Candor and Learning: But now they are dead. Befides, I have had no fmall Intimacy with Cardiaal Richlicw, and his Succeffor Mazarimi. I tell thee, if I had not coveted the Friend dhip of thefe Princely Priefs, yet it had been impofiible to efcape their Knowiedge as obfcure a Figure as I make. For. it was their conflant Praatice, thus to feek out all the Strangers and Travellers in this City, under Pretence of that greas Regard they had for Men of Merit ; bat in Reality, to panap out of them Foreign Secres.
Cardinal Richlick profefs'd a great Kindnefs to. me, becaufe I had been at Conffantinople, and in other Parts of the Gramd Sigmier': Dominons. Ho feem'd alfo to value me not a lietle for my Skill in interpreting Greek, Sclavomick, and other Languagea of the Eaf. What thought of me in's Hearr, I cammot divine; but have Reafon to think, be fufpeeted me for a Mu Juymen. And yet I wonder ho never fearch'd for the main Proof, the Mark of Cimcumcifon. Perhaps, 'twas an Effect of his good Nature, as being loth to ruin me irrecoverably. But I had rather afrribe it to Providence, which would not fuffer him, it may be, to make fo fatal a Reflection : Yet, by his Order fome Years ago, I was imprifon'd for fix Moons. What the Meaning on't was, I could never dive into. But I had a flirewed Jealoufy of a certain Trantlylvanian Refident at this Court, whe perhaps might do me fome ill Offices. The World's tike a Lottery, wherein we mut expect to meet with many Unlucky Chances.By what I have faid, thou wilt eafily perceive, That although the Priefts make a fair Semblance of Piety, Niortification, and other Religicus Virfues, yet they fre great Busy-bodies, and wholly taken up in Secular Affairs.

Q2 Leviters: Wrif by Vol.VI.

If this were the worf Charaier they deferve, they might pars for very good Men, and neceflary Inftruments of the Publick Welfare: Becaufe, they have the Tutclage and Guardianflip of all Mens Confiences; they form them in their Youth, and govern them in their ripelt Years. Befides, they have many Advantages: of fudying the Politicks: more than other Men, as being all Educated in all Acadomies, where, if they be not very dull; they cannot fail of becoming good Hiftorians, and indifferent Statefmen: For their Libraries abound with all Manner of asciont and modern. Writers, and their Converfation is generally refin'd and pregnant in Intrigues.
Bat they corrupt their Learning with falle Maxims,: which they borrow from an intolerable Pride and Senfuality; perfuading themfelves, That they are as far above other Men, that is, the Laity, as thofe are above the Beafis; that GOD has beftow'd on them, a Dignity fuperior to that of the great. ef Temporal Monarchs; and, in fine, That this Eartb is a Paradife, and themfelves the Gods and Lords of it.

When $I$ fpeak at this Rate of the Nasarene Priefts, underfand me not without Reftriction. There are fome good and holy Men amongit them, Perfons of unblemith'd Manners, and incorrupt Sincerity. But thefe are very rare; and the Frencb Priffs are efteem'd the moft fincere of any within the Pale of the Roman Churcb.

Vol.VI. a Spy at Panis. 93

As for the Italian Clergy, they are meer Liber. tines is the moft debauch'd and profligate Fellows in the World.

Adomai, the Feav, a late private Agent of the Grand Signier, who had travell'd up and down through all Iraly, and refided a confiderable Time in the chief Cities and Towns of Noie, made many curious Obfervations and Remarks on the Lives of the Priefts, which he fet down in his Journal. This I have by me now, it being fent me, according to my Defire, after his Eeath, by Zeidi Alamanzi, his Succeffor in that Station, who is at prefent at $V$ vnice.
I have perus'd this Reiation my felf, with no fmall Pleaiure; and believe, twill not be unwelcome to thee, to give thee an Abfract of what he fays.

It is pofible, he may exaggerate fome Things, and deliver himfelf too par:ially in others, out of the natural and inherent Averfion the Fowes have for the Cbrijizians. But thou wilt find, that in the main, he infilts only on fuch Reficetions, as it becomes any Man to make, who has the leatt Spark of common Mora'ity and Reafon.

In the firt Place, He finds Fault with the Ecciefiefticks, in that they abftain from Marriage themfelves, yet recommend that State to the Laity, as a very Holy Sacrament, and Myftery of Religion: whilf they indulge themfelves at the fame Time, in all Mann r of Lacivioufnefs; wallowing in Fornication, Adultery, Inceft, and Sodomy itfelf. He fays, There is hardly one Prieft in ten, who does not keep two or three Harlots; and the mott reclafe Dervifes, are either Pimps to other Men's Lufts, or they indulge their own with the moit infanous Courtizans and Catamites. Thele Pretenders to Perfection and Sanctity, are often found Miafquerading, and Revelling about the Streets. in the Time of their Curnavel, with a Company of Whores, for their attendants, Nay, all the Year round their Monafteries are no other than stews, or Brotbel-Howfes. They introduce Women into their Cells in a Monafick Habit, and fo they pafs for Men. who come to vifit them as Friends, Relations, or Travellers. Thefé Ladies of Pleafure lie thus conceal'd for many Days and Nights together. And the Superior of the Convents winks at this for a little Money, being moft commonly as bad as any of them.Thefe Holy Fatbers go marching and flouching along the Streets in the moft mortify ${ }^{\circ} \mathrm{d}$ Manner imaginable. You would take 'em for perfect Santomes; and Idiots. Yet this is all but Mummery, whild they ate the moft glozing Hypocrites in the World, meer Devils in a City, and abounding in wicked Thoughts and Practices.

94 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

Adonia, rells a pleafant Story of a young Monaftick of St. Dominick's Order at Rome. This Monk was of noble Extraction, and his Parents were very rich and powetful in the City. On which Account he was indulg'd in many Liberties deny'd to the reft of his Religious Brethren. He was permitted to carry good Quantities of Gold and Silver about him, for his perfonal Expences ; and to war a fecular Habit fuitable to his Birth and Quality, But this Liberty had like to have proved fatal to him one Night during the Carnawal.

It was late, and very dark, when this Religious Bully was beating the Streets, upon the Hunt for Whores; and rwalking under certain Piazza's neat the River Tgber, he was accofted by a Woman mak'd and in a very good Drefs, who fpoke to him frankly, aking him the Way to Il Rorundo. This is the Name of a Cburch in Romr, dedicated to All the Saints: In the Time of the Gentiles, 'twas call'd Pantbeon, or, The T cmple of all the Gods. The Monk, being in one of his Rambling Equipages, and his Inclinations equally bent on Pleafure, having allo a Hundred Florvins about him ; prefently made anfwer, He would conduet her to the Place fhe enquired for. She, after fome counterfeit Eflays of a modef Repulfe, at length accepted his Offer: And by the Way he perfuaded her into a Tavern. The cunning Nymph manag'd her Bufinefs fo well, That the Monk, over-heated with Wine, and other coftly Entertainments, grew fo in Love with her, that he forgot the was to go the Pantbeon, and offer'd to wait on her home. She accepted the Motion, and telling him her Houfe waf feated on the Banks of the Tyber, they returned the fame Way as they came.

Vol.vi. a Sprat Pasis. 95

When they arriv'd at the Piazza's, where they firt neet, Three Perfons appear'd muffled up in Cloaks ; Two of which fuddenly feiz'd the Monk, holding their Ponyards at his Breait ; whilft ths Third difclofing the hidden Light of a dark Lanthron, which he held in his Hands, faften'd on the Lady, and made her unmak. As foon as he faw her Face, he ftamp'd and rav'd, menac'd and fwore, he would be the Death of that Villain, who had debauch'd hit Wife, All this was but a fore-laid Defign. In a Word, after all the Parts of an abufed, incens ${ }^{\circ}$ d, revengeful Hubband, acted to the Life, at laft, through the Intereeffion of the Two other Ruffians, and the Monk's penitent and fubmiffive Addrefs, in was concluded to fpare his Life, and only ftrip him naked: leaving him in that Condition to feek his Fortune among the Watch.

This was foon put in Execution, and the Freebooters, with all their Prey, fecurely march'd off. The poor Monk, thus miferably abandon'd, without Garments, Money, or any Thing to comfort him in this Calamity, or to bribe the Watch, gave himfelf over to Melancholy and Defpair, in regard this Accident would bring an eternal Infamy on him, and he mould be to longer able to thew his Face in Rome, the Seat of his Nativity; nor among any of his Kindred and Friends. Sometimes he thought to drown himelf in the Tyber; or elfe to coumterfeit a Frenzy, and fo run bawling, drivel. ling, and talking Nonfenfe thro' the Street; hoping the reft would never be divulged.

96 Lexter's Writ by Vol.VI

Whilit he was in thefe penive Thoughts, irrefolute what to do, the W atch walking their Rounds, bolied upon him on a fucden; and feeing a naked Man, at that Time of Night, in fuch a folitary Place, at firft were ftartled, as tho they had met a Gbof, but recollecting themfelves better, they boldly feiz'd his Perfon, and examined how he cantie in that Condition.

It was in vain for nim to beg, intreat, and promife any Thing, if they wou'd not expofe him to open Shame. This did but increafe their Curiofity and Sufpicion_ In a Word, the Place of their Rendezvouz being very near the fame Tavern where this unfortunate Monk had regalid his Strompet, they led him thither, and kept him Prifoner till the Morning He that kept the Houfe, remember'd his Face again, and knowing that the Governor of Rome had a fecret Enmity againt the Monk, and all his Kace, fent him private intelligence of this Adventure, encouraging him to take his Opportunity of Revenge; hinting withal. That he need not take Notice, that he knew the Monk, but only punifh him as an ordinary Fellow, breaking the Laws of the City.
$\therefore$ The Governor, being glad of this Occafion, when the Monk was brought before him, order'd him to be whip'd thro' the very Street where his Monaftery ftood. This was done accordingly; and as he pafs'd by the Gate, his Brethern, feeing him in that Conditions, rufh'd out and refcued him from the Executioner's Hands, breathing Revenge againft the Governor, and all that were concern'd in putting this Difhonour on the Houfe, and the whole Order.1 muft be forc'd to breaik off, before I have inform'd thee of Half their I ricks, lett I mould tire thee with the Length of my Letters. Befides, it is neceflary for me to conclude, unleís I would mils my Opportunity: For the Poil tarries for no Man.

Vol.VI. a Sex at Paris. 97

Venerable Hadgi, Live thou to enjoy the Serene Pleafures of Virtue and Innocence, and pray for Mabmut, That he may never be flain d with the Corruptions and Vices of 1 .fidils, ainong whom he refiuce.

Patis, 1 Sth of tbe 5:h M.on, of the rear 1662.

L E T TER XIII.  To the Chiaus Bafla.

TH E Frenclo King's Genius feem altogether bent on martial and politick Affairs ; and tho' he allows fome Moments to his Love, yet the greatelt Part of his Time is confecrated to the necellary Affairs of State, and to the Improvement of Military Difcipline. This has been his Courfe ever fince the Death of Cardinal Mazarini. This Minifter, whilit he was living endeavour'd nothing to carneilly, as to divert the young Monarch from minding Bufinefs, by Plays, Ballads, and other foft Entertainments. But as foon as he was dead, the King began by Degrees to forfake his youthful Recreations, and look into the Affairs of his Government.

The firft bold Stroke of Regal Authority which hegave, was the Suppreffing the Superintendant of the Financ s, a very ancient Office in Fravce, but much abus'd of late by thofe who bave enjoyed it. For, having the Management of the Royal Requenues, it has been tound out, that they enibezzel'd them to their own private Ufe, purchating Houfes, Caftles, Towns, and the faireft Eftates in the Kingdom, for them and their Poflerity.The laft in this Office was the Sicur Fouguct ; who, befides the Wafte he made of the King's a oney in this Kind, was laying up an extraordinary Provifion of Arms and Powcer in Belle Ifle, a Sea-Port of France: Which gave the King fo great a $S_{\text {uppicion of }}$ his ill Defigns, that he went in Purfon after him as far as Namtes; and being there farther informed of a private Correfpondence held between the Siaur Fouquet, and fome Mul-ce:tents of Cardinal' de Retz's Party, he caus'd him to be arrefted, and fent Prifoner to the Wood of Vi, cienwes: Form whence he has fince been brought to the Bafile. This was done in the Ninth Moon of the lait Year, and was the Occafion of erecting a New Cbamber of $\mathbf{f u f f i c e}$, to enquire into the Conduct of thofe who were employed by Fenguct, in the Management of the Fimances.

98 Leiters Writ by Vol. VI.

The great Difcoveries this Cbumber has already made, of the Cheats and Tricks practifed by thofe through whofe Hands the Kivg's Rivenves have paffed, will 'is thought, move the King, to eftablith it as aperpetual and Sovercign Coart of Imquiffion: So that, not the Value of an $1 / \rho$ er fluall henceforth he paid out of the Reyal I reafury, without the Approbation of this Cbamber. He tas alfo recrenched many fuperliuous Officers in his Houfhold, that he may the nore cafily fupport the Charges of thofe that are Necfiary.

Thou wilt better comprehend the Wifdom of this Prince, when thou fiall know, That he trufts. nothing abfolutely to his Minifters, but pries into

Vol. VI. a Sexat Paris.

100 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

It feems an Ambaffador from Sweden arriv'd at the Englifb Conrt in the 10th Moon of the laft Year: The French Ambaffador fent his Coaches to honour the Publick Entry, as is ufval between Friends. But the Spanifh Ambaflador, defigning to attiont the French, fent his Coaches alfo to attend the Ceremony, accompany'd by his own Servants, and a Rabble of idle Perions whom he had hir'd on Purpofe. Thefe fell on the Frencb as they were pafiing along the Street, kill'd feveral of them, and by Force ftopp'd their Coaches, till tho e of the Spunifo Ambaffador were got before ' em ; the Pre-eminence of Place being the chief 'Thing aimed at.

This was highly refented at the Frencb Court, and every Body thought that a frefh War would break out again between the Two Nations on this Account. I he angry Young Monarch commanded the Spani/b Ambaflador refident bere to depart the Kingdom ; and when another was fent to fupply his Place, the King forbid him to enter his Lominions. Compiaims were made at Madrid, and all Things tended to a Rupture. Till at length, the King of Spain having promifed to make Satisfaction, his Ambafiador was receiv'd at this Court, who affured the King. That his Marter difavowed the Action of his Minitter in England, and had given exprefs Command to all his Ambatiadors in Foreign Courts, not to difpute the Place with thofe of France, but to yield it to the latter, where they thould both be prefent at the fame Entry. This was declared in the Prefence of Thirty Foreign Minillers refiding at this Court, which has rais'd a valt Reputation to the King of France among all his Neighbours, and ftruck the greater Reverence into bis Subjects at home.
In a Word, he is look'd upon as the mott fortunate Prince in Clixifindim, and every State courts bis Friendihip. He gives the Laws to the relt of I!

Vol. VI. a Spy at Paris. 101 Europe, yet remains himfelf Arbitary and above Controul.

How long his Affairs will contínue at this Height, is known only G OD, who exalts and abafes whom He pleafes ; who is the fole Monarch of all Things. Reigning for ever, without the leall Shadow of Revolution or Change.

Paris, 1 2th of ibe 7 th Moon, of tbe Year 1662.

LETTER XIV.

To tbe Same.

IT was lase when I finifid my other Letter, being the Hour of the Devil's Range, when the Infernal Spirits are permitted to air themfelves in this Upper World. Methought I heard the Clattering Eccho of the Gates of Paradifo, which are fhut at that Seafon to keep out the Demons from entering and difturbing the Repole of the Blefs'd. This made me conclude fo abrupt'y, leit lome bufy Scribe of the dark Regions, fhould have inferted Evil in my Let:er whilf I were alleep. I recommended myself to GOD, and went to Bed. After Two Hoars Reft awaking, I preceiv'd by the Crowing of the Coiks, That the Troops of Hell were retir'd to their Den, chas'd down by Arcturus and the Guardian Conftellations of the Soutb, and by the Angels of the Second Watch. Then I arofe, and chearfully addrefs'd myfelf to GOD, praifing him for the fucceffive Benenits of Day and Night, and extolling his Magnificent Works, with the exquifite Order that he has eftablifh'd in the World. Remem$\mathrm{F}_{3}$ bring bring alfo, That I was a Man, and not born to fleep but to ferve the Grand Seignior and my Friends, I readily fet Pen to Paper again, to give thee a farthe $r$ Account of the Frinch King and his Court, with fuch Orcurrences as have haypened of la e.This Monarch is very fingular in his Conduat and Manner of Life, not brooking to be confin'd to the Maxims of others; but fqıaring all his Actica by Rules of his own : Yet, tis difficult to find rault in his Proceedings. He henrs the Advice of his Counfellors and Friends; and when they have done, he convinces them in many Things, that they are under a Miftake; which makes them admire the Force of his Reafon, and the Readinefs of his Wir, efpecial'y when they fee the Event anfwering Expectation.

102 Letters Wirit by Vol.VI.

Neither is he altogether fo intent on State Matters, but that he fomecimes gives himelf the Diverfion of a familiar Difcourfe with the moft Ingenious Artifts of all Sotts, who find themelves muth improv'd by the Quicknefs of his Invention, and the Solidity of his Judgment in the Mechanicks: For, he is an excellent Gam. Jmitb, Sword-cwler, idrovimaker, and every Thing that becomes a King to pro. fe's.

He is a good Architel alfo, and takes vait Delight in Buildings, having laid the Foundation of feveral Magnificent Strue.ures, Palaces of a Noble Defign, and intended to outvie the mot Polite and Glorious Fatricks of ancient Griece and Rome. For, I tell thee, this Monarch would not willingly come thart of any of the Cafars.

At the Beginning of this Year, he aggrandiz'd his Ccurt, by a Promotion of Sixty Two $\mathbf{K}_{\text {ights of }}$ the Brly Sirit. 1 have often mentioned this Order in my Letters to the Mini"ers of the Port; and thou that haft been in France know'ft, That 'tis the next Step to being made a Peer of Realm. I thall only inform inform thee, that daring the Ceremony of this lat t Promotion, the Dukes of Vendofme and Longurville had a Feud about the Precedency, which at lat was adjusted in Favour of the former. In a Word, The King declared the House of Vendofme to have a Right of Priority before all other Princes, and to fucceed in the Throne it fell after the House of Bourbon.

Vol. VI. a Spy at Paris. 103

This is looked upon as a bold Effort of Royal Power, and has farted all the Court. No lefs farprized were they to fee the Duke of Lorrain refign all his Eftates to the King of France, referving only the Poffeffion of them during his Life.

And now the King, having weather'd the Point, with all his Enemies, both Foreign and Domeltick, ftudies nothing more eameftly, than to divert his Queen, and let his Subjects taste the Sweets of Peace, the Effect of his matchlefs Fortune, to which even Crown'd Heads find themselves compell'd to floop and fubmit.

On the Fifth of the foregoing Moon, by his Appointment, was held a Tournament or Carousel, as the French call it. This is a Sort of Exercife on Hordeback, in Imitation of the ancient Manner of fighting with Spear and Shield.

The Place where they ran was rail'd about, and magnific ant Cbiofes erected for the Queen and Ladies of the Court to fit in, as Spectators. The Divertifement was very Pompous ; and the King was one of the Combatants. The eft were the Duke of Orleans, the King's Brother, the Prince of Conte, the Duke of Enguien, Son to the Prince, and the Duke of Guile. Each of there led a Troop of Horde into the Field. That of the King's was habited after the Manner of the old Roman Khights. The Duke of Orlean's made a Figure like the Persians: The Prince of Conde's reprefented the Ottomans: The Duke of Enguicn's Troops were in Indian Habits; and the Duke of Guile's appear'd like the Salvages of

104 Lexters Writ by Vol, VI.

America. It would be too tedious to defcribe the particular Magnificences of each Suffice it to fay, That they were all prodigioufly Majeftick and Rich in their Equipage. The Courfes alio they made, were Grave, and full of Gallantry. But the Prize, which was a Diamond of great Value, was adjudged to the Prince of Corde by the Queen-Mo her.

One of the former Kings of France loft his Life at this Royal Exercife, being ran through the Eye into the Brain, by the pear of an Englifb Knight, then at the Frencb Court, and one of the Combat ints: For which Reafon the following Kings of France forbore to expofe themfelves in the like Danger: But this joung A'ars fears Notling, being as ventrous and bold as was. Sultan Amurat, the Irophies of whofe victorious Combat with the Perfocn Cballenger, at the Siege of Babylon, hang up in the Treafury to this Day, as Monuments of his invincible Courage and Strength. Sultan Acbmet alfo took great Delight in throwing the Lance with his Courtiers in the Atmeidan. Thefe are Sports fit for Kings and Gre.t Generals. And fome of the Roman Cefars themfelves would play the Gladiator.

It is not lawful for to cenfure or reflect on the Actions of my Sovereign. But I will tell thee what the Fronck fay of him by Way of Contempt; Tbat be never Combated in bis oun Porfon with any Thing but timorous Haris and Hinds. It makes me blunh to hear ti:e Great Emperor of the Eaft thus Bla'phem'd by the prophane Mouths of Infidels. And it were to be w:ff'd, he would do fome furprizing Action, to raife himfelf another Character. If fay no more, but recommend thee to GOD, and the White Angel.

Paris, 1 :th of the 7th Moon, of the Year 1662.

Vol. VI. a Spy at PARIs. 105

LETTER XV.

To Zeidi Alamanzi, a Merchant at Venice.

THOU hat obliged me beyond Expectation, in that Ample Fiitory of thy Life, which thy Letter contains. I efteem thee not the worle becaufe thou wert born of Chriftian Parents, but rather put the higher Value on thy Merit, in that being bred in Superftion and Error, thou haft voluntarily embraced the Truth without any Profpect of advancing thy Intereft.
When a Man of a noble Sock born to Riches and Honours, bred in Softneffes and Delights, and actually poffiefled of a fair Eitate, fhall thus abandon his Country, his Relation, Friends, and Acquaintance, with all his. Native Rights and Enjopsents, purely for the Love of GOD, refigning himfelf wholly to the Will of Deftiny, and the Conduat of Providence, without confultung his own Eafe and Delight in this World ; tris an evident Sign of a Faithful Heart, and that his Integrity is without Stain.

All this, and much more, it feems, thou haft done, and therefore thou canft not fail of being Happy in this World, and in l'aradife.

I am extremely pleas'd in reading the various Adventures of thy Youth, thy carly Inclinations to vifit Foreign Countries, and thy actual Travels through Europe, Afa, and Africa. This is the only Way to learn true and compleat Wifdom. For, a Man edifies a Thoufand Times more by his own Perfonal Experience of Things, thain by all the moft elegant Defcriptions that can be made by others. Befides, the Advantazes of becoming expert in the

$$
\text { F } 5 \text { feveral }
$$

106 Lettens Writ by Vol.VI.

feveral Languages and Dialects of the Earth; which he can never learn fo perfeedy in Books, las by converfing with the Natives of each Couniry through which be pafies.

Bes ond all this, There is an infinite Pleafure in feeing the Variety of Objects, which every where expole themfelves to a Traveller's Eye. There is nothing more delightful to Human Nature, th n to try all Things. Man is cloy'd with what is too familiar to him. The moft liagnificent Palace would appear like a Prifon to him that were always confind to it. The Greatef Fields and noolt Shady Groies would afford us no Refrefhment, if we had not Liberty to flrog${ }^{\circ} l e$ out of them when we pleafed. Man is naturally wild as other Animals, and, 'tis as bad as Dia:h to be refrieined of his Freedom. I had rather, at certain Seafons, range'a Wi'dernefs, all orer run with Weeds and Briars, than in the mo?' regular and ragrant Garien in the World. I would winitgly chufe the Fatigue of climbing up a high, fleep, craggy Mountain, for the Salse of a new and larger Prolpeet, before the Eale of watking always in a low Vallcy, or even Plain, though grac'd with never fo many inviting Objects, which muft always be the fame: So fulfome are the very Pleafores we are daily accuftomed to.

1 doubt not, but that it was very agreeable to thee in thy Journies, when evcry Remove thou madeft from S: aze to Stage, promifed thee fome:ining Novel and Pre!h. A Man is fuch Cafes, is apt to think the Sun limfelf New, who lias nimed upon him from Lis Naivity: The Air, the Earth, and Waters apfear not the fame Elements, in different Places; or, if our Reaion convinces us their Nature is not changed, yet we look upon them as $M$ Jqueraders, every Day in a new Drefs; efpecially when we go from one Region and Climate to another, the Strangenefs of the Dirguile is beighten'd. So Infinite a Variety prefents it felf to thofe who travel.

Vol.VI. a Spy at Patits. 109

But nothing affords a Man greater Delight, than to be familiarly acquainted with the different Habits, Laws, Cuftome, Manners, and Religions of Mortals like himfelf. To fee them in on Part of the World adoring the Sun, becaufe he flines on them but once a Year, whilf all the reft of the Time they are thut up in continual 「arknefs, very near being flarved with Cold, and making hard Shifts to live : In another, to behold them Grinacing. and hear them Curfing that Glorious tlanet, becaufe he js alwas too near 'em, rendring their Countries barren, drying up their Water, and fcorching their Perfons almoft to Death; muft needs be Delightful to a contemplative Men. And for aught we know, the Laughter of Democritus mighe be the-Refult of as good Thoughts as Heraclitz's's Tears. Who would not fmile to fee fome paying Divine Honours to the Scare crow of their Garden, or a Tree, a Hog, a Dog, or any Thing they firf caft their Eyes on in the Morning, as they do in Lapland? And yet, who can forbear to weep, when he fees Men profefling to believe the Laws of Mofes, and the Meffas (who beth preach'd up the Divine Unity) pretending to the pureft Religion in the World, and bred in the Study of the Sciences, worthip Stocks and Stones, ristures and Images, Nails, Rags, Bones, Hairs, Bits of old Wood, or any Thing, that their cunning Priefts impofe upon them as Adorable.

Happy art thou, Zeidi, who art freed from thele Superititions of the Naxarenes; and thrice happy, in that thou haft changed them for the Faith unblemifh'd, the Doctrines of Truth and Reafon, the Practices of fincere Morality and Virtue. Thou haft not thun'd a Rock, to fall into a Quick-fand, nor abandoned Idolatry, to fink into Atheifm: But thou haft efcaped from narrow Gulphs and Streights, into a free and open Sea ; from the daik Fogs and Mifts of frozen Chriltianity to the bright Empire of the O/mams, the Serene Company of Tiue Believers, where Charity and Zeal are in their genuine and primitive Warmth.

108 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

Since the Time that thou firft liftedit up thy Finger to Heaven, ard madeft a Confeffion of One GOD, and Mabomet his Apoftle. none of the Imawn's or Millab's have ever attempted to circumvent thy Reafon with Feigned Malice, Foolifh Piigrimages, Tales of Old Women, Filions of Poets, or any Holy Frauds. Thou perceiveft Nothing but downright Integrity in the Converfation of the Faithful. Whereas the Chriftians, whom thou haft juftly deferied, bave a 7 houfand Windings and Turnings, Foldings and Intricacies in their Doctrires and I ives. So that it is almoft as eafy for a blind Man to walk from Paris to Corflantinctle, as for theíe Infidels to grope out the Way to Paradife, through fo many Meaniders and Mares: They are involved in a perfect Circle of Error and Vice Praife be to GOD, whe planted the Moon in the Heavens, and caufes the Stars to dart their refrefhing Rays by Night: Thou art lappily delivered out of their Suares. Let not thy Refidence now among them, ever tempt thee to return to the religious Vanities of holy Trifles, which have once made thce fi:k at the Heart. Remember, that thou beareft in thy Pody the Mark of a True Beliceer, the Seal of a Great Sacrament, the Character of a Profound Myftery, Circumcifion, the Emblem of Purity, by which thou art more ennobled, than by the Blood of the Pclonian Lord, thy Father, which flreams in thy Veins: For now thou art incorporated into the Society and Lireage of Ibrakim, the llluftrious Patriarch, and Friend of GOD Conficer that thou art as it were ingrafted into the glorious Stock of the 1 fimaelites, bora

Vol. VI. a Spy at Paris. rog

born to fubdue all Things, and in the determined Time, to poffefs the Empire of the Univerfe. Thou hatt the Honour alfo to ferve the Grand Signier, Lord of the Climates and Seas, Majefick Hir of the Ottoman Houfe, Sbadow of God on Eartb.

Hold faft therefore the Profeffion of an unblameable Faith; and whatever Temptations thou mayeft meet with, keep thy Mind always fixed on the unfeen Joys of Paredife, the Crown of Juft and Faithful Men, the Reward of fuch as adhere to GOD and his Prophet, without flinching.

Mabmut falutes thee in Imagination, with a parting Kifs, and an affectionate Squeeze of the Hand; which thou knowelt was, in all Ages, a Token of hearty Good-will, and Friendfhip.

> Paris, 15 th of the gth Moon, of the Year 1662 .

LETTER XVI.

To tbe Kaimacham.

THERE is like to be a Breach between this Court and that of Rome, if the Pope does not condefcend to the Demands of the French King, who ftiles himfelf the Eldeft Son of the Church, and therefore highly refents an Indignity that has been done him of late, in the Perfon of the Duke of Crequi, his Ambaffador at the Roman Court.

It feems, the Pope's Guard on the 20th of the 8 th Moon, made an Attempt on the Life of Minifter and of his Wife : They alifo put barbarous Abufes on all the Frencb that were in that City : Infomuch, as the Duke and Duchefs of Crequi were oblig'd to quit Rome privately, and retire into $\tau_{\text {ufcany }}$; being advifed ## rio Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

 radvifod to take this Courfe, by all the Cardinals anid cother Grandees that are Friends to France.The King received News of thiss by.an Bxprefs which came from the Duke of Cbrgux, on the I thh of the gth Moon, And he was: pafionately touch'd at -fo Sacrilegious an Injory, whereby he is not only wrong'd himfelf, but the Law of Nations is violated in a moft notorious Manner.

Wherefore to fhew his Refentment, on the fame Day that the Courier came from Rome, the King ordered the Lieutenant of his Guards, to tell the Pope's Nuncio at this Court, That he mult forthwith depart the Kingdom, under the Command of Thirty Horfe. This was performed accordingly; and the Nuncio was hurried away immediately, without fuffering him to (piak with any Perfon. liing, fave thofe who were to accompany him to the Frontiers: And this Order was publickly proclaimed in Paris. The King alfo wrote to the Pope, demanding Satisfaction for to horrible an Outrage, and caufed Difpatches to be fent to all the Cardinals in Rome, advifing them 'to contribute what lay in their Powers, towards a good Underftanding between the Pope and him, protefting, that, otherwife, the Calamities which might follow, were not to be laid to his Charge. This is a modeft Way of Threatning, afed by Chritian Princes, who do not always fpeak in Thunder, like oar Enficre Monarchs, when they menace War.

I relate this as a Thing, which tho it appear of fimall Moment ar the Beginning, yet its Confequences may begreat and extenfive, if the French King and the Pope thould come to an open Rupture. All the Princes in Earope would find themielves engag'd on one Siće or other. And we Mufulmans uright live to fee the whole State of Cbriftendom diggointed, alienated, and embroiled in Wars among themfelves; whereby they would lay their Countries naked and open to the Invincible Arms of the Ottomans, a Lineage of high Renown, and dettin'd to fabdue all Things.But, 'tis thought the Holy Father at Rome, will no farther provoke fo daring and powerful a Monarch as tim of France, by juftifying the Infolences of his fanizaries, who proceeded to that Heighth of 'Fury, as to difcharge Guns into the Windows of the Frencb Ambaffador, kill'd feveral of his Retinue, and afleffinated the Duchefs of Crequi in her Coach, as the paffed all the Streets.

Vol. VI. a Spy at Pakts. inis

Illutrious Minifter, There are Violations not practifed by the moft Barbarous Savages. And, "is an evident Sign of decaying Empire, where the Publick Faith is thus perf dioally broke. GOD infataates 'tie Infidels, that he may (peedily bring them to Ruin. 'Whereas he daily enlightens the juft Followers of the 'Prophet, and direets them in the Ways of Profperity , and Peace.

> Paris, 3d of the 1 th Moon. of the Year 1662 .

LETTER XVII.

To Mohammed, the Illuffious Eremit of Mount Uriel in Arabia.

1N the Name of GOD Benign and Merciful, I approach the Refidence of great Sanetimony, the Tremendous Solitude, the Cave bleffed by frequent Vifitations of Avgels, and by the former Prelence of the moft Sublime among Mortals, Mabomet, the Legate of the Eiernal, the Plenipoientiary of Alla, King of Heaven and Earth. Alla! There is but One! Wheie Name refounds through all the Orbs above, when when pronounced by the faithful Adorers of the Divine Unity on Earth : And the Eccho thereof, from the adamantine Gates of Paradife, reaches the Abyfs of Hell, ftriking the Infernal Spirits with Horror and Aftonifhment. They tremble at the Sound of the Dreadful Word, which chains them up in their Prifons of Darknefs. Whereas, had they Faith, they would rather rejoice, believing, That the fame Word will one Day releafe them from their Torments. For fuch is the Clemency of the Omnipotent, as our Holy Doctors teach.Oh Mokammed, Friend of the Moft High, and Tenant to his Prophet; I have experienc'd, That it is good and wholefome to begin every Thing we do or lay, in the Name of GOD. Whofoever does otherwife cither fails in the Progrefs, or the End of his Defign, and remains in Confufion. Tagot creeps into his Enterprize, 2nd through Malice fpoils it, robbing a Man of his Crown ; or Negidber, the Spirit of Envy, winds himfelf in, and intangles it : Or Ablis, the Damon of Melancholy, cafts a Damp on it, and bereaves the Undertaker of his Joy. Such is the Fate of thofe who through Prophanenefs, Sloth or Contempt, forget to pay the Due. Venerations we owe to the Author and Source of Providence, and Good Succefs.

112 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

Let us rot therefore think the Time mif fpent, which is taken up in the Praifes of Him who has neither Beginning nor End, Father of all the Generations in this vifible World, and that other which is concealed from Mortals. He is the Governor of our Lives, and our fole Patron in all Neceffities. Let us/ extol and magnify his Attributes without End.

I am by Nature Contemplative, and Thoughtful ; but I muft needs acknowledge, That owe to my Education among the Mufulmans the Force of my Faith and Pcligion. The various Turns of Fortune and Expcrience, which I bave had in the World, could never yet blot out the Impreffion of my early Years, or diminifh the Reverence I have for our Holy Prophets. I of en revolve in my Mind the Eeries of paft Ages, and the Hiftoiics of former Times, the Origin of Nations, and the various Laws, Religions, Wars, and Cianzes. I traverfe the different Epocba's of the Poiterity of Throbim and the Gentiles, comparing the Date of Ifrael's Tranfmigration out of Egypt, with the Years of Nabonaflar and the Olympiads. In all of them I find great Ob. fcurity, Contradiction, and Doubtfulnefs, which puts me upon examining the Records of Egypt, and the Afjrians. The Antiquity of both is very great, and jet it comes far fhort of the Cbineje Chronology, and that of the Indian Bramins

Vol. VI. a SPy at PARIs. 113

When I have tir'd my Soul with a vain Search of that which can never be difcovered; when I confider the Probability of an Univerfal Deluge in the Time of Noah, and the Arguments which almott demonitrate the contrary, comparing this with the Flood of Deucalion, and that other of Ogvees: In a Word, When I reflett on the numberiels Incongruities that are found in the Regifters of Paft Ages, I cannot but conclude, there is as much Reafon for me to believe. That GOD has determinately thus darkened the Knowledge of Mortals, as that he confounded their Language at Babel, according to the celebrated Relation of Mofis. Whence it will be but loft Labour for us who live in thefe latter Times, to feek for any Affurance, or Certainty of the Truth, in Matters of fo remote and early a Date.

Wherefore leaving every Nation to their own Traditions, the Fires to the Manu/cripts of Mofes and their Rabbi's; the Gentiles to the Fragments of Hermes Trimmegifus, Orpbeus, Hiomer, Hefiod, Tbco. phrafius, and other Sages of Egypt, Pbaenicia, and Grecse ; I, for my Part, acquiefce to the Volume of

Ma jefly

if 4 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

Majefty, the great Alcoram; and the Writings of of our Holy Loetors, Arabians, the Sons of $1 / \mathrm{mael}$; not puzzling my felf with endlefs Difputes and QueAtions: not cenfuring others who worhip God after their own Way, and the Documents of their Fathers ; but fismly believing. That he who ferves GOD according to the Dictates of his Reafon ; who is juft to Men and Beafts, and in all Things conferves an innocent Purity of Life; is as accept :ble to the Great Creator, and Impartial Judge of the Univerfe, as he thit has had the Happinefs to be inftructed in the pofitive Injunctions of Heaven, the Reveal'd Will of the Omnipotent. And this I take to be the Senfe of our Holy Law-giver, of the Ma fras, and of all the Prophets in general.

Doubtlefs, that Superlatively Merciful and Indulgent, connives at the Fraily of Morrals; he pities the invincible Ignorances of fome, and the fatal Neceffities of others. He knows the infinite Variety of our Bodily Conftitutions, and the equally different Bent of our Souls. He confiders the Force of the Elements and Climates wherein we live, and the unconquerable Influence of the Stars under which we were born. The whole Syftem of Human Nature, with its moft hidden Circuniftances, is expos'd to the Eyes of him who fees all Things. He is no Stranger to the Anatomy of his own Works; ther fore he requires no more of Men, than can be expected from the Faculties with which he was endu'd them. Neither will he damn any Man for an involuntary Evil.
O Mobammed, This is my Faith, my Hope, and my Confidence. Otherwife, I thould defpair every Moment. If I am guilty of Error and Prefumption, correct me in thy Wiidom. For, before thee, 1 am but as an Ldiot.

Paris, 22d of the 12 th Moom, of the Rear 1662.

Vol.VI. a Spy at Pasis.  L E T TER XVIII.

To Hafnadar-Bafli, Cbief Treafurer to bis Highnefs.

$T$HE Friach have newly felt the Motions of the a Joy, whofe Birth and Growth was like that of a Muntirome, fudden and fwift, the Product of a very little Time, and which ended in Mourning and Tears. The Moon of November beheld a Daughter born to the Queen of France ; But that Planet had bardly carried the News thro' all the Signs of the Zodiack, and commanded the Stars of France to celebrate a Dunalma; before She was obliged to be the Meffenger of more fad Tidings, and to proclaim the Death of this young Princels, to the Conftellations that affifted at her Birth.

In a Word: She was Born on the 18 h of the 1th Moon, and died on the 30 th of the 12 ch . It looks as She only came into the World to be a Witnefs of the Conclufion of the Peace between her Father Lewis XIV. and her Grandfath ar Pbilip the King of Spain ; and fo return to the Region of feparate Souls.

Ihis Peace was in general Terms Sign'd and Seal'd long ago, but there remain'd fome Difficalties in adjufting the Limits of the Frencb. Conquefts, which were referr'd to the Management of Commiffioners on both Sides: And thefe, after they had debated the Matter for the Space of Two Years, at St Omars, Arrat, and Mete, at leng finifined their Negotiation on the 25 th of the. $11^{\text {th }}$ Moon of the lat Year. Which was juft Seven Days after Nativity of the Frencb Princefs.

This Royal Infant alfo lived to fee Dunkirk, one of the ftrongeft Sea-Ports in the World, re-deliver'd to her Father by the Engli/b, in whofe Hands it had been ever fince 'twas firt taken from the Spaniards. The King took Poffefion of this impotant Place in his own Perfon, entring the Town on the 2 d of the latt Moon:'Tis look'd upon as a grand Overfight in the Eng. lifh, thus tamely to part with a Fortrefs which is inexpugnable by Land, and commands the Nortbern Seas. But Money over rules all other Confiderations, And, it feems, the Englifh Court had Occafion for Gold.

116 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

There is lately a good Underftanding eftablifidd between this King and the Emperor of Germany. They ofien write friendly Letters one to another, and feem to be perfealy recoacil'd. To fpeak, the Truth, this may be call'd the pacifick Year among the Inhabitants of Furope: For, excepting fome Skirmifhes and Bravado's of War between the Spaniards and the Portugueze, all the reft of Cbrifendom is in Peace. And the Portugueze have fo ftreng thened themfelves by marrying their Infanta to the Englifb King, tha: what through his Affiftance, and the Aid of Fiance, they have almoft reduced Spain to a Neceffity of making Peace.

Thou wilt fay, The Portugueze have over-reach'd the Englifß in the Dowry they give with their Infanta. This is only the Town of Tawgier in Barbary. A Place which will colt them far more to defend againit the Moors, than it is really worth. For, thofe bold Africans will perpetually afiault the Town, and oblige the King of England to maintain a valt Garrifon in it, befides a Multitude of other Expence; - This makes the Portugueze fecretly fmile, to find themfelves handfome rici of Two great and burthenfome Charges, a Daughter of the Royal Blood, and a Old Fortrefs of no Ule or Service. fave only to diminifh the pablick Treafure, and make away with fome Thoufands of Men every Year.

Vol.VI. a Spx at PARIs. 117

Illuftrious Grandee, Tis no fmall Encouragement to the poor Exild Mabmat, That tio he be malign'd, flander'd, and perfecuted by his Enemies, yet he ftill finds Protection and Friendilhip from the principal Minitters. And that inflead of Checks and Reproaches, to which I was formerly accuftomed, my Salary is now augmented to the Proportion of my Neceflary Expences; Money is fent me with a liberal Hand, and my Slanderers are put to Silence and Shame.

Thou may'f acquaint the Divan, That there is now at this Court, the eldeft Son to the King of Denmark. What his Bufinefs is, People conjecture. varioufly. Some fay, 'tis Love; o:hers aflirm, 'twas only the Defire of feeing Forcign Courts drew this Prince from his Native Country.

Thou may't al'o inform them. The the Duke of Suvoy has married a Princefs of the Blood Royal; they call her Mademoifelle de Valois. Eliacbim the Firv lies dangeroufly fick of a Fever.

As for me, who never had my perfect Health fince I came to Paris, yet I retain a found Mind, and a Heart inviolably devo:ed to the Intereft of the Grand Sisnior: whom GOD long preierve on the Throne of the Ottomans.

Paris, loth of the if Moon, - of the Year 1663.

LET TER XIV.

To the Kaimacham

HERE is a Man come to this City, a Calabrian by Birth, and of ail Countries by Education :For he bas been a Traveller from his linfancy, if what what he relates of himelf be true. He ipeaks all, or moft of the Languages of Europe very flaently, and is reforted to by Pcople of divers Countries, under the Character of a Fortune-Teller and Phyfician. He performs both Parts to the Admiration of all that have been with him.The Princes and Nobles of France vifit him daily, and fo do Perfons of meaner Birth. They difcover to him their fecret Maladies, and this Apollo feldom fails of Succefs in curing them. He beftows Ten Hours a Day in freely cenvering with People of all Ranks and Qualities healing the Difeafes of fome, and telling others their Future Diftinies.

118 Letxers Writ by Vol.VI.

I went to his Chamber one Day, not to learn my Fate (for thave little Faith in nodern Frophets or Aftrologers; nor to be curd of any Dittemper, having no Efteem for Quacks and Empiricks; befides, I was in good Health at that Time) but Cu riofity was the only Motive which led me thither, that I might improve myfelf in other Refpects, by this Stranger's Company, and learn fomething which I. knew not before of Foreign Courts, whereby I might become more ferviceable to the Gramd Signior in this Station, and farther unravel the Secrets of Chriftian Princes. For fo it often falls out, That a Man reaps fome confiderable Advantage from the Society of 1 ravellers, and Men of Experience: And, I had goo 1 Reafon to hope for fome Profit by this Man's Acquaintance, who is thought worthy to be courted by the Grandees of Frace.

Wherefore I addrefied myfctf to him with Abundance of Ceremony and Regard; ufing alio as much Diffimulacion as I thoughe neceflary to conceal myfelf, and the Defign I had in coveting his Friendihip. I feem'd a great Admirer of Judicial AAtrology, and told him, I was very amoi ions to learn the Ruduments of that Science from him, having heard his Skill highly commended not only by vulgar Fame, but by the Mouths of Men of Senfe and Quality, who gave him a fair Character. I faid a great deal more to infinuate my felf into his good Opinion. But there being Company with him, he return'd my Compliments with much Civility, and defired ate to come to him at a more convenient Seafon, and to leave my Name, that he might order bis Servants to give me a kind Reception at any Timeif he himfelf thould be out of the Way, becaule it was common to fend many from the Door, witheatintroducing 'em 1 toid him, My Name was Titus of Molduavia, and that my Bufinefs at Paris was to ftudy in the Acadimy, in order to moy Preferment in the Church. When he had taken down this in Writing, with the Hour and Minute of the Day, after the Mannen of Aftrologers; he begg'd me to excufe the Neceffity he was under of returning to his Company ; and fo 1 took my Leave

Vol, VI. a Spx at Paris.

Not many Days after, I went to him again, full of Hopes that I fhould benefie much by his Company. But as foon as he faw me, he furprized me with this Language :

Sir, Tou bave venturd mach in coming to me; For nown 'tis in my Power to difccever you and your Buffnefs in this City. But, if I pooxld bitray any Man, my Gift woold be taken from me. I am meilber a Follower of Moles, Jefus, or Mahomet, nor of any Sect that is now extant on Earth: But I adore the Spirit and Soul of the Univerfe, wohicb is Eternal and Infinite. Therifore I bra e no Man for bis Religion, let it be what it will. And you that are not whbat you Seem to be, Soall receive no m:re Hurt from me in this Place, than tbe Coa jutor of Paris : For I am of no Party or Faction. All Mem are equally my Friends, cubo do me no Wrong; and evcry Place is my Homse.

120 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

Thou may'it imagine, that I was in no fmall Aftonifhment at this Diicourie. But recolleeting my Spirits, and confidering it had always been my Opnion, That thefe Fortune- 1 ellers deal by Confederacy; and furfeeling that my Name being known to him fo long before, it was not difficult for him to inform himfelf fomething of me; or, that fome Body of his Acquairtance who knew me, had feen me go in and out from him, and fo told him fome of my Circumitances; I made a Shew of going away diffatisfy'd, faying, It will be but loft Time to bearken any lenger to you; for, I perceiveycu know notbing of me, in seliing me I'm not the Man I feem to be. No, seply'd he, w th an obliging Kind of Earneftnefs. You are an Arabian, and firve fome Eafern Prince incognito. Thenhe went on, and told me in a few Words fome forn er Paffages of my Life. He hinted at the Dangers I had been in, during my Refidence at Paris ; mentioned my Captivity at Polirmo, and the Re encounter I had with my old Sicilian Mafter. To ke brief, He told me fo many other Things which I knew to be true of my felf, that I grew very unealy in his Company, and yet durft not cepart from him on a fudden, or thew any Difcontent. But muftering together all the Diffimulation and Artif.ce I could, I turn'd the Difcourie to other Subjecls; feeming very importunate to learn Afrology of him, and promifing him a large Gratuity, if he would teach me, I fairly took Leave, refolving, if polfible, never to fee him more.

Never was a Man in greater Anxiety than I was when I came Home to my Chamber, and ponder'd on what had pafs'd between this Stranger and me. I am not cteلuluous of Miracles, Propliecies, or pretended Revelations. Yet, I proteft folemnly, I could not forbear thinking he was endu'd with and extraor-- dinary Faculty of Divining; or, at leaft, that he was an excellent Afirologer. Nay, to this Day 1 know

Vol.VI. Spy at PARIF. I2T not well what to conclade of him. Ho may, for aught I know, be a Dcmon Incarnate; or perhaps he is a Magician. Eometimes I think one Thing and fometimes another, If he performs tiefe Prophetick Parts by Confederacy, fill I'm at a Lofs how he thould come to know fo much of me, who always thought myfelf the privatell Man in Parif, and have neglected no Methods that were proper to render me fuch in Truth. Then I fufpect my old Stcilian Mafier is one of shis Man's Correfpondents: and has told him fome of my Circumftances: For ! have no Reafon to be Jealous of Eliarbim the $\bar{f} \mathrm{cw}$. It inuft be fome fach Way, or clie he is more than a Man, that can thus readily penetrate into the Secrets of a Stranger.

Sage Kaimarbam, I pray G O D defend thee from the Snares of Counterfeits, and falfe Pretenders.

Paris, 1 gth of the if Moor, of the Year 1663.

LETTER XX.

To the Captain Baffa.

$W$H AT I am going to relate would feem incredible to m , felf, and for that Rearon I would not give it any Room in a Letter to all the difcerning Minifters of the Porte, were it not confirm'd by Letters from feveral Merchants in the North Parts of Holland, to their Correfpondents in this City. And they all agree, That on the gth Day of the Moon of November, a frange Man was feen to float on the Sea near the Shore, being fupported by a Piece of Timber, on which he fare with a Bottle of ftroag. Waters in his Hand. Thofe G who who firt beheld this 8 pectacle, were fifhing in a Imall Boat ; and judging him to be the Relique of fome Shipwreck (for there had been violent Tempefts in thole Seas about that Time) made up to him, and took him into their skiff. He exprefs'd his Gratitude for this Kindnefs, in the beft Manner he cou'd (for no Body underfood his Language) And when he came afhore, he fell on his Knees; and having lifted up his Eyes and Hands to Heaven, he proltrated himelelf, and kifs'd the Earth. His Garments were ma Je of the Skins of Fifhes, the Hair of his Head of a flaxen Colour, and he feem'd not to be faint for Want of Suftenance: Which made every one conclude, That he had kept up his Spirits with that Chymical Liquor in the Bottle, which was near balf emptied.As foon as he faw the rifing Moon, he fell on his Face, and mutter'd certain barbarous Words, knocking his Forehead againft the Ground: Then he rofe and danced after a wi'd Manner, finging pretty natural Airs; and at every Stop, wich his right Hand extended, pointed to that Planet, expreffing both. in Tone and Actions puch Devotion and Love.

122 Letters Writ by Vol.VL.

Many leamed Men were fent for, to confider of this Stranger, and, if poffible, by Signs, or other Means, to difcover from whence he came, and what Fate or Accident had thus abandon'd him to the Fury of the Winds and Waves, to the Extremity of Hunger, Cold, and Watching; and to the devouring Jaws of Sea Monfters. But all their Efforts were unfuccefffal: they fpake to him in feveral Languages, and be anfwerd them, but ftill in a Dialeet different from any of theirs, and altogether unknown. He feem'd to utter his Words in a Tone between whiftling and finging, which made fome conclude he w.s a Chinefe, becaufe that People prononce many of their Letters after the fame

Vol. VI. a Spy at PaRIs.

Manner. So do the Inhabitants of Tompuin and Malabar, with other Kingdoms in the Enf of Afra; and Letters with them are as fignifitant as Words with the Eurcteans. They fhew'd him Globes and Maps of the World, done by feveral Hands, and in various Language, with particular Charts of all the Natitime Regions on Earth But, to no other Purpofe, than to excite his Devotion afrelh to the Moon, whofe Refemblance be faw on fome of thofe Pa perr. He would frile at that Sight, kifs his Forefinger, and with a Religious Complaianice touch the Figure of that Planet: Then feeming to be in a wonderful Good-Hunoour, he would turn round and fall a Dancing, with his Arms flretch'd and turn'd in the fame Pofture, as thofe who ufe Caflanets, or Cymbals: Singing all the while a Sort of inarticulate Sounds, but furprifingly Mufical and Sweet. So that no Body knew what to make of him.
He appeared very temporate, modeft, and refign'd refufing no Meats or Drinks that were offer'd him, yet neither eat nor drank to Exceff: Neither was he difcontented 2at his I.odging. or any other Uage; though they tried to vex him feveral Ways, that they mighe fee how he woals vent his Pafion. : But he fmiled at all, and fuburitted patiently to every Thing they impofed on him.
One Thing was obfervable, thit where ever he faw any Water, he would run to it immediately, and wath himelelf, as well as he could in thofe Circumflances, never for zetting to fprinkle fome toward that Part of the Heaven, whese the Moon was vifible. And when they led him into the Fields, or Gardens, he wouta crop the Grafs and Flowers, and with a compored Look, would throw them up in the Ait, adding fach Religious Geflutes, as convinced every one, That he did it in Honour of fome Power above. Various were the Corjeltares of Men about him ; fome were of one Opinion, and others of a quite different. No body could pofitively conclude any Thing. Neither is it pofible, as I'm inform'd, for the wifett Men in chore Parts, to find out this Myftery.

124 Lettes: Writ by Vol.VI.

Perhaps, He is fuch another as Imamm Rapibabet, a Perfian Writer, mentions, Who in the Year of the Hegyra, 502, was taken up by a Merchame-hip of India, in the Sereigbts of Bab:l Mandel, pretending to be Dumb, but capable of Hearing, Writing, and Expreffing Hizfelf in feveral other Ways, if asy body could have undertood his Language. At lat, he was found to be an Ethiepiay Slave, run away frem his Mafter; an Ingenious Fellow, and One that fpoke all the Languages of thole Parts; and therefore, that he might be Admir'd, would be fure to write in a Character of his own Invention, which the Greatef Sages could not read.

Mighty Bafa, Thou Encountereft on that Element with itrange Monfters, and Creatures under no Name or Predicament that is known; yet none fo terrible and dangerous as Cheats and Impoftors. From which, I pray Heaven, Defend thee and me: For they infeat both the Sea and the Land.

Paris, 1; th of the ad Moon, of the Year 1663.

LETTER XXI.

Fo Nathan Ben Saddi, a Jew, at Vienna.

IHE Term of, our long murual Silence, enjoyn'd us by our Superiors, is now happily expird ; and we have with good Succefs manag'd our feparate Parts, without holding any Correfpondence together. This was only a Trial of our Fidelity, Conduet, and Obedience: Or, perhape, 'twas no more than a Caprice of Policy, or a vain Whim of State. For 'tis ufual with Great Men, thas to practice Experiments on thole whom they defiga to employ in the moft imporrant Affairs. Whatever it be, we have acquitted Ourfelves like Trufty Slaves; and that's eliough for ut.This comes to thy Hand by an Asmeniar Metchant ; One in whom I confide. Here are Abundance of that Nation in Peris, and other Purts of France: They travel up and down, from one Country and City to another, under the Pretext of Irading; but are really Spies, fent from the Princes of the Eaft, to oblerve the Councils of thefe Wiferm Courts, the Defigns of Numareme Moparchs, and to cake an exad Fatimate of the Strength and Riches of thefe lafidils. For though they outwardly profef! themfelves to be Followers of $\mathcal{F} f / \mathrm{fs}$, yet in their Hearts they Believe the Akeram; and Honour Mabomer our Holy Law giver.

Volvi. a Spy at Pants. 125

There is a Kind of Mingick in Truth, which forcibly carries the Mind along with it. Men readily embrace the Didates of fincere Reafon, yet thofe of thy Nation are Obftinate, and Thut their Eycs wilfully againt the very Light of Nature. You over-va'ue yourfelves and your Lineage, becaufe you are the Pollerity of Ifaac, the Son of Sarab, the Free woman, and Wife of Ibrabim ; reproaching us, That we are the Offspring of $1 /$ mael, the Son of Hagar, a Concubine and Slave. You confider not, That IJmael was the Eldef Son of that glorioue Patriarch; and that by the Law of Mofis, it is enacted, That the Firf-born Son thall inherit his Father's Patrimony, though he were Son of a bafe, abjeit Slave, or hated Concubize. Did Mofis make a Law contrary to that of his Fathers ? Or, cou'd

$$
\text { G } 3 \text { lera- }
$$

126 Lexteins Herit by Vol, VI.

Ibrabim the Beloved of GOD, do any Thing contrary to the Divine. Will? How then could he be guilty of Difinteriting $I$ Jmael his Eldent Son, the Flower of his Strength, and Firt fruit of his Vigour? Doubrlefs, the Majefty and Light of God, which paffed from Adam to Sttb, Enocb, Neab, and Ibrabim, refted alfo on L/mael, Heir Apparent of the Divine Promifes, Father of many Princes and Noble Nations.

Let thofe therefore of thy Nation ceale to boaft of their Pedigree, and exalt themfelves above the victorious and criumphant I/maclites, Children of a high Stock, a Race wherein thines forth the Luftre of Ancient Ranown, and the Right of Primogeniture: A Lincage of Illuftrious Honour, Multiplied as the Leaves of the Trees, Numerous as the Stars of Heaven, Profperous in all Things, by the Special Benediclion of GOD. Whereas, thoa know't, the If. aclites neter miade any great Figure on Earth, and are now reputed no beiter dian Vazabond's ibroughout the World.

Your Rabli's reply to this, by owning that our Fatier I/macl was indecd a Great Prince, but that he U as withal a wild and favage Man, who fupported I is Nebility and Grandeur by Rapine and Blood, dwelling alrogether in Déarts, and unfrequented Pacestrotbing the Caravans of Merchaats and Taveilcos:; © I preffing the Poor, and anardering the Innecont. In whe, tiey give this Characler of him, What tis tiund suas egainfi cerry Man, and erely Men s Husd againgl Him.
20 this Accuiation they alfo add another, Tiat wie Princes of the Eoft, who defcend from lfmach thive all aleng, even to this Day, eftablithed their Thrones in Cruel:y. Mafiacres, and Particides Fathers bereaving their Chivern of the Lives they gave them, ard Chatern puting their Farents to Death; Brothers muidering Brothers, and facrificing their nearcit ieations to the Maxims of a barbarous barbarous Policy, the reftlefs Sufpicions of State. And that all this is more efpecially manifet in the Sublime Houfe of the Invincible Ottomanf.

Vol.VI, a Spxat Paris. 127

Thele are the Charges of Hebrow Spight, the Slanders which your Doctors calt on the Progeny of Ibrabim, even on $I /$ mael and his Childrer, to this Day. But I would have thee, Natban, reflect impartially on Things and fuffer not thy Judgment to be impofed on by the Sophiftry of your Scribes, Look back to the Primitive Times of 7 racl, examine the written Law, the Records of Mofes, and the Seniors. There thou wilt meet with frequent Examples of thofe very Crimes which you lay to our Charge ; true Parallels of the fuppofed Tyranny and inhuman Actions, with which you tax the unblemilh'd Ifsarelitis.

Did not your Father Facob fupplant his own Eldet Brother Efaw? Did he not cheat his Uncle Laban of his Sheep? What was wanting to him of If. mael's Valour and Fiercenefs, he fupplied with a Fox-like Craft and Subtilty. Yet, how often did heplunder the Children of Hamor? And boatted afterwards of the Preys he had taken from them with hinBow and Spear.

When your Fathcr came out of Egyp, what a Carnage did, Mofes their Leader commit, when he commanded the Sons of Levi to arife with their Swords in their Hands, and every Man to kill bis Brother, his Friend, and his Neighbour ; fo that there fell that Day, at the Foot of Mount Siniai, Three and Twenty Thoufand Men ; yet, for the Sake of this deteftabie Tragedy, he bleffed 'em, faying, $Y_{c u}$ bave confecrated your Hands this Day in Blood, every Man in the Blood of bis Neigblowr. Behold the Original of your Priefthood, which is the bigbeft Rank of Nobiliry among the Jıwal

128 Letteks Writ by Vol. SL.

Remember how your Fathers almot cut off the Whole Race of Berijamit, fo that there were not above, Six Hundred Men of that Tribe left alive. Iorget not alfo, how Abimelech of the Tribe of Menofie got the Sovereinty, by maffacring Seventy of lifs own Brothers on one Sione. Your own Records fey, That GOD gave, ou Kings in his Wrath, among Whom there was not One who was not a Man of Flood. And in the wh.ole Cataiogue. you can fearce find Four who are not tainted with Sacril ge, Idolaury, and other cnormous Vices

In a Word, Natbam, both the Sons of $1 / \mathrm{macl}$ and Iface were but Men; and if thou hat nothing elfe to objed againft the Former but what thou muft confefs the Latter was equally guilty of, I advife thee henceforth to lay the Hand upon thy Mouth, and ceafe to (peak Evil of thofe againft whom no Man can charpen kis Tongue or Pen, and profper.

Paris, 22d of tbe 2d Moon, of ibe Tear 1663.

LETTER XXII.

To the fame.

IConcluded my other Letter fore:hing imperfectly, and fhort of my Defign; bsing interrupted by a fudden Deluge of Humours overtlowing my Eyes, accompanied with a Tcmpert in my hiead, which at, firtt took from me the Power of thinking segularly, and of feeing how to write. I am oftenrubject to thefe Weaknefies of late, and to many other Nialadies. My Body fenfibly decays ; Age and Care, Watching and Sicknels, with a Thoufand Cafualties befides, have almoot diffolv'd this congeal'd Medly of the Elements. Methinks, I am now no more than a poor Skeleton, to which Nature and Fortune have lefi a dry and wither'd Skin, for ModeAy's Sake, to cover its Nakednefs; with a few evacuated Veins and Arteries, flarunk Sinews. Tendons, Mufcies, and Cartilages, to tack this Machine of Bones together, and keep it in Motion. In a Word, I feem to my felf to be only a Hobgoblim, or Ghoft in Difguife: I cannot fay Incarnate, (for I've loft all my Flefh) but only bayd or clouted up in the mot contemprible Shreds, Rags, and antiquated Relicks of Mortality, Fikea Maudin, and Scarc-rro:v, I hang t getier by Geometry.

Vol. VI. a Spx at Paxis. 129

Yet, fuch as I am at this Yearn, I ftill poffers, at certain Seafons, more ferene and vigorous Thoughts. t an in the Days of my Youth, when I was full of Marrow and good Blood. I can feel my Soul fometimes fluttering her Wings, and brikly thaking off the heavy, Nimy Clogs of Earth, of Sleepv and of Enchanted Life, or Living Death. She ftruts and plame; He-fe!f, She moun:s alofe, and glides in happy, though but momentary Foretaftes of Eternal Blifs. And then lur'd down again by Charms of her accuftom'd Eafe and Pleafure in the Flefh, She comes to Hand at Call, and being Hoodwink'd from the Radiant Light of Heaven, She tamely perches on the meaneft fenfual Appetite, which eafily conveys her to her wonted Darknefs. This is the Changeable State of Mortals, and we mult not expect a fixed Condition on this Side the Sepulchre: This Noble and the Vulgar are equally liab!e to thefe Inconftancies of Spirit; neither can the more Exalted State of Sovereign Monarchs, privilege them from the common Frailties of Mankind. They are no otherwife diftinguithd from the Meaneft of their Slaves, than only by the Vaft. nefs of their Poffeffions, their numerous Retinue.

136 Letteas Writ by Vol.VI.

 their unlimited Power, and the Pageantry of external Honour.If we exanine the Origin of Nobility, and Royal Grandeur; if we trace the Genealogies of Princes and Potentates up to their Fountain, we Ball find the Fisft Fathers of thofe noily Pedigrees to be cruel Butchers of Men, Oppreffors, Tyrants, Perfidious, Trace-breakers, Robbers, and Parricides. In a Word, The moft Primitive Nobility was no other than potent Wickednefs, or dignified Impity. And all the fucceffive Continuations of it by In. eitance, Election, or otherwife, even to thefe modern Times, are but $f_{0} \mathrm{E}$ any Traducts of exorbitant Power and Honour, acquired and propacated by the mot enormous Vices, by Iractices unworthy of Aien, and of which the Authors themflies are always a mamd. Therefore they cover their unjuft Encroachments and Invafions, with the fpecious Pretexts of Julice and Virtue, calling that Conqueft, which is no othit than downight Rctbery, and profffing themfelves Patrons of Mens Liberties and Rights, Religion and Law, whilft in Effeet, they are the greateft Opprcffors. Hypocrites, Atheifts, and Out laws in the World
This is not only true in the Race of I/mrel and Iface, of whom I made mention in my other Letter, but in all the Families which have ever made any emiment Figure and Noi'e in the World.

What were the Four Renowned Monarchies, bnt fo many Empires of Banditti, Governments of Freebootris, Pyrares, and Liceris a Tbieves? As Diomedes told Alcxander the Great: I, (fays he) biccuje I play the private Corfair, and cruife up and down the Seas swi:b ome fingle Ship, am accu'd as a Pyrate: Thou that doft the fame Tking with a mighty Fleft, art calrd ans Emperor. If thow wert alone, and Cuprive, as 1 amp, ebey uould efiem thee notetter than a Thief: And sterel at ibe Hecd of a minacrous Army, as thow art, I foon'd be reverenced as an Emperor. For, as to the Tuffice of our Caufe, there is no etber Differ.nce but this, That thou dof mere Mif(bief than I. Misforiune bas compelld me to be a Thief; whereas, nothing $l_{x t}$ an intolurable Pride, ard irfatiable Avarice, puts thre upon the fame Courfe of Lifc. If Ferture zwould ;rove more favourable to me, per baps $I$ migbt become brtter: Wherras, thy continual Succefis make Tbee but the evorfe. Alixander admiring the Boldnefs of the Man, and the Refolutenefs of his Spirit, gave him a Command in his Army, that fo he might rob and plunder from thenceforth by Authoriy.

Vol. VI. a SPx at PARIs. 131

But, I Thould have begun higher in Antiquity with the Empire of the Afyrians, founded by Ninus, in the Blood and Slaughter, Ruin and Deftruction of all his Neighbours, and increas'd after the fame Methods by his Wife Scmiramis, who begging of her Hußand, The the might Reign for Five Days, and he granted her Requelt, the put on the Royal Ornaments, and fitting on the Throne of uncontroulable Majefty, commanded the Guards to degrade and kill her Huftand. Which being done. the fucceeded in the Empire, adding AEtbiopia to he: other, Dominions, carrying a War into India, ard encompaffing Babylon with a magnificent Wall; at laft thewas kill'd by her Son Ninjas. 1 hus was the AVjrian Monarchy eftablin'd in Regicides, Maffacres, and Carnage. And by the fame $M=$ ho's 'twas tranla. ted by AibaEius to the Medes, he having caus'd Sardanatulus, the loft, and moft Effeminate of all the Afyrian Kings, to die in the middt of his Concubines. Thus was Treachery and Murther b nded down with the Sovereign Power; till at length $C y$ as the Perfan, transferr'd them to his Country : whole Son, Cumiyes, rais'd the Second Univerfal Monarchy, on the aiditional Ruins of many other Kingdoms, cementing it with the Blood of his Brother and his Son. Yet, after a!!, is was trariflated to die Mectdonians by Mistander tbe Great, not without any cqual Guift of Parricide, and other exorbitant Vices. From whom at laf it devoivd to the Rimanr.What need I mention the fcandalous Birth of Romulus and Remess, the Twin Sons of an inceftuous Vrfal ? Or, their debauch'd Edocation under a comnion Proflitute, fabcloufly veil'd by the Roman Hiftorians, uncer the Title of a $W$ olf, to render the Origin of their Empire Miraculous? Why mouid 1 recount the bertid I ratricide committed by Romu'ins co Remias his Proth.c5; or the celebrated Rape of the cilime Wives, Virgins, and Widows? It will feem invidious, to call to mind the deteftable Murther of Fites Tacius, the Good Old Captain of the Sabines, with many other Earbarous Liaffacres. Yet, thefe enormous Crins:s were the Fo. ndations of the Ronian Grandour and Nobility, fo formidable afterwards to the wiole Earth. And the Superftructure was an we:ab'e, through all the various Changes and Revolutions of Govirnment, even to the Region of Iuguf.es Cafar, under whom Rome gain'd the Title of tle Fourth Univerfal Monercly.

132 Lettexs Writ by Vol. VI.

This Emperor, tho' he was efleem'd the moft Mreciful and Juit Prince on Earth, yet he eftablin'd this Throne in the Biood of his Kindsed, facrificing the Children of his Uncle to the Ends of State: And, that he might not deviate from the Royal Ingratitude of other Princee, he berbatoufly extinguin'd the Off-Spring of his Father's Brother, who had acopted bim to the Inheritance of the Im: perial Dignity; fcorning by an unkingly Tendernefs to fpare the glorious Names of Antlony and Cloopatra, to whom he was fo nearly related, and who had invefted him with Power of being fo inhuman.

Vol. VI. a Spyat Pekits.

I will not make thet fick, by rehearfing the abomimable Lives and wicked Actions of the Nero's, Domitian's, Caligwla's, Heliogabalas's, Galiemu's, and the rett of thofe Royal Monfters. Hiftory itfelf blufhes to recite fuch Prodigies of Inpiety, and their very Names are odious to all Generations.

If we pafs from thefe might Empires to King. doms of lefs No:e, wo fhall still trace the Footteps of the fame Vices. Both Ancient and Modern Records are full of thefe Tragedies. The Original Kingdom of the Grecis took its Rife from the Parricide of Dardames; and the Female Empire of the Amaxons, began in the barbarous Maffacre of their Hufbands. All Ages and Nations afford us Examples of this Nature; and the higheft Honours, Dignities and Commands, were ever asquir'd and main$t s i n$ 'd by the higheft Injuftice.

Tiverfore, honeft Nutban, let Thou and I never envy the Nobles and Grandees of the Earth; but contented in our humble Pofts, fitting under the Umbrella's of a happy Oblcurity, let us ferve the Grand Signier with Integrity, and Zeal void of Injuftice.

Paris, 22d of the 2d Moom, of the Year 1663.

LETTER XXIII.

To Codarafrad Cheik, a Min of the Laxy.

THOU wilt approve the Sentence that was yefterday executed on a Frencbman in this City who faid, He was the Son of GOD, and had perfuaded a great many poor ignorant People to believe him. He was burnt alive for his Bla(phemy, and his Athes kick'd kick'd into a Ditch. Had he been convicted of this horrid Impiety in any of the Grand Signior's Dominions, he bad undergone the like, or a more terribie Punifhment: For, the Alcoran exprefly fays, That God bas neitber Wife, Son, Daugkter, or Conspanion: And, tbat thofe Ball fuffer Eternal Pains whbo teech any fucb Dofirine. Doubtlefs there is but One God, and the Eternal Unity cannot be Divided, or Multi, led, to make more Gods in Fraction, or procreate an Off pring of dimunitive Dei ies. He, the Fa:her of all Things, dwells in Eternal Solitude, and from an Infinite Retirement, beholds the various Generations of the Univerie; they are all equal. ly his Off fpring.fand 'is Blafphemy to affirm he has a Son, or a Daughter, or a Companion lit e unto himfelf. For he is Ufreated, Unbegotten, and Entire: Sole Pcffeffor of his Own Glory, without Rival or Competitor. There was none before Him, neither thall there be any after Him. He is without Beginning or End.But theie Infitcls harbour ftrange Opinions about a Trinity of Gods, and follow the Doturines of Hermes, Trifmegifus, Plato, Plotinus, and other Pagan Pbilofofbers, who afferted a Triad in the Deity; and on that Bafie, founded all the Polytheifm of the Gintiles. Hence Pytbagoras drew his Tetragrammatom, by playing the chymical Arithmetician, and extracting a Quaternity out of Tbree. But the Poets not puzzling their Heads with the Mytteres of thefe Divine and Unintelligib!e Numbers, deliver'd their Theology in plain, grofs Fietions, fuitable to the Ca - . pacities of the Vulgar: One Midwifing a Goddefs out of fupiter's Brains: Another ftarting a God from his Thigh. But this filly Fellow could not derive his Pedigree fo near as from a little Toe of the Divinity. Therefore, he was defervedly reduc'd to his firit Atoms, and Spurn'd out of the World.

134 Letteas Writ by Vol.VI.

Vol. VI. a Sex at Paris. 135

The Frencb have various Kinds of Punilhment for Malefactors, but none more terrible than Breaking on the Wheel. This is inflieted only on notorious Criminali, and the Masner is thas: The Party condemsied is faiten'd to the Wheel, with his Arms and Legs extended to their full Length and Widenefs: Then comes the Executioner, and with a Iron Bar breaks one Bone after another, till the miferable Wretch is in the Agonies of Death, and fo he is left, to expire in unutterable Torments: Por, fome Men of ftrong Conftitutions, will retain Life in this Condition, for twelve or more Hours tog ther.

Honourable Codarafrad, Tho' the Executions of the Eaft are more fwift and furprizing than thofe in the Wef; yet they are not Comparable to them for Cruelty: The worft Death being but a Minute's Pain.

Sage Cbeik, I Reverence thy Accomplifh'd Knowledge in the Laws of Equity and Juttice.

Paris, 15 th of the $3 d$ Moon, of tbe Year 1663.

The Ead of the Second Book.

LETTER

Writ by

A. Spy at Paris.

> V O L. VI.

BOOK III.

LETTERI.

To Solyman bis Coufin, at Chalcedon.

ICommend thee for se noving thus from Place to Pace; and could with that thou would not only exchange thy Refidence through all the Cities feated on the Bopporns, Propontis, Exxine Sea, and the Hellefpont, but vifit by Turns all the famous Marts in the World.

Praice be to GOD, weare not born in Mufcowy, Ruffoa, Cbina, or under the narrow-foul'd Governments iof Lycurgus, Plate, and fuch kind of jealous Lawgivers ;

Vol. VI. a Sex at Pakis. 137

givers; where it would be lefs Punifhment, than the Lofs of one's Eyes, Ears, and Feet, if not of Life itfelf, to travel out of his Nativy Country, of for a Seranger to come in, excepting Foreigu Amibaffadors and Agents, who in China are forced to travel with their Faces veil'd or muffid, from the Confines-to the Coort, left they thould efpy the Difadvantages of the Country.

Doubslefs, This is repugnant to the Law of Nature and Nations, an Oppreflion of Humanity, and direelly oppofite to the Purpofe of GOD, when he defign'd and made us Sociable Creatures: For, The whole Earth is but as one Country or Province, common to Men and Beafts. 'Tis our Element, and therefore we ought to be Free in it, to range where we pleafe, as the Fowls: do in Air, and the Fifs in the Sea, without any Law, Reftraint, or Injury: Such a Thoughtas this, made Sceriates, when he wat: ak'd, What Country-mam he was I aniwer, I am a Native of the Univerfo, and fberefore Pree to live wobere $I$ will.

Theu know'ft our Coufin IJouf has travelld over all Afia and Africk, with fome Pates of Ewroper My Brother Poffeli Hali, has alfo vifited many Re. gions in the Eaf.. Both of them have improv'd their Efates and Fortunes in the World, the one at APracam, the other at Conflantimople. Follow their Sceps, and thou may't have thy Heart's Content. Go, and obferve the different Manners of Men, their various Cuftoms, Law, and Religiens. Survey the Mourtains, Vallies, Defarts, Rivers, Lakes, Sees, Citiict; Cafiles, Palaces, ane all the ocher defirable Objecte, which embelina this Globe.

But, Beware of the Infirmity of moft Travellert, who, Camelion like, change their Humour and Manners, as the Regions vary thro' which they pafo: Meer Mimicks, Buffoons and Apes, who place their Excellency in imitating every Thing they fee, or 138 Letreks Writ by Vol.VI. meet with Thas degenerating from themfelves; inftead of amproving their Minds in true Science and Widdom, and hardening their Bodies, to endure patiently the Injuries of the Elements, with all the Fiatigues and Contingencies of Human Life, which are the chief Ends of Travelling, next to that of learning how to ferve our Sovereign and our Country in a more refined Manner

Solyman, Never think that thou wilt deferve the Charater of a prudent Traveller, if at thy Return: thou canft only boât of itrange and incredible Things thon haft feen, tell monftrous Romances, and Fietions more Fabulous than thofe of the Gentile Poets. Aim at folid Knowledge, and the Improvements of a rational Creature. As theu goelt out a $M u J_{u l} /$ man, fo return; but with all the Advan:ages that may recommend thee for a Perfon accomplift'd in Hifiory, Morals, Politicks, and Divine PbilefoAby
. If thou dareft not undertake a Ramble at large. go to thy Coufin IJouf at Afracan, where he is fettled in a Way of Traffick and Merchandize. Take thy Voyage by the Black Sea, and the Palus Meotic. Caft thy Eyes on the ancient Kingdom of Colchis, as thou faileit by her Shores; confider the Temper of the Mingrelians, Cirsafians, and Tartars, with the ref of the People through whofe Territories chou wilt. pafs. And when thou arriveft at $1 \beta$ acam, tell my. Coufin If uf, That I with'd thee to take this Courfe : He will refpect thee for thy Uncle's Recommendation. Shew him this Letter, and let his own Eyes fee the Hand-wricing of Mabmat, the Aged, Weather beaten Slave of the Earth's Great Sovereign ; the old, grey, grinled Watchman of the Sublime Perte, which is the Refuge of Mortals. He will find many Opportunities to advance thee. But I advife thee to wean thyfelf from all Fondnefs, Inconftancy, and Difcontent. Be true to thy Truft, Sedu-

Vol.VI a Spicat Pakis. 139

Sedulous and Aetive, Patient and Refign'd, Take all Things as they come frrm Deltiny, without being peeving or freful.

So may God blefs thee, and give thee the Riches of the Earth, and the fweet Influences of Heaven : make thee happy here and hereafier. Finally, May thy Reet be on high in Paradife.

Paris, ift of the 5th Moen, of the Yeur 1663.

LETTER II.

To Pefteli Hali, bis Brotber, Mafter of tbe Cuftoms at Conftantinople.
3 HERE is no doube, but when thou wat in the Indies, the Names of Sultan Dara, Smjab, Akrengzebe, and Mored Batcbe, were not lefs) ki.ewn to thee, than that of their Father Cba Lebor, the Grand Megul. Thy Bufinefs as well as Curiofity cal'd thee often to the Coure, where thou halt beard the Charasters of thefe young Princes, whore early Years furnif'd the World with Matter of Noife and great Expectations, and gave the old Monarch that begat them. Trouble and Care enough: to keep them in Order, and prevent their Machinations againft one another, as well as againf Himfelf. For in thofe Days he faw his, Family divided into Factions, and a Royal Envy mix'd with Ambition, whetting Brothers and Sifters againt each other, who by Nature were made for the Officers of recipro cal Love.

Surely, 'tis but a glorious Infelicity for Children. to be thus born Candicates of a Crown, when each is oblig'd by a Principles of Self Prefervation, to purfue his Claim, in a Method wholly repugnant to Hu-s manity, and the Affection that is due to thofe of the fume Blood: When shaking off all Tendernefs and Compafion, the Sous of one Mother mull Aleathe their: Swords: in each others Bowels, to prevent: their own Fate; and ravih a Crown by Force, to fave their Lives.

sqo Levteks Writ by Vol.VI.

Yet, This is the Misfortune of all the Eafern Courts, That they cannot fee a Prince afoend the Throne, without the Slaughter of his Brethren, and all that can be fufpected to pretend, or fiand in Competition with him for Sovereignty, However, It mut be confelfed. That the Inciax Policy in this Point, is far more Generous than that of the Otremant or Perffums; who cither immes diately after their Poffefion of the Throne, Murther in cold Blood, all the reft of their tineage ; or at leaft, Imprifon them in fome dark Dungeon, dusing their Lives, and, not feldom, put out their Eyes. And this is owning to the Difadrantage the unhappy Children of our Monarchs lie under, in that fromi their Infancy they are confined to the Seraglio, and educatedunder the Turelage of Womien and liunuchs; even during the whole Life of their Father; fo that he who is advanoed to the Throne, has all the reft in his Cuftody the firt Hour of his Reign.

Whereas, In Indoftan the Princes of the Blosd are committed to Able and Learned Tators, and as they grow in Years, increafing alfo in Knowledge; Wifdom and Courage, they are difpofed of, every one fuitable to his Capacity. Some being made Minitters of State, other Generals of Armies, or Governors of Provinces: Whereby each is put in $\pi$ Condition to make Parties for Himflef, among the Grandees, and thofe of inferior Degree, and to fortify his Intereft in Court and City; Country and Camp: Thus an open Fied is left for all to try their ther Wit and Courage in, for the Sake of Inheritance; and tis more equal, to let them Nobly Eirminh for a Crown, and make a warlike Lottery for Life or Death, than to fet up one with the Advanrage and Charatter of a Butcher, and turn the Scraill into a Shambles, always polluted with Regal, Lunoccnt Blood.But every State parfues its own Maxims ; and tlitere are not wanting Men of the Law, who Joftify this Inhuman Comduct of our Sulanns, as the only Means to prevent Publick Dittractions and Civil Wars ; which always hafpen where there are many Pretenders to the Imperial Dignity; as it lately fell out in the Indias.

Vol. VI. Spy at Panis. 14t

I need not acquaint thee with what particular Dignities and Commands the Great Mogul invelled his four Sons. Thou couldt fufficiently inform thy felf of thefe Things when thou waff at Declli, the Capital City of Snd Bam. Neither need I fay any Thing of Reucbemara Bigum, or his Silter Sabob, the two Daughters of Cba leben. Thou that haft been chere in Perion; know't more of thefe Thingo than I, who am oblig'd to the Merchants and Travellers for all my Intelligence of the Indian Affairs.

But I can certify thee of fomething which has been tranfacted there fince thy Return to Comffamtimole; the Fame whersof, perbaps, is not yet arrived at the Imperial City.

Know then, That in the Year 1655 , a Rumour being (pread abroad through the Provicices of India, that Cba lebase was dead, each of his four Sons began to lay about him for the Crown. They did all that is urval in fach Cafes for ambitious Perfons to do, by Courting the Omrab's and Rajeb's, with large Prefents and large Promifes, by obliging the Soldiery with immenfe Largeffes: In a Worf, by pouxing up the Priendflip and Integrity of their Adherense, and by winning over Strangers to cheir different Parties, with whatfoever elfe was thought neceffary, to carry on a profperoas War againtt one another: For the innate Defire of Reigning, had equally poffefi'd them all. But Deftiny, which appoints and confummates Human Events, had referv'd the Crown for Aurongzebe, who furpafs'd all the reft in Policy and Diflimulation.With profound Craft this Prince o:er reach'd his younger Brother, Masad Batcibe, and put him in Chains, in the Mitt of Morad's own Ariny; pacifying the Officers with Bribes, and the common Soldiers with Increafe of their Pay, whilft he fent their General away Prifoner to one of his ftrongeft Caftles. This was the firft confiderable Stroke he gave towards gainning a Crown. For now he was not only rid of one Competitor, and the moft dangerous of all the reft, but alfo became Mafter of his Army, and all his Treafure; which being join'd to his own, put him in a Condition to purfue his Goed-Fortune with Succefs. Yet the War lafted almoft fix Years; his Brother, Sultan Sujab, keeping him in play on the Side of Bengal, and Sultan Dara near the Capital Cities Agra and Debly.

142 Letiters Writt by Voll.VI.

But at laft, they were both forced to yield to the Fortune of Aurangzebe. In fine. He was eftablift'd, and now fits on the Throne of his Fathers; whilft they fell Sacrifices to the Jealouly and Revenge of their vietorious Brother; being, as I am inform'd taken Prifoners, and afterwards poifoned, or hurried out of she World fome other Way.

Thus paffes away Human Glory, like a Cloud, driven before the Wind; or like the Smoke of a Fire, which looks bright and gay for a while, crackles, and gives Heat to all that are near it, but is either fuddenly quench'd with Water, or evaporates into Air, and is no more remember'd.

Dear Pefeli, Confider that this Earth is not our Native Country: We are Foreigness here below ;

Vol.VI. a Spy at Paresi

let us inprove oarfelves, by every Thing we ercounter, in Knowlenge and Virtue, without leagning the Vanity and Vices of Mortals:

- Paris, 4 th of tbe Kth Moom, (uf tbe Tear 1663

LETTER III.

To Ulfeph, Baffa.

HERE is great Rejoycing for the Converfion of a certain Procettant Prince to the Faith of the Roman Church. They call him the Duke of Mecklembourgh. He is faid to (pring from an ancient Race of Kings among the Vamdals. This Court careffes him in an extraordinary Manner, as chey ufually do all Profelytes of his high Quality ; as for poor and valgar Converts, they ferve only to become the Priefts Slaves, and Affes.

The King, who is ityled Tbe Eldef Son of the Cburch, and therefore ought to appear a living Demonftration of her boafted Virtues, has been very liberal of his Favours to the new Devoree, creating him Krigbe of the Holy Spirit, which is the moit fublime Degree of Honour in this Kingdom, next to that of being made a Peer of the Realm.

Couriers arrive one at the Heels of another from the Duke of Bcauford, who is cruifing about on the Mediterramean. But I cannot get a Sight of any of them, nor learn what their' Expreffes contain. The Courtiers and Statefmen here are the very Whirlpools of Intelligence. Whatever News is communicated to them, is fwallow'd up and loft for ever in grofound Silence. They receive all, but return none again. However, People take the Liberty to guers, erery Man acconding to his Reafon or Fancy. Eome fay, The Duke of Beauford has engaged with a Fleet of Mlgerimes, and driven them into their Harbour with great Lofs on their side, and Triumph on his. Others laugh at this, as only a Court Romance, who flrive to prepoffefs the Nation with profperous Stories of the King's Armis, both by Sea and Land. Whill a Third Sort affirmo That thofe Difpatches come not from the Duke of Beauford, who, they fay, is dead, being kill'd by a Cannon Bullet, in an Encounter wi:h the Corfairs of Barbary: But, That they are fent from the next Chief Officers in the Tberlon Fleet, to give the King an Account of his Death, and recceive new Onders.

144 Letrens Writ by Vol.VI.

In the mean while, we are wholly taken ap here at prefent with the Reception of the Swi/s, Ambarfadors. They made their publick Entry into Paris Yefterday, after they had been magnificently entercria'd at the Caple of the Wood. A Thouland Charlots accompanied them throught the Streets of Parif. They are brave jolly Perfons, Sons of Baccous, and Hirelings to Marr, flout in a Wine-Cellar, and no Cowards in the Field.
Courteous Bafan, That feeft I do not forget my Friends, but fend to all by Turns, the Advices that come $n 0 \mathrm{my}$ Hands. I wifh thou would't favour me with a fthort Sketch of thy Pleafure wich the Grand Saigmior, in the neighbouring Plains of Adrianople.

Paris, 10 oth of sbe inth Moon, of the Yaar 1663.

Vol.vi. a SPY at PARis. 145 LETTER IV.

$\ddot{\tau}_{0}$ Hamet, Reis Effendi, Principal So-- cretary of the Ostoman Empire.

2 I S hard todetermine whether the Frencb King excels moft in Martial Affairs, or thofe of Stati. He is good at both: His Counfels are Wire, and his Aetions Grect. A Man both in Boly and Mind form'd for Empire: And out ftipping his Years in all Things, fave the Affairs of love. Thefe indeed he purfues with Youthful Vizour and Paf. fion, being by Nature very Amorous, and efle:m'd thee handfomett Prince of this Age, by thofe w!o =0.2. fider a regular Shape, gracefal Features, and a Majeftic Awefulnefs in his Face, as the principal Ingre. dients in a Mafculine Beauty.
'Tis certain, He's very acceptable to the Ladies, who are the moof competent $f$ dges in this Cafe, And they value him fo mica the more, becaufe his Love never abates the due Seutiments a Monarch ought to have of his Glory. For be gratifies boh Paltions, without fuffering them to interfere, managing his fofteft In:rigu,s with fuch exquifice Prudence, as he flill comes off a Hero.

He has had many Mitrefies, and 'tis a manicef Difcovery of his Wit, That he never faften'd hig Affections on any that deferv'd not the fame Cha racter. She that has the greaieft Share ia his Heart at prefent, is call'd, the Duchefs of Varioxr; a Wo. man rais'd to that 'Title by the King's Bounty for the Sake of his Love. She has a refin'd Wit, and that's all can be faid in her Praife. For, as is her Body, 'twould hardly tempt an indiffertut Painter to eillploy his Skill, unlefs it were, it de fc:ibing what the Taglor endeaiours to hide, and that's a Deformity much like mine, a remarkable Bnach in the Back, yet this Great Monarch loves her paffionately, and will not be cafily croffed in his Amours.The Queen, and his Mother, have endeavoured, by diyers Methods, to reclaim him ; but all prove ineffectual. 'A' while ago, They fet kis Confeffor to work, who, with Abundance of unfeafonable Gravity reprefented to the young Invincible Monarch, the ill Confequences of Unlawful Love (for thefe Infidis efteem none Lawful, but what is beftowed only on one Wife.) He faid all that was proper for a $7 e$ fuif to urge on, fuch an Occafion, and a great deal more; threatening the Royal Lover with levere Pe nance, and I know not what. Impatient of this Difcourfe from a Subject, yet refpeding the-Character he bore as a Prieft, the King, with a referv'd Countenance, thank'd him for his pious Counfel, telling him withal, That for the future, he difcharg d him trom his Service, being refolv'd to obey the Old Canons of the Church, and confefs to none but the Prief of the Parifh. Thus the poor fefuit was difcarded, and befides the King's Difpleafure, he has drawn upon himfelf the Cenfres and Curfes of his whole Order, for difobliging fo potent a Monarch, only to pleare two peerifh Women.

146 Letters Writ by Vol. VI,

1lluatrious Miniter, Kings are as Gods on Earth, and they efteem it a Prophanation of their Divinity, when their Actions are too narrowly fcann'd by their Subjects.

Faris, 7th of the 1 AL Nicos, of the $Y_{\text {bar }} 1664$.

Vol. Vf. a Spylat Paris.iliafy LETTER V.
To Pefteli Hali, bis Brother, Mafter of the Grand Seignior's Cuitoms at Con-) tantinople.

$T^{1}$
HE News which thy Letter imparts, would affice me with incredible Delight, were fuch a Thing poffible to come to pafs. It is a long Time, fipcel have been weary of dwelling in Pasis, and of converfing only with Infidel. There is a perfeet Antipathy berween their Humour and mine. And 'tis no fmall Violence a Man does to his Nature, in fuch a Cafe, when all his Actions and Words are counterfci:ed. This goes mightily againit the Grain. But I have thought Nothing too much, to do or fuffer, for our Great Mafter's Interck: And I'in fill of the fame Refolution. Yet Nature iffelf abhors Force and Reftrair.t. Therefore it wou d be a valt Comfort, to be recall'd from this difagreeable Station, and plac'd in fame other Polt, where I might ferve GOD, and. the Grand Srignior, with mare Lafe.

Befides, I have met with Nothing but Perfecutions and Reproaches from fome if the Scraglio, ever fince I came to this City; as I have ofien hinted in my Difpatches to the Grandees, and particularly, once to the Noble Kerker Haflam, Boffor our Countryman and Friend. Wherein I alfo implor'd his Favour and Interceffion, That I might have Leave to retire into Arabia, and fpend the reft of my Days in the Place, wheie I firit drew my Beeath ; or, at leaft, That I might be permitted to return to Confantimople, and give an Account of my Agency in thefe Parts, tho it were to the Lofs of my Head, if I deferv'd it.
I perceive that Generous Bafa took Compation on my Sufferings, and has done his utmoft, to relieve me, 'Tis to him I owe the Propofal that was made in the Divan, of fending me to the Court of the Grand Mogut, there to negreiate fome private Affairs of Importance for the Sultan.

148 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

There is Nothing that I have had a greater Paffion for, thele many Years, than the Happinefs of vifiting thofe remote Parts of the Earth, fo venerable for the Antiquity of their Inhabitants, and the Excellency of their Lews, Cuftoms, Religion, and Government: I mean the Gcatile Indians, and not the Rate of the Mogals, who came out of Tartary, and are but of Yetterday, in Comparifon with the Aberiginal Pcople, whole Genealogies and Poffeffions of that Country, Atretch beyond ail the Records in the World befides.

Ever fince I read the Yonrnal of thy Travels in the Eaft, I was inflam'd with an ardent Lefire to foe that retowned Nation, to Converfe with the Bramins, and pry into the Myfteries of their unknown Wifdom, which occafions fo much Difcourfe in the World.

I know not wha ails me, but I promife my felf more Satifaction from their Books, were I capable of underftanding the Language in which they are writ, or from the Lips of thole Prieffs, who have em in their Cuftody, ethan fromall the Propbets and Sagrs in the World. I fancy I fhould find fomething prodigioufly Strange and Amazing in their Hiffory, yet fqua. ring with Heman Reafon, and Probability of Truth. I thould meet with Arguments which I cannot yet Aart, to prove the Eternity of the World: Arguments clear and demontrative: Such as would Eftablifh this Dodrin, againf all Objections that have, or can be nade, to the contrary.

The Idea which I a'ready entertain of fo unmeafurable a Duration, is only founded on my own Nasural Thoughts, and fapported by the Concurrent Opinion of ieveral Accient Philofophers. But I thould hope to fee it difcover'd by thefe Indian Recerds, to be a Truth as bright as the Sun, and fix'd as the Center of the Earth.

Vol VI. a Spyat Paris. 149

There is another Thing, for which I mightily admire the Indians; and wherein I endeavour to imitate them to the utmoft of my Power: That is, the Juttice and Tendernefs they fhew towards the Beafts, Tis a Thing which needs a confiderable Expiation, if by Chance they kill any Living Creature: But, if they do it wilfully, out of cruel Wantonnefs or Malice, and not in their own Defence, 'is punif'd with Death, no lefs than if they had murtherd a Man. No Care of Health, nor Fear of Difolution by Sicknefs. can tempt one of the Brachman Race, to tafte a Bit of Flefh: Mu=h lefs could they be induced by the meer P'eafure of their Appetices, to commit that which they effeem fo enormous a Sin, and the very Fountain of all other Vices. They count it the greateft Injuftice that can be, to fuftaia their own Lives by the Lea, h of any of their FellowAnimals; and they eften it a Pufillanimity unbecoming a Man, when he dares not venture bis Life on the Fruits of the Earth, and the Milk of the Cattle. which he may erjoy in Innocerice, and Nature affords him more than cnoughs, of all Sorts of lawful Nourifhrent.

This religious Abfinerce, is the Mother of Heroic Virtues; and thofe who practife it inviolably, are always in a State to contemis the World, Death, and all Nomentary Things. Hence it is, That the I.da's go to the Imvifille W'oild, as chearfully, as they would take a Journey to Clina, and Peifra, Tark.y, or any other Part of the Earth. For they, efteem Deatb no other than a Setting-out, or Voyage of the Soul, to a more agreeable Region.

But I need not infift fo much on thefe Things to thee, who has been among, them, and are familiarly acquainted with their Geniass and Inclination. I flide into this Difcourfe infenfibly, by the Pleafure I take in thinking of there People, and their Admirable Virtues, is a Man falls in Love with a beautiful Woman, by attentively gazing on her. and wany limes forgets himfelf, and the Bufinefo he vas about, comnuts Errors and Indecencies, and through the Confufion of his Spiris, is quite lort, like one in a Wood.

150 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

To return therefore to my Purpofe: A Journey to the Indias would be very pleafant to me, on feveral other Accounts. The very Stars of my Nativity inclin'd me to travel, and from my Cradle in my Father's I loufe, I was tranfperted to Confamtinople, masy Hurdreds of Leagues from the Place of my Birth. 'Thou know'ft what a Roamer I've been fince that Time: And I can aflure thee, 1 setain the fame Dif. pofition Rill. But there's no Country under the Moon, which I wih to fee with greater Earneftnefs, than Indiflat, the very Name whereof founds almoft as fweet as Paradife. Doubtlefs, 'tis the Edcn of the Earth, in many Refpecis. And the Iahabitants believe, there was no Retter for the Origipal Parent of Mank ind to dwell in, ranking the Hiftory of Mofes, on that Subject, in the Number of celebrated Fables. I approve not this Cenfure of the Indians; yet, I tell thee, as a Mufalman, I dare fay, the Myfterious Writings of Mofes, are quite mif-underfood by the greatef Part of Mankind Neither can any Two of his Inserpreters agree exadly which was the particular Situation of Paradife. Some plant that Garden in Mcfofotimia, others in Palefitine; and a third Sort affirm, tivas in Egypt: This Man will have it in Afa, That in Africa. They aic divided in their Opinions: And 1 might as well fay, 'twas under the Red Sea, between them both; and bring as many Cajalifick Proofs to defend it. But, this lignifies Nothing to us, let it be where 'twill. Every Place is a Paradife, ubich a Man fancies to be fo; and Nothing can beat me off from the Canceit I have of the Iudics.

Befices, I Mould take a valt Delight in my Journey thither; whether I went by the Way of the Black

Vol. VI. a SPY at PARIs. 151

Black Sea. and fo through the ancient Kingdoms of Colckis, Georgia, and Carbay, coafting along the Foot of Mount Tauru: : Of, by the more common Road, through Syria, Arabia, and Perfia, Either Way would afford Matter of Thought to a Contemplative. Man, whilt in fome Places, he beholds the Ruins of famous Cities; and his Eyes revel on the Spois of Time, of Fire, of War, or of Earthquakes. In others, He behold whole Provinces laid watte, and difpeopld, only meeting here and there a fey Cots, Hords, or Tents of Arabs, Tartars, or Cir. asfrans Herdfinen; who ftraggle up and down the plealant Fields of Afra, to pick and chule convenient Pattures for their Cattle.

How pleafant would it be, to travel through my own Coun'ry, and behold the Tents of the Sons of $1 / \mathrm{mael}$. (pread o'er the Plains of the vaft and horrible Defart ! To meet with Emirs and Sbegbs of Arabia, with their Flocks and Herds. fummering it up and cown, and frolicking from Mountain to Valley, at their Pleafure !
From this to pafs to another Variety in Perfia, would be equally divering. What K ind of Thoughts fhould I have whilft on my Bed, within the Walls of Bagdat, the Stage of fo many Great and Renown'd Attons mentioned in ancient Hiftory! I thould call to Mind, Semiramis, the Foundrefs of that noble City, and all her Wars with the Indians, wnd other Na tions of the Eaff. I fiould reflet on ber Policy, and the weaknefs of her Son Ninyas. I fhould confider, the various Tranflations of the Eafern Empire; the Alternate Fates of the Medes, Aflyrians, Babylonians, and Perfans. And from thence f thould naturally falt upon the Conquefts of Alixamder the Great ; the Rife of the Maccdonian Empire ; the Death of that Mighty. Hero in Babylon, and the Can:onizing the Empire among his chief Officers. Such Memoirs as thefe, would, waken my Thoughts of the Vanity of all haman Affairs, as it does at this Time, And paricularly, I reflect on my Folly, in fetting my Heart fo much of travelling to a Country, which I am never like to fie.For, alas, my dcas Brorber, I am not able to etrdure, at this Age, the Hardmips of fo long a Journev, as 1 cou'd in my Youth. Much Sicknefs has impair'd the Streugth of my Conflitution. I am grown as tenCer as an Infant. The leat Puff of Wind is ready to b'ow out the Flame of Life. And whereas, formerly, feither Heat nor Cold, Hunger nor Thirft, Labous or Watching could hurt me; now my Health receives Damage from every one of there. could not porfibly out-live the Fatigue and Pain of Travelling two or thrce Days together, without a Drop of Water 10 t. freh my panting Soul. An Habituall ever has made me the Thirflieft Man in the Worid. Then I am not able to bear the Scorching Heat of the Sun, to which a Traveller in thofe Parts is necefarily expofed I Hould daily difolve like Wax, or rather exhale in Snoke, in the Midf of fo many Fervors. In a Word, My Rody is fo infirm, that I am very fure to die, beFore I get Haif way to Indofam, lot me take the nearelt Koad I can.

152 Levters Writ by Vol, VI.

Yet, If the Minifers of the Porte thall think fit to fend me, I am refign'd. For I take no farther Care of my Life, than as I may be ferviceable to the Grand Signior.

I intend to write to our Illuftrious Freind about ic. In the mean Time, do thou for me, what the Prus deace of a Man, and the Affection of a Brother Shall fuggeft, as moft conducing to the Intereft of pur Sovereign, and our own Honour, which we ought to preter to our Lives.

Our Mother is in Health, and Salutes thee with a tender Embrace.

Paris, 9th of the 3d Moen. of the Tear $16 t 4$

LETTER

Vol. VI. a Spyat Paris. 153

LETTER VI.

ToHamet, Reis Effendi, Principal Sccretary of the Ottoman Empire.

THIS Court of late makes a double Figure: the one of real Sorrow for the Duckels of Savey's Dehth, who was of the Blood Royal of France. the other of cosinterfeit Mourning for the Death of Carolas Joffbus, Brother to the German Emprrer. Fcr, thcy inwardly rejoice at inis latter, and with the whole Houfe of Axpiria were laid in their Graves : That Family being the only Obfacle to the Grandeur at which the Frencb Monarchy afpires; the only Rub which Candina! Ricbiicu, and his Succeffor, Mazalini, found in their Way, when they fought to exalt the Bourbas so the Emi ire of the IVef.

The Rife and Fall of Kingdoms, the varions Changes of Gorernment, the alternate Fate of Na tions are Themes worthy of a Mu/Julmucn's Thoughts; confidesing. That the victoriows and happy $O$ /mans, at this Day poffefs the Territories of ancient Renowt, the Provinces and Dominions which formerly made the greatelf Figure and Noife in the World.

What is now become of the moft famous Monarchies of Babslen, Pcrja, Aflyric, Marsdin, Greecr, and Rume! Look for the myiterious and learred Kingdom of Egypt; the religious State of the Fraes; the moft ancient Kingdom of Sigoniars and Argives: the Commonwealths of Lacedemon and Asbons; with many otber Countries mentioned in the Records of Time, and we thall find them all fwallow'd op, in the Univerfal Empire of the Oftcmans.

The Hiitories of Belus, and how he got the Sovereignty by Hunting; of Nimes his Son, who firt tuught the World the Methods of Iadany ; of Semirawis, Nirryas, Sardanapales, Arbaces, Belochus, and the reft of thefe Afrrian Monarchs, found now like an antiouated Tale or Dream. Niether is there any more Life at this Time in the Babylomian and Pcrfian Kegitters. The Mighty Acts of the Nebucbadnisear'si Gyrus's, and the reft of thofe Renown'd Conqueror, how ferve but as Foils, to fet off the mnre Glorious Enterprizes and Succefies of our Intmortal Sultans'T is true, the Perfiams, at this Day, retain fome Fragments of that once vaft and formidable Eoforn Emp:re. And the Gormans have a Shadow of the ancient Imperial Majeity of the Romans. But both the one and the other are grown effemfnate and vea's's they have lolt the Virtue, and Power, and Fortune of their Predeceffors.

ris Letters. Writ by Vol. VI.

Thou haft travell'd over all the Dominions of the Sopbi, and been an Eye-witnefs of the Perfiar Luxury, Libertinifm, and Nakednefs. Thou hat feen, the Offsprings of Hercick Sages transform'd to Swine, Dogs, Affes, and other contemptible Brutes, as if they tad drank of Circe's Cup. So fatal is it to declice froin the Way of Virtue; nay, fo impoffible even to fand fill in that Sacred.Path, without being viofently pulid backward. In a 4 ord, Thou art fo thoroughly acquainted with the prefent State of Per$\int_{22}$, and all its Circumftances, that I fould appear 200 officious in pretending to defribe, either the Country, or the Peopie that inhabit there.

But, as to Exrope, thou profeffè thy felf a Stranger, and haft commanded me to characterize this Quarter of the World: Wherein Germany makes the moft Maj: ftick Figure by Land, Emgland and Holland by Sea: Spain boafts of her Gold; whillt France treafures it up to pay her Armies, to keep Foreign Kings in Penfion, to build mighty Fleets and magnificent Pa laces; to corrupt the German Princes, and make ${ }^{\circ} \mathrm{em}$ Pimps to her Ambition, Inftruments of her defign'd Grandeur, which is no Iffs than the Wifien Empire.

Vol. VI. a SPY at PARIS. 155

As for the Duke of Sawoy, he is a mere Tennis Ball, or a Sbuttle Cock, bandied to and fro between the Kings of France and Spiam.
The Sinjfes are poor and mercenary. They cannot flay at Home, unlefs they could banquet on the Turfs and Stones: For all the Flem, Fruit, and Com in the Land, is not Half enough to keep them alive, and they have little or no Money, but what they get Abroad. This makes 'em all Travellers, and moft of them take up the Trade of War. They ferve the Pope, the Frencb King, and many other Rtinces, for Pay: And where chey once engage. they are very true to their Truft. But I can tell thee; they would be unwilling to fight for the Gramd Signier, unlefs he would allow 'em Plenty of Wine, which, thoaknow 't, is contrary to the Difcipline of the Mufulman Armies ; and thefe Swifis are the profeffed Adorers of Bacedus.

The Hollanders are Induftrious and Rich; they mind Nothing but Merchandizing and Mechanicks. They wonld fain engrofs the Trade of the Indies, and the Levent, to themielves. They Traffick, that they may be in a Condition to Fight, and they Fight, to eftablifh their Commerce; having no Senfe of Honour, but only of Profit. If they attempt any Coaqueft, or make any Invafions, it muft be in America, of fome other Remote Country; for they are only tpon the Defenfive among sheir Neighbours, not caring to be the firt Aggreffors in a War: In a Word, They're like a Nell of Pijmires, that trudge up and down, continually, to get Provifions, bus Sting and Bite thofe, under whofe Protedtion they live, if they have an Opportunity.
'Tis thought the Priace of Orange, who defcends from an Illuftrious Stock, will, e'er long, reduce thofe Republicans to another Form of Government. The Frencb ftyle him, The Head and Heart of the United States, and thefe thou know't: command the Hawds and Fect.

H 6
Ger.

ish Lexters. Writ by Vol. VI.

Germany is counted the Bulwark of Cbriffendom, againft the Mighty Power of the Ottomans and Tarrars. But in my Opinion, one of our Ambaffadors at the Emperor's Court gave a truer Defcription of it, when he compard Germany to 2 Great Monter with many Heads and Tails, which having a Defire to break through a certain Quick fet Fence or Hedge. and each particular Head making Way where it could beit, among the lefs entangled Branches, were all caught in fo many different Noofes, by the Interpo. fition of ftrong Trees, and fo the Monfter was fore'd to retire with Shamse and Lofs : Whereas, he faid, The O/man Empire was like an Animal with One Head, and many Taits, and that One Head not Encountering the like Difficulties, eafily pafs'd through, being followed by the Tails with one Confent, as the untwifted Ends of a Ten-ftring'd Cord pafs through a Ring or Hole, when the United Paat had led them the Way:

I thould have mentioned Ifaly, Poland, Denmark, Mufrevy, and other Regions of Europe, bat it would be tootedious for one Letter. which I fhould neither have Time to write, nor Thou Patience to read, at oace.

Therefore, I defire the to accept of this, only as rough Draught, and imperfét Sketch of fome Parts of the Wiff. But in my future Difpatches; I will imitate the Painters, and endeavour to draw each Member anid Lineament of this Great Body to the Life, as near as I can difcern themi, by the Lights I have in Paris.

Paris, 10 h of the qth $^{\text {th }}$ Moen, ef the Pear $166_{4}$.

Vol. VI. a SpYat Paris. ist

LETTER VII.

To Kerker Haffan, Baffa.

MAY GOD multiply his Bleffings on thee, and caufe thy Heart to fparkle with frefh Lights, and new Joys, like the Sky Rockets on a Dwnalma, (or Royal Holydig.) Accept alio a fmall Prefent, not worth an Inventory fonfifting only of a few Piffures, Looking Glaffes, Watches, and orher Manufactures. of France from the Hands of Makmut, thy Countryman, Son of thy Father's Neighbour, and a voluntary Slave of tho.e who ferve thice, if I had the Hanour of an Opportunity.
Neither the G:ft, nor he that (ffers it, is worthy of Efteem. But thou haft Cordefcenfion enough to look on both with the Eye of a noble Arab, whokrows hew to value the Sincerity of any Man's Devoir and Affection, which Way foever he exprefes it.
${ }^{5}$ I can never forget the former Difcoveries of thy Friendftip to my Brother Prefeli and me, and in general, to all thofe of our Hoofe; which ftll encousages me to expeet grcater Kindnefies; nay, in a Manner, affures me of them: Becaufe, I know the Na ture of true Generofity is fuch, that where it once begins to faften on an Object, it never ceafes to communicate its Favours, till damn'd Peifidy gives a Check to the Current. And may he be damn'd that then has the Impudence to akk for any more.

But, Praife be to GOD, my Cafe is otherwife; I am not in the Number of the Ungrateful and Treacherous: And therefore, with Boldnefs I prefume, once more, to addrefs to the Duft of thy Feet, Hluftrious Bafa, begging thy Patronage and Shelter from the Perfecution of my Enemies, Whole whole Endeavour is to rain me.

158 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

Thou know'd I came to Paris in the Year 1637 of the Chriftian Hegyra: The Sun had then revifited the Sign he was in at my Nativity, juft the eight and twentieth Time. I was a mere Youngter in the World. However, my Supetiots though me fit for this Employment. How thave acquitted myfelf in it ever fince, I leave themfelves to judge: Yety for Fafhion Sake, they will be always finding Faults. One Sycophant or other is perpetually railing againft me, when they find any of the Vixiert, and other Grandces, in a Humour to hearken to, them. Ifancy tis for Want of Difcouric. When they have Nothing elfe to talk of, then they fall a cenfuring of poor Mabmut, who undergoes more Fatigues than an Hundred +Tbis Word Thiguch Thoufand fuch + Tkigucb as evas left So in the Itali- they. I can't imagine what 2n, and the Englif they aim as; unlefs it be, Tranhator knows sot That they would have me wibat to make of it. turn Cbriffian, and enter my felf into fome Monatery.
Suffer me, my Noble Friend, to tell thee. That a Man cannot want for Templation to fucha Changeof his Faith, without being confin'd to a Reclufe Life. He may be a Fryar or a Libertine, a Prigh or a Lay. man, a Zealot or an Hypocrite, a Climney feveeper or an Abbot, which be pleares, according as he is qualified. And I can affure thee, he that would be a good Man, which is beyond all the reft, has Incentives cnough among the Profifors of the Nazarenes WorBrip, tho' the greateft Part are wicked.

As for me, 1 never thought, that True Religion conifited in empty Names and Titles, in Forms and Ceremonies, Partico and Factions, or in any Thing but in a Life conformable to Reafon, and to the Will of God.

They take me here at Paris for a Moldavian Ram. bler, that has read fomething more than the Peribo-

Clark.

Vol.VI. a SPY at PARis. 139

larks. And becaufe they know I undertand Greek, Sclavoniam, and two or three Langeages more, they would fain make me a Prieft, Doctor, Orator, any Thing that I would accept of, to ferve an Intereft. And I am compell'd to ufe, either a downright Humility, or forc'd Pride, that I may handiomely evade their Courthip; convincing ' em fometimes, that I am not fit for fuch Dignities; at other Seafons, telling 'em, I am above Inferier Orders, and that Nothing lefs than an Archbihop's Pall, or a Cardinal's Hat, will fatisfy my Ambition.

Thus I really diffemble, and jett myfelf in earnett out of ample Eftates, to ferve God, his Propbct, and the Grand Signior: Yet I am traduc'd at the Seiaglio, for an Hypocrite, an Infidel, and God knows what.
Here's honef Eliachim the Fow undergoes the fame Fate; whilf thofe of his own Party, elpecially, the Rabj.'s, proclaim him every where for a Chriftian, and the Nazarenes point at him as a Turk. Only my Lardlord, where I before lodg'd who is an honeft, old, drunken Fliming, takes Eliacbim for a Saint, and fwears, he'll have him Canoniz'd after his Death: And all this, for no other Reafon, but becaufe Eliachim treats him now and then with a Bottle of Wine: So partial are all Men to their oivn Humours and Interef. But the Truth on't is, Eliacbim's an excellent Counterfeit, and my Landlord is not the only Man, who haft this Veneration for him. He paffes for a very good Catholick, and a ho. ly Man, among a great many others. His Looks are fo demure, his Mien fo compos'd, and he has fuch godly Difcourfe with him, about the Sacraments, Indulgencies, Miracles, and Graces of the Church, when he is in Company with Chritians, that he would deceive the Spani/b Irquifition, and cheat the Devil himfelf.

Such is the Vioience we are forc'd to ufe to ourfelves, who live in thefe bazardous Stations. And yet no Body confiders us, or regards our Zeal for the Grand Signicr. Our Reputation, Liberty, and Lives are precarious. We are not only in perpetual Danger of the Revenge of the Nazarises, who are our real Enemies; but alfo expofid to the Envy; Malice, and Perfecution of thofe who ought to be our Friends.I have often complain'd of the malicious Calumnies thrown on me by Icbingi Cap Oglani, and his Affociates: And the Miniftirs were pleas'd to receive my Apologies. But now 1 fufpect greartr Treachery. I fent an Account to the Reis Eficmdi fome ago, and how I was dogg'd np and down the Strcets of Paris, by a Fellow whom I knew not, and what Appretenfions that put me upor. 1 will acquaint thee farther, trat being afraid of an Affaffin in the Dark, I arm'd my Brcatt with a Quire of Paper, which is known to be Dagger Proof. I was not 2t all miftaken in my Guefs: For the latt Night, as I was returring bone to my Lodgings, betwisen the Hours of Nine and Ten, 1 received a Stab in my aforefaid Brealt Plate, right againft my Heart. It was not fo dark, but 1 could perceice the Perfon u ho gave me this Blow; and Self prefervation taught me ismediately to feize on him, and grapple as clofe as I could, extending his Arms with mine, at a good Diftance from our Rodies. I am but little and fhort, yet I have a ftrong Spring with my Body, when I am once rouz'd, as thou wilt imagine I was now. Befides I have generally a certain Prefence of Mind in Time of Danger, which fails not to prompt me, with the readieft and moft proper Courle to efcape In a Word, I wrented the Ponjard out of the Ruffian's Hand, and ftabb'd him dead with it, n't thinking it fafe to make a Noife, but chufing rather to die, if my Strength fil'd me, than by crying out for Help, run the Risque of worfe Confequence: For I had long expected fome fuch Attempt as this upon my Life, From my Enemies at the Porte. And conclud. ing this Fellow to be one employ'd by them for that Purpole, 1 thought ic no Prudence to have him feiz'd by the Wareb and punifh'd by the Law, leat he thould, in Revenge, difcover Me and my Bufinefs, to the Irfidel. Therefore, I play'd the Excentioncr my felf, and fent him out of Hand to another World, to prevent his telling Tales in this. Thou wilt fay, There was no Injuftice in this, fince it was in my own-Defence, and to fave the Howour of my Sourrrigr. As he fell, he utter'd thefe, Words, in a faint, broken Tone: Mahmut, My Death willh be reveng'd before long, onit you cannot ejcape the Trap tbat is haid foryoe. Then he expird.

160 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

Vol. VI. a Sprat Paris. 161

This made me prefenily conclude, That he was employ'd by Somebody at the Porte: For, loow elfe thould he know my true Name? But, upon Second Thought, I cannot be certain, but that be was fet at Work, by my oid Sicilian Mafier, fince he knew my Name alfo. However, I have greater Reafon to fufpect the former; becaufe it is not probable, that the lyfidets would take fo clargeable and troublefome a Method to smurther me. Neither had he Provocation enough. Befides, for aught I know, he may be dead. GOD only is acquainted with the Truth. However, to prevent fusure Aflaults of this Nature, and a great many other Inconveniencies, I have removed my felf to a new Lodging, in the moft obfcure Corner of the City, and very remote from the Place where I liv'd before, being refolv'd alfo not to frequent the Court, nor any publick Places, as I have done formerly, but to take other Meafures for Intelligence.

What I defire of thee, is, To reprefent my Cafe favourably to the Divan, that they may approve of my Conduct. Do alfo whatever elfe thou judgett the Part of a Countryman, and n Friend.

162 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

As for the Event, I patiently wait the Appointment of Deqiny. For'tis in vain to be too follicitous.
Adieu, High born Kerker, and forget not Mabe wut, in his Diftrefs. For that is the Time wherein true Friendflip is tried.

> Paris, thth of the 5 th Moom, of the Year 1654 .

L ETTER VII.

To Nathan Ben Saddi, a Jew, at Vienna.

B
E not difhearten'd at the Troubles which thou encountereft in this World of Lotteries. But remember the Adage of thy Rabbi's, Thar EVIL nubicb is Old at Nigbt, is yet the Off:Spring of every Morning. The Ages are meafurt exadily, and our Hours are Checquer'd with equal Mixtures of Happinefs and Misfortune. We are not born to our own Defires. And, as not a Manl of us can remember how he was form'd in the Womb, fo have we no Reafon to repine at what happens to us, fince we came out of it. Whatever Power, Wifdom; and Goodnefs, took Care of as then, and afterwards infpir'd our Mothers and Nurfes with Tendernefs; and Thou. fand Degrees of Patience, beyond whiae is recorded of $\mathcal{F o b}$, the fame will provide for us to Eternity.

The Defire of Knowledge kill'd Adam, and the fame Luft, propagated with his Seed, deftroys all his Pofterity. We can never by fatisfy'd in our Confinement to this World, and therefore we flounce and flatter on all Sides, like Fifh, or Binds in a Net, to find a Way out: Whilf we do bat entangle ourfelves the fafter, render our Reftuynt tipere uncafy, nd delay the Poffibility of our Releafe. Whereas, Patience wonld foon fee us free, and rank us among the Inmortals. One thinks to efcape by high Drinking : Aposher by Fevers of Love or Glory; and a Third, conceis he Arall by his Gold, be able to bribe the Watch, who guard the laft Paffes of this Life, and perfuade them, to tet him fcamper fafe to Paradifes Alas I alas ! All this is but the Sophiftry of our Paffions. 'I'is in vain to think of Hafteoing, sor Retsoding our Fate; our Time is Set, though we know not the Period. Refignation is our beft Leffom, and fruderce the next.

Vol. VI. a SPY at PARIs. 163

Perhaps thou wilt call this a Sermon, rather than a Letter. But I advife thee not to read it, with the Eyes of a Stoick; that is, Whether it pleafes thee, or not, regard it no farther than it agrees with Reafon. I would fain aik of the Man, who expeets to have his Will accomplifh'd in this Life, Whether he can prevail upon the Sun to rife any Morving within the Areick Circle, or the Moon to defcend tome Night, and fweep the Snow off from the Top of Mount Aibos. So Inexorable is our Deftiny, fo Unalterable the Decrees of Fate.

Be not troubled therefore at any Thing; but remiember, That thou art a Part of the Univerfe, and that Nothing can batide thee, which is not for the Good of the whole.

What I have faid is, To arm thee againt all the Contingencies which may aflault thee unawares, rufhing upon thee on a fudden from behind the Veil, which covers all the Defigns of Providence and Nasure, Deftiny and Chance.

I myfelf have lately experienced, That it is good to be thus prepar'd for future Events, having narrowly efcap'd Death, by a little timely Forecaff.

It is not neceflary for thee, at this Time to know all the Circumflances of my Danger. Suffice it to fay, That I was Affafinated in the Dark, kill'd him that def gned to be my Murderer, and am now forced to remore my Habiration.Eliantim, thy Brother in Ifrael, will be at Vienna within fourteen Days. He will give thee & farther Account of all Thinge, which it behoves thee to know; with frefh Infractions concerning my new Lodgings, and the Method we muft obferve for the Future, in conveying Letters. We cahnot be too cautions in the Gras d Signior's Bufinefs.

164 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

As for our own Lives, Let us imagine they were only leat us to ferve him, on whofe Life fo many Millions of Lives depend.

- Parie, isth if fle $5^{\text {th }}$ Moon, $\quad$ vals rigahy: e5 of ibe raar 1664

LETTER IX.

To Zeidi Alamanzi, a Merchant in Venice.

IA M obliged to fend Circuler I etters at this Time to all the slaves of the Grand Signior, who have Bufinefs with tee at Paris; to inform ihem, That upon a very important Emergency, I ain forc'd :e change my Lodgings. I huvealready feet away Difpatches to Conjfamtimple and Vicuna on this Account, to prevent the Errors they might commit in addreffing their Letters. For the fame Reafon, 1 now write to thee; thou need ft not enquire after the Occafion of this Conduet; nor wonder at any Thing that happens to us eitraordinary in thefe hazardous Pofts, We muft expect to encounter with Rubs and Obttacles, in ferving our Great Mafier. If thefe Difficulties have but their proper Effea, which is to whet our Inventions, increafc our Diligence, and confirm us in our Zeal, All thall go well.

Vol.VI., a Spy at Paris. 165

The Soul of Man never difplays her Faculties and Perfections with greater Luftre, than when She is environ'd with Perils. Thefe are the Trials of Portitude, Prudence, Juftice, and all the Virtues. He that finks under Misfortunes, and crofs Events, has either. no Soul, or 'tis aflcep Courage then, Fellow Slave, and let thy Heast beat a continual Alarm. Be not difmay'd at any T hing, nor let Self.Love bereave thee of thy Honour: But go on in thy Du:y, and truft thy Soul to Ged.

Thou livelt in a City where Virtue and Vice are in Emulation, ftill ftriving to furpafs each other: There are not more wicked Pcople in the World than Vinice affords, nor yet more Pious and Good. Follow thou the bef Patterns, and be Happy. But do Nothing by bare Imitation; for that's the right Way to become an Hypocrite. Let all thy Actions procced from vital Principles of Reafon and Generofity in thy felf; a ad when thou feeft rare Examples, let them ferie only to awaken and rouze thy Innate Virtue.
: Send me no Letters till thoa hatt received freth Orders from the Porte. They will furnim theewith all neceflary Intruftions. After that, let me hear from thee as eften as thou wilt. Thy Difpatches will be always welcome. Let them contain Mater of Intelligence chiefly, and that of the freftett Date. Penetrate into the Counfels of the Republick where thou refideft. Infinuate thy felf with the Scmators and Gramdees. I ive into their Hearts, and unlock their Secrets. Communicate Nothing but the Truth to the Minifirs of the Porte, or to me. If thou canf difcoyer their Inclinations to a Peace, or their Abfolute Need of it, thou wilt do an Acceptable Service to the Grand Scignior, and to the whole Empire of the Fuitbful: For then we bring them to our own Terems.

> 166 Letters Writ by Voll VI/
> Zridf, To God I recommend thee, defiring firion to preferve thee from Wine, Women, and Cards, which are the three Capital Temptations of Venice.

Paris, 1 tt of the 6th Moon, of the Year 1664.

LETTER X.

To Murat, Baffa.

$T$Cannot eafly Divine the Reafons, Why I am fo much neglected by the Minitters of she Porte. Above Four Years have paffed away, wherein-many! notable Event have happened; yet, Nobody thought it worth his L.abour, to inform Mabmat of any Thing. So that all the Notice I could gain of-remete Tranfactions are owing either to the Publick News of Europes or at beft, to fome particular Letters of Mer chants refiding in this City, with whom I conferve. an Intimacy, for the Sake of Intelligence, and for other Caufes.

Thus I fhould have been in Ignorance to this: Day, "what Iffue the Bafla of Aleppo's Rebellion had were is not for an accidental Interview I lately had of fome French Travellers, who came from Comfantinople. Thefe inform'd me of the fudden Fate of that Bafa, when he was at the Heighth of the his Grandeur, within a few Days March of the Imperial City, at the Head of a potent Army, and juft upon the Point of Accommodation with the Grand Signier. They much extol his Bravery and Refolution : For the Frencb are naturally Lovers of fuch as dare boldly oppofe their Sovereign. They equally condemn the ily Perfidioufnefs of Mortaza Bafa, wo whofe fafe Conduat, the Gemerous Rebel truited his Life, and by that Eafinefs loft it. Yet they ap. plaud Mortara's Loyalty, Courage and Widdom, with the eminent Services he afterwards did the Empire, in leading the Army againft Ragotki, Prince of Tranjlylvania, which at length lifted him to the Government of Rabylon.All there Things had been hid from me, were not the Nararencs my Intelligencers. Nor hould I have known how the Rebellion was carried on, after his Death, by his revengeful Nephew, by the Son of Cbujaien Bafa, by a Bey of Egypt, and other Malcontents. Yet fuch Paffages are fit for a Man, in my Poft to be acquainted with, that he may have a clear Idea of his Mafter's Circomftances, and 60 apply himfelf more effectually to ferve him.

Vol. VI, a Spx at Paris. 167

It had not been amifs, if I had receiv'd timely Intelligence of the Death of Prince Ragor/ki, in Regard there was always a private Correfpondence between him and this Court. Which ceafing by his Death, it had been worth my Pains to oblerve, Whether it would be continued by his Succeffor, or, What otter Meafures they would take.
'Tis true, I was acquainted with this, but not by the Minifters of the Porte. I heard alfo of all the following Commotions in Tramfluania, occafion'd by the different Factions of Micbael Apafi, and Ke mini fanos, the Two Royal Princes. I was not forry for this News, knowing that the Divifions of the Nazarenes flrengthen the Unity, and Force of the Mufulman Empire. I was likewife inform'd of the Fate of Mortaza, Baffa of Balylon, who fell a Victim to the Grand Vizir's Jealouly; with many other Paffages. But neither from the Porte, nor from any other Hands, could I find the leaft Intelligence of the Venetian War, and what Progrefs our Arms have made in Candia, Dalmatia, and the other Dominions of the Republick. Which makes me to conclude, That either the Grand Signior's Refidence at

168 Letters Writ by Vol, VI.

Adriamople, abated bis Inclinations to Martial Affairs, which is alfo the common Opinion of the Cbrifitians here in the Wif; or, that the War in Hingary for a while fuperfeced all other Defigns.

However it be, 'tis certain the Succefles of the Ottomans Arms, in taking Neubaue col, Leeventz, Novigrod, and other Places of Strength, with the terrible. Incurfions of the Tartars through Moravia and Aufria, put the whole Guman Emfire into a great ConAternation. Ambafadors are fent from the lupcrill Cengt to all the Cbrifiau Princes, imploring their AfEftance in this General Danger of Europe.
Here is one arris'd at this Court, whom they call Count Strozzi, a Perfon of good Addrefs, and Mafter of much Eloquence. He has prevail'd on the Fretch King, to maintain, at his own Charger Six Thoufand Morfe and Foot to ferve againft the vic.orious $O$ fmans. A great many Perfons of Quality have lifted tinemfelves as Voluntiers; and the meaner Sort talk of Nothing bat marching to Conjlantinofle, and driving the Turks back to Sgithia, $\boldsymbol{T}_{5} \mathrm{~m}$ whence they, firf came.

Courtcous Brfla, Thou wilt laugh at the Vanity of thefe Infidels; who confider not, that by the Grace of God, and Mirachis of his Propbet, our Emperor is the King of all the Kings on the Earth, the Mightiek of the Mighty Ones; the Pbaszix of Honqup, Power, and unparalell'd Majefty; Brother and Companion of the Sun, Moon, and Stars; a Prince of a My Rerious and Sublime Lineage, in whom are senter'd all Glory and Excellency; the Sbadow of God on Earth!

The Breath of Fame goes before the Van-Couriers of his Armies, purifying all Places, and filling them with Veneration and Terror. The Duft that is raifed by his Heroick Cavalry, pafing through the Air, caufes Trembling and Attoniflment in the Hearts of the Cbriffians. The Infidels fall before the fatal Seymetars of True Believers.

Vol.VI. a Spy at Paris. 169

May the Amgel of the Honfe of I/mael con inue to profper the Holy Off Spring, to extend their Conquefts, and propagate the Faith unblemilh'd ; that the Names of Ala and Mabomet may be he ard in all Climates, and from the utmoft Borders of the Earth.

Paris, $5^{\text {th }}$ of the 6th Moon. of tbe Year 1664.

LETTER XI.

To Ifouf, bis Kinfman, a Mercbant at Attracan.

IHave often wonder'd, why, among the reft of the Nations in Chriftind,m, thas would'it not beftow the leaft tranfient Vifit upon Spain. But. upon more mature Confideration, I find thau art a Man of Judgment in Travelling. That Country lies under a very ill Character, for the Penury of all Things neceffary to fuftain the Lives of the Natives ; and by Coniequence, 'tis not to be thought they can fpare much for Strangers. A very inhofpitable Region, abounding in Beggars, Thieves, and Drones : Full of Wine and Gold, yet barren of Corn and rich People.

Thou wilt not think this a Paradox, when thou malt confider, That the Spaniards have all their Com from Fratce, Germany, or Sicily: And that, for this and other Reafons, Spain is but like a Sieve, through which the immenfe Treafures of Pcru and Mexice are drain'd into other Countries.

You may travel fome Days together in Spain, without feeing any Thing, fave the dry Face of a Defart. And, if you chance to meet with a Houre, wherein you may dhelter yourfelf and your Horfe, expea expect no better than a a Ramezan Entertainment. For you muft faft all Day; and think yourfelf much refpected if you can get a few Onions, or other Roots and Herbs, with a Morfel of Bread and Fleft at Night, to keep you from being fenfible, That you are actually ftarving.Then, the Inhabitants are the prouder People on Earth. You thall meet with none but Kings, Princes, Vice-roys, or at leaft Men that conceit themfelves fuch. They are alfo mercilefs in their Revenge; cruel, obdurate, covetous, moroie, and inexorable. In a Word, Spain is the Fefuits Paradife, the Firus Purgatory, and the Hell of Women.

iyo Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

I therefore commend thy Fortune, or thy Prudence rather, which would not fuffer thee to fall into the Hands of thofe Barbariams; nor think it worth thy Pains to breathe an Air infected with fo many Vices. 'Thou haft paffed thro' many more inviting Provinces, and art at laft happily feated to thy Mind. Improve thy Opportunities in doing Good.

I fent a Letter to our Coufin Solyman, advifing him to give thee a Vifit. If he comes, receive him kindly, and perform the Part of a Kinfman ; putall Expences to my Account, and remember, That no Man is born for himfelf.

Paris, 6th of the 7 th Moon, of the Year 1664.

LETTER XII.

To Afis, Baffa.

ALL Exrope is alarm'd with the mighty Preparations which our Invincible Sovereign is mating to invade the German Empire. Great is their Confter.

Vol. VI. a Spy at Paris. 174

Confternation and Fear, and Couriers are every where running up and down from one Kingdom and Court to nother, to remonflrate the common Danger, and beg Affiftance. Every Body appears zealous in a Caufe which concerns all Cbriffendom; and the French King has lent the Emperor 8000 Men.

The Duke of Beanfort is alfo gone with a Squadron of Ships to encounter the Corfairs of Algiers, and other Dominions of Barbary.

The Pope has fent to the Emperor's Affiftance Six Thoufand Foot and Two Thouland Horfe. And the reft of the Emperor's Allies are raifing Levies for him as faft as they can : It being current News, That the Grand Signior in Perfon, is at the Head of Two Hundred Thoufand Men, entring into Hungary as a Conqueror: That he has taken alove Forty Towns, ruined all the Country where he pafied through, and, That in a little Time he will be at the Walls of Viemna.

In the mean Time, This Court appears infenfible of the General Danger which threatens Chrifiendow. They are altogether taken up in Ballads, Plays, and Fiafing, minding their own Intereft more than that of their Neighbours, and revelling as if the King of France were jole Monarch of the World.

Here is arrived a Legate from Rome, to compole the Differences between the Pope and this Crown. His Name is Cardinal Cbif. He is receiv'd with unparalld Magnificence, as if he were an Angel from Heaven; for the Frenclb King loves to Rhew his Grandeur on fuch Occafions. Befides, all the Nations which are in the Communion of the Latin Cburch, have an unreferv'd Veneration for the Roman Mufti, whom they efteem the Succefor of Peter, the Prince of the Apofiles.

This young Monarch has a large Soul. The whole World feems too litile to fatisfy his Ambition. He lays the Foundation of Defigns, greater than thofe of Alcxander the Conguerror of dfa. He heaps up Money at a prodigious Rate, raifes valt Armies, builds magnificent Palaces, keeps Kings in Penfion, fupports many Princes in Germany ; and, in a Word, commands more of them, than does the Empecrer himfelf, who is their lawful Sovereign.Yet after all, I cannot perceive that he lofes any Degree of that Refpect which he owes, and which his Predecefors have aiways paid to the Grand Signier, who is the undeniable Arbitir of the whole World.

172 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

GOD grant our Sovireign Iong Life, perpetual Victories, and a good Stomach to his Meat, which the King of France wants to the Accomplimment of his Happinefs ; for at preient he feeds like a Sparrow.

Paris, 1 gth of tbe 8th Moon, of tbe $Y_{\text {sear }} 1664$.

LETTER XIII.

To Hamet, Reis Effendi, or Principal Sccretary of the Uttoman Empire.

T HOU wilt perceive the vaft Refpect I have for thee, by my frequent Difpatches. Thy Commands are to me as the Laws and Sanctions of the Ottoman Empire, which I will never violate. I am no Flatterer ; witnefs my Letiers to fome of the Gramdes, wherein I have not (par'd to reprove their Vices, Errors, and Mal.Adminiftration. If a Bafja has been unjuft, feditious, or engaged in rebellious Practices; if he has prov'd an Extortioner, a Drunkard, or a Tyrant, he has not efcap'd wi:hout a due Reprimand. I have been bold in correcting, advifing, and giving Counfel to the greateft Minifers in the Empire. And this was a Province ap. pointed me by the Flower of Sublime Glory, the

Pbacnix

Vol. VI. a Spy at Paris.

173
Pbornix of Homowr, Sole Favourite and Trufec of the Grand Signior, the Vixir Axem; in whofe Cuftody were the seals of Imperial Secrets, Majefick Decrees and Royal Edias; who being the Primum Mobile of the refulgent Mufulman State, gave Life, Activity. and Order, to all the Infirier Orbs, Springs, and Infruments of Government.

1 receiv'd this Command many Years ago, and He that gave it to me is gone to the Werld of Spirits. Yet the In unction remains in Force, being ftamp'd with the Myfterious Signet, the Cbaraier of Supreme and Immutable Authority. In Obedience to which I have never warp'd or winch'd from the Duty enjoin'd me. And to demonftrate, that I did not do this in a vain Oftentation of the Power which was given me, I have not fail'd all along to pay a Man of Merit the Attach and Veneration that was his Due.
'Tis with inexpreffible Pleafure I throw myrelf at the Feet of a Wife and Virtuous Man; with extreme Comp'acency I kife che Duft whereon he treads, and unfold all my Faculties in exprefling my Efteem. I am full of Platonick Love, and build Altars in my Breaft, to a Soul deferving the innocent Sacrifices of amorous Paffions, the Incenfe of Gratitude, and a pure Affection, an Holocamp of Integrity and loyal Friendhip.

I proteft, by the Hopes I have of fitting on the Banks of the Rivers in Eden, and of being regal'd in the delectable Cbstofis of Paradife, That I honour thy Learning, and other fage Perfeetions; that unblemifh'd Life. whofe excelient Morals, and the unparallel'd Sweetnefs of Modelty, which crowns all thy Actions. But I will fay no more to a Man who cannot hear his own Pyziles. The bell Mochod of expreffing my Regard, will be to anfwer thy Expectations, in prefenting thee with the true Pourtraiture of thefe Weferm Nations and People, which thou fo $\mathrm{I}^{2}$ ffionately covetef.

174 Letters Writ by Vol.Vf.

 I muft defire thee to excufe the Confufion and Want of Order in iny Letters; fince I fend thee a Medly of Remarks, as they come to my Knowledge and Memory.- It is not long ago fince I wrote to IJouf Eb'n Acto. mod, a Kinfman of mine, a Merchant at ABracat: and among other Things, I took Notice of his not going to fee Spain in his Travels; for he has been in moft of the Kingdoms of Rarope, and over all Afia and Africk. In that Letter I defcrib'd Spain in its wort Colours. Now I will thew it to thee in another Figure, without fwerving from the Truth: For every Country has its Perfections and Exceliencies, as well as its Defects and Blemifhes.

If Spaim have a barren Soil for Corn, Nature has made Amends for that Fault, in the Purity of the Air, and the Plenty of Fruits: The Sands of her. Rivers are of the moft perfect Gold. Her Villages tho few, are greater and mere populous than fome Gities; witnefs Madid. Her/ALountains are of Iron, Marble, and Fafper. Her Vallies underlaid with Lead, Brafs, and Siveer. Spain of old was the Tharfis of Solomen, the Opbir of the Phaticians, and the Perx of Rome.
In thofe Days the Inhabitants of Spain were famous for their Fortitude, and invincible Conftancy. 'T is recorded, That the Inhabitants of Sagunto, in the Province of Valencia, when they were befieged by Hannibal, and fo oppreffed by the Cartbagians, chofe to burn themfelves, with their Wives, Children, and all their Wealth, rather than yield to ch ir Enemies.

Their Fideiity alfo was fo remarkable, that fome -i the Rumar Emperore had always a Guard of Soamiards near their Perfons; as the Frencb King, the Pope, and other Princes do now confide in the trufty Suifes.

Vol.vi. a Spy at Paxisi its

But tho' there remain till fome foatter'd Remnants of the Ancient Virtue among them, efpecially in Bif cay and Caftile, yet the greatett Part of the Spaniards are degenerated. They make no Figure now in the World, bat only for their Gold, and the Vaftnefs of their Dominions ; for they poffefs the beft half of Ancrica, are Lords of two mighty Empires, and not without large Territories, in the other Three Quarters of the World. Yet the too great Extent of their Power has weaken'd its Vigour; the Affluence of their Wealth has really impoverifh'd them, and by ftraining their Honour too high they have crack'd it, being now of little or no Efteem in Europe. Their Glory fades at the rifing Grandeur of France, which makes radiant and fwift Advances towards its $Z_{\text {enith. }}$. This Young Monarch is already become the Arbiter of all Cbrifiendom.

Accomplifh'd Minifer, There is nothing in Nature fedfaft ; the World is but an Eternal Circulation of Erents, Viciflitudes, and Changes, without Beginning or End. Only GOD remains Inmutable in his own Effence, which is the Center of every Thing. May Thou and I meet there, and then we fhali be Eternally Happy. Adicu.

Paris, 12 th of the 9 th Moon, of the rear 1664.

L F. T T ER XIV.

To Mufu Abu'l Yahyan, Profeflor of Philofophy at Fez.

$B$Y the Faith and Obedience I owe to Mobammed our Holy Law-giver; by the Alcoran, and all that is efteem'd Sacred among the Mufulmans, I

176 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

 fweft, thy long Silence made me conclude my Firft Letter was unwelcome to thee. But now I'm convinc'd to the contrary: Thy generous Anfwer has removed nay Apprehenfions, and filled me with Complacency. Henceforth I Ohall reft affor'd and confident of thy Friendfhip, promifing myfelf valt Improvements from fo Learned a Converfation, tho' only by Letters at many Hundred Leagues Diftance.As to what thou requireft of me concerning the various Languages of Europe, I will inform thee the beft I can according to the Obfervations I have made, and the Intelligence I have receiv'd from Men of Letters, and from Books, which are the Pictures of learned Souls, Mirrors whercin they may behold their own Perfections, whilt they are on Earth, and after their Departure to the Invifibles, other Men may fee the Interior Beauties of their Mind reprefented to the Life. For Words are the perfea Sculpture of the Intellecg, or at leaft its Mereatinto. They are the exprefs Pourtraiture of Divine and Human Reafon. Thus the Alcoran is call'd by fome of our Holy Doctors, Tbe True Image of Original and Increated Wifdom.

Now, of all the Words and Languages on Earth, thou know'It the Pre eminence has been for ever given io thole of the E.A; and amongt them to the Ara${ }^{2}$ inn , both in Regard of its Purity and of its Anti. Quty, from wherice it is ftyl'd the Virgin Motber of Languages, the Dialea of the Bleffed above.

Thou know'it, that for this Reafon it is, the True F ithful covet no Species of Learning more ardently tha: to be perfectly ikill'd in fo Divine a Speech, wherein the Volume of Calefial Majefy was penn'd in Heaven before the Throne of GOD, and fent down on Earth by the Hand of Gabricl, Prince of the Mefingers who fly on the Errands of the Omnipotiont. It was fent, I fay, to the Prophet, who could neither Write or Read, That the World might might be convinc'd of its Divine Original. Yet the Incredulous will not believe: Tho' it is manifert to any Man of impartial Senfe, That a Perion altogether ignorant of Letters, could not pofibly compoie a Book, the molt Elegant that ever was penn'd in the World, and wherein not the leaft Blemifh or Contradiction can be found, from the Cbapter of the Preface, to the laft Verficle, which winds up the whole Volume. Oh! obdurate Hearts of Infidels! Oh! wilfully blind, that thut their Eyes againtt the Splendors of Eternal Ligbt! Oh ! refolvedly deaf, that ftop their Ears againft the Voice of GOD and his Propbet, neither will they liften to the foft Whilpers which are wafted from Paradife

Vol, VI. a Spy at Paris. 177

Such are the Nazarcnes, who, for the Sake of the Greek and Roman Tongues, of which they are paffionately ena nour'd, educate their Children in a fair Way to believe all the monftrous Fitions of the Ancient Poets, or at leaft all the lying Tales and Legends of their own Priefts, which are Ten Times more Fabulous than the former, and more inconfiftent with Reafon. And this they do rather than to be at the Pains of learning Arabick, which would inftruet them in Truths as clear and ferene as the Orient Sun.

I Ahall fay little of thofe Two Ancient Languages of Greece and Rome, in Regard they being now grown obfolete, are only to be learn'd in Schools : Thou, no doubt, art vers'd in them ad Unguen, as the Laties phrafe it.

That which feems propereft for me to inform thee of is, That the Romax or Latin Tongue appears like an old antiquated Mother thruft out of Doors by her Four ungrateful Daughters, Italian, Frencb, Spanifh, and Portugueze. Thefe are ber natural Off fpring, begot during the Roman Conquetts in the Weft, and degenerating after that Empire was in its Decline. So that now they are taken for no better than Mongrels and Bafiards. In Spanifs there is a great Mixture of Gotbibs and Morefco Words; the French retain many of their old Gaulijh Idioms. The Italian is corrupted with a Hotch-potch of Words, left by the Vandals, Hins, and Longobards. Yet, that Fault is recompenced by Abundance of Greck Etymologies. As for the Portugweze, 'tis but a Dialect of Spanijh, and lies under the fame Imperfections.The only pure Maternal Languages now current among the common People in any Part of Europe, are the Teatonick, Sclavonick, and Britiß: The Firft is fpoken in Germany to Perfection, but corruptly in Suedeland, Denmark, and the United Provinces. The Second is common to the Hingarians, Moldavians, Poles, Rafcians, and many other Nations. The lalt is confined to the Welfb, a People inhabiting a Corner of Great Britain, driven thither by the Victorious Saxoms their Conquerors, above a Thourand Years ago. As for the reft, they are only mixd Dialects, and fo not worth taking Notice of; excepting one Mountainous Part of Spain, where the Inhabitants are faid to fpeak pure Arabick at this Day. They are fuppofed to be a Remnant of the Moors.

178 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

The Criticks here in the Weft, ufe to give thefe following Rules in Reference to Languages. If you would addrefs to GOD, fpeak in Greek or Latin, becaufe of their Anciquity, Purity, and Majeftick Loftinefs: If to Kings, fpeak in Spani/t, in Regard of its flow Pronunciation and Gravity: If to Men, ufe Italian ; to W'men, French; to Dogs, Welfs: But if you would affright an Encmy, or the Devil himfelf, fpeak Higb Dutcib.

They relate a Story of a German Ambaffador at the Frinch Court, who deliver'd his Meffage in Tewtonick; which when a certain Grandee heard, and took Notice of its harfh and ftrong Emphafis, he fwore 'twas his Opinion, That this was the Language wherein G O D curs'd Adam, Eve, and the Serpent. The Cerman turning to him, anfwered brikkly, "Tis poffible, Monfieur, it may be fo; but tber I bope you'll grant, tbat French was the Occafion of tbis Carrfe, swben the Devil chofe to tempt Eve in that Lamguage for its Effeminacy, qubeedling ber à-la-mode de Paris, to cat tbe forbidden Fruit.Renown'd Musw, do me the Honowr of frequent Letters: Inftruct me in Things whereof I'm ignorant: Make me familiar with the Remarkables of the Countries where thou refideft: Tranfport Fez, with the other Parts of Africk which are known to thee ; tranfport them, I fay, fucceffively to Paris, every Moon, on a Piece of Paper, and I will fend thee all Cbrifeendom by Way of Exchange: For thus it becomes the Lovers of Widdom, to barter for Knowledge.

Vol.VI. a Spyat Paris. 179

Paris, 10th of the 11th Moos, of the Year 1664.

LETTER XV.

To Ofman Adrooneth, Aftrologer totbe Sultan at Adrianople.

THOSE of thy Profeffiom here in the Wef, are wholly taken up in contemplating a certaiz Comet which appears in the Firmament. Tis of that Sort which they call Bearded. And fome will have it to refemble a Lion, others fay, 'tis like a Dragon, a Crocodile, a Bear, and I know not what. There is hardly a Species of Four-foowed Beafts, to which the giddy Rabble do not refemble it.

180 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

 And fome affert it to be the perfeet Figure of a Savord.The Matbematicians are ftraining all their Skill to take the true Dimenfions of this Callefial Apparition. The Painters are drawing it to the Life ; the Poets are making Songs and Ballads of it. And the more Learned Sages are framing Afronomical Scbemes, like fo many Gins or Traps te catch this Meteor in. They watch all its Motions, and dog it from one Heavenly Houfe to another; they track it through the moft intricate Parts of the Sky.

If it ftands ftill, or makes a tranfient Addrefs to any Plaret, eminent Star, or Confellation, we are prefently alarm'd with the News of it, and bid to be upoh our Guard, as if there were fome Mifchief a ploting againtt us Above. The World is harangu'd with fata Predictions of Wars, Famine, Earthquakes, and other Calamities, the fure Confequences of this fuppos'd Prodigy.

Tell me, Thou who art converfant in the Science of the Stars, and the Myfterious Pbilofopby of Nature, what thefe Comets are ? Whether they be only Exbalations drawn up into the Higber Region of the Air, by the Force of the $S_{u n}$; Or, whether they be more folid and durable Subftances ? Whether they be of a pofthumous Origin, like the Clouds, Hail, Rain, Snow, and other Matters, the daily Products of Nature, the Upitart Off fpring of the Elements? Or, whether they, are in the Rank of thofe Bcings, whofe Antiquity is untraceable, which are as old as World; fuch as the Swn, Moon, Stars, and this Earth whereon we tread :

For my Part, I believe, 'tis no Herefy in Science, whatever'tis in Religion, to ftart new Maxims. For ought we to know, both in the one and the other, what we call Innovation, is but a reviving thofe Principlet, which thro' Defuetude, or the Corruption of Times are grown obfolete, out of Date, and forgotten, tho' really the mot Primitive and Ancient Truths in the World.

Vol. VI. a Spy at Paris. 181

Thus I cannot forbear thinking there are fome other Globes fcatter'd up and down the infinite $E_{x}$ panfe, befides thofe whofe continual Brightnefs expoles them to our Eyes.

The Moon, tis known, with Venms, and other Planets, receive their Light gradoally from the Sum, by Hemifpheres: So that tis certain each of thefe Orbicular Bodies is always dark by half. And where is the Soleci/mm, if we fuppofe there are other opake Bodies in the Firmament which receive no Light at all, and by their Nature and Qualities, are incapable of receiving any but from within themfelves ? So we may fuppofe thefe Comats to be fuch folid Globes, made refplendent by an Eruption of their Central Fires.

God only knows the Truth in fuch Cafes. And thou art better able to decide thefe Queftions than I. Therefore referring it to thy fage Judgment, I pray him who made the Stars, and orders their Dominion on Earth, to blefs thee with favourable Infikences, That thy Soul may be always like a Land flourifhing ander the fweet A/peas of Orion and the Pleiades.

Paris, 22d of the 12 th Moon, of the Year 1664.

182 Levexe Writ by Vol.VI. LETTER XVI.

To Hamet, Reis Effendi, Principal Socretary to the Ottoman Empire.

$T 1$HE Frencb have had fo many Occafions of Joy of late, that 'tis hard to determine, which affects them moft nearly.

The Satisfaction which the Pope gave this Monarch, for the Injuries formerly done to his Ambaffador at Rome, began the Triumph of the French Court. I have already ient Intelligence of that Quarrel, and how high the Refentments of the King flew, on the fame Day that he receiv'd the firt News of fo barbarous an Affront. Now I thall acquaint thee, That there enfued a Treaty between them at Pija, a City of Italy, in the Dukedom of Iufcany, after the French Troops had terrified them into a State-Penitence, by the menacing Approaches they made toward the Ecclefiafical Territories, through the Principalities of Modena and Parma. Thefe Two are Friends to France, and their Intereft makes them f 0 , in regard that Crown protects them from the Pope's Oppreflion, who is always efteem'd an ill Neighbour by the Iealien Princes, whofe Dominions lie next to his. For this Roman Prelate is.very Potent and Rich; He would in a fhort Time be Lord of all Europe in Temporals as well as Spirituals, were he not curb'd by the King of France and his Allies.

This makes all the little Sovereigns round about Rome, ftand in Awe of the Monarch who was born to command Coorwned Heads. Wonder not at the Expreffic: : For I tell thee, fome of the greateft Princes in Europe are his Penfioners. This very Quarrel with the Pope, has gain'd the Frencb King

Three

Vol.VI. a Spyat Paris. 183

Three Gardithals more than were his Friends formierly.

The Conclufion of the Treaty was, That the Pope fhould fend a Lrgate de Latere into Fraste, to pacify the King's Wrath; and that the Militia of Roman Guatds, whom they call Sbirri and Corfes, fhould be for ever abolifh'd, and a Pyramid be ereeted over aguinft their Guard-houfe, with an Infeription in Latin' and Frencb, declaring their Crime and Punifhment.

This put the Court of France into a very jolly Humour. They fell prefently to Feafting and Revelling; and the King's next Project was the Conqueft of Barbary. To this End, He fent the Duke of Beaufort with a Fleet of great Ships, to clear the Seas of African Corfairs, that fo an Army might be fafely Tranfported from Toulow, and Landed on the oppofite Shore. His Defign in this was to reduce the In habitants of thofe happy Countries to the Old Liolatry of their Forfatbets, to plant there the Nazareme Saperfition, and make himfelf the foleLord and Proprietor of $A$ frick.

I cannot divine what Succefs he will have in this great Enterprize ; but it appears as if God were angiry with the Mogilmans ; fuch continual Lofles they fuftain by Land and Sea.

It is with no fmall Grief I faw not long ago, the Frencb who ferv'd in Hurgeaty lhis Campaign, teturn to Paris, laden with the Spoils of True Belinviers: I cannot behold the very Cymetars and Enfigns which thefe Infidels took from the vanquift'd Ofmans, hang up in their Temples, as Tropbies of their Viefory, without inexprellible Paffion and Regret. "Tis faid here, the Grand Signior has loft in Hmorgary above Thirty Thoufand Men this Campaign; whereof Ten Thoufand wete kill'd in one Battle, and a Handred and Fifty Cotours taken, with Sixteen Catinon.

184 Lexteas Writ by Vol. VI.

Befides, thefe Giafers grate my Ears with another Bravado, boalting, That One Frencb Ship of War fought Seven Hours with Tlaree and Thirty of the Grand Signior's Gallies, funk Five, fcatter'd the reft, and came off with a compleat Victory.
'Tis a vaft Advantage the French have in the Situation of their Country, in that it is walh'd on the Soutb by the Mediterramean, on the Nortb by the Main Sea: So that 'tis ealy for them to curb the greateft Part of Europe on one Side, and fufficiently moleft the Levantimes on the other. As for the Wef. ern Parts, this Kingdom is their very Center: Where all the Lines of War, Peace, Commerce, and Traffick meet and terminate. She is to Cbrifendom, what Egytt and Sicily were in former Ages to the Empire of Old Rome, an inexhauftible Granary. Whatfoever defirable Things Nature has frugally drop'd here and there in other Regions, are found in this Kingdom as in their Original Seminary. Corn is plentiful as Grafs, Wine is almoft as cheap here, as Water is with you in fome Parts of Turkey. The Fens and Lakes are cover'd with wild Fowl. The Meadows with ibeep, Deer, Geats, and Oxen. There's nothing fcarce but Hens, Eggs, and True Believers. I had almol forgot their remarkable Plenty of Salt, the bare Cuftom of which, augments the King's Coffers with Four Millions of Zequins every Year.

France alio abounds in Hemp, a mof neceffary Vegetable, whereof the not only makes all her own Cordage and Sails, but alfo furnifhes her Neighbours, which brings in a confiderable Revenue. There is an infinite Plenty of Fruits, and Trees for Timber, of Irom, Marble, Frec-fiome, and all Things neceflary for ouilding Sbips, or Houfes, for Defence or Offence by Land or Sea. Neither are there wanting Min.s of Gold, Silver, Tin, Lead, Copper, and other Metals. whereof Men make the Inftruments of War, and the Entertainments of Peace. In a Word, this Country

Vol. VI. a Spy at Paris. 185

 Country is fo enriched with every Thing, that fome Hittorians and Philofophers have calld it the Parent of Plenty, others the Foun tain of Earthly Blifs, the moit incomparable Region of this Globe, the Epitome of the World, or rather a little World itfelf.Serene Scribe, Thou wilt not wonder at the univerfal Succeffes of the French Arms, when Thou confiderett thefe Things, and that here the Provinces are peopled like Kingdoms, the Cities appear like whole Provinces, for Multitude of Iahabitants. To fay all in a Word, the common Character of France, is the fame which Philofophers give to Nature, That there can be no Vacuum found in it.

Paris, 25 th of the 12 th Moon, of the Tear 1664

LETTER XVII.

To Abdel Melec, Muli Omar, Prefident of tbe College of Sciences at Fez.

DErmit me to rufh into thy Prefence, Venerable Patron of Philofophy, without the ufual Forme To lifies of Addrefs, or Punail o's of Introduction. Let me be admitted like a Man with Coals of Fire on his Head, as the Cuftom is at the Imperial Pert, in urgent Cafes: For I am newly infan'd afrefh with Pythagto rifm, Platoni mm , and Isdianifm.

Floods, Fires, and other Devaftations by War, Famine, Peftilence, Earthquakes, and fuch like Contiugencies, have cither quite abolifh'd the True and Primitive Sciences of the Firt Ages, in mot Parte of the Earth; or at leaft, very much diminilh'd and obfcur'd their Original Splendor.

The beft Manufcripts are loft, unlefs the Imdians have preferv'd 'em. Our Fathers grew torpid, ftupified and defperate, ander the publick Calamitics which overwhelm'd whole Cities, Provinces, Kingdoms and Empires: There was no Encouragement for a Scribe, or a Man of Letters, to put himfelf to a needlefs Toil in labouring to preferve the Records which came from Heaven : Hitories of the World Invifible, Coeleftial, Perfea, and Eternal; Traditions of undifcoverable Antiquity; Pandias replenifin'd with bright Oriental Wifdom; and feal'd with the Tetragrammatom, which thou know't is the Signet of the Firft and tbe Laft? Even of the Divinity which comprehends all Things; and is itfelf comprehended of none.Had they gone about fuch a Tafk, they know that fome ill Fate or other would fwallow their Writings, and bury them in Eternal Oblivian. Hence it is, that at this Day we can hardly boaft of the Foottieps of antient Knowledge, a few Fragments and Relicks of Primitive Learning fcatterd up and down in divers Sutkors, and much adulterated with the vainOpinions and Errors of After-times. For every Writer was either inclin'd, ot forced, to flatter the Age wherein he liv'd, and not oppofe their Tenets. So that now there is fcarco any true Pbilofoply extant on this Side the Ganges.

286 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

How thofe Bracbmans only had the Happinefs to conferve fo facred a Treafure, can be no other Way made out, than by their own conftant Tradition, That the Deluge of Noab never reach'd thofe utmoft Borders of the Land toward the Eaff. And perhaps the fame Reafon may be given for the untraceable Cbronologies of the Cbinefe, their Neighbours. For tho' they differ in the Seatiments and Rites of their Religion, in their Laws, Cuftoms, and Manner of Government ; yet they both agree in affirming the World to be indeterminately Old, putting a certain Number of Millions of Years, for an uncertain, far beyond it; which is but a modef Retrenchment unwilling is fhould be falfely cenfur'd that they aim'd at an Hyperbele.They fay, That the Firf $f$ Matter is Co-Etermal wich GOD, as Light is Co.Eval with the Sums produced $a^{\prime} \quad 0$, and depending affer the fame Manner. For a the Ligbt diffufed through the Air, is not properly the Sum, but an infeparable Effeat of it; fo the Uniterfe is not G O D, but his Production, ever fubfitsing on him, and never to be divided from his Eternal Efince. And for aught Ifoe, the moft fignificantLanguage in the World, has no other Way to ex-: prefs Things of this abitrufe Nature. They are too Sublime for Human Thought; much more do they tranfcend the Power of Speech. All the Dialefts on Earth are too barren of Words, and Words too defective in Senfe, to defcribe the Ineffable Secrets of Eterwity.

Vol. VI. a Sevat PaRes.

As for the various Ranks of Beings, the infinite Diverity of Forms refulting from the Firf Mattern. they think it reafonatte to beliere, That they were fucceffively produced in Time; every one in its Order, and according to its Perfection.
I tell thee, It appeary much tiore rational for me to believe this, than that the Firf Matter iffelf was produced out of Nothing about Five or Six Thoufand Years ago, as the $\mathcal{F}$ ewos and Cbrifiates feem to teach. Rather than flarve my Reafon with fo fhort an Idea of the World's Age, I would embrace the Sentiments of Democritus and Epricuras, fuppofe an Infixity of Spaces and Worlds, an Erernity of Generations and Corruptions, a continnal Cbange not only of Individxals, but of the very Species of 'Things, thro' the fatal Concourfe and Blemding of Atoms: Yet, not denying the Unity of the Divine Efence, nor undervaluing his Providence all the whilo. For thefe Things are, in my Opinion, very compatible one wish another.

188 Letxers Writ by Vol.VI.

I do not pretend to be fingular, or fet up for a Dogmatif. Neither am I ambitious of being efteem'd a Wit, by venting Notions above the Reach of vulgar Capacities. Tis only the pare Love of Truch, which encourages me to take this Liberty with thee, who in Matters of Pbilofopby art the only Mafter of the Age.
To thee, therefore, I fubmit all my Sentiments, as to an Oracle; defiring thy impartial Anfwer, and couching the Faculties of my Soul, in the moit humble Attach to thy venerable Widdom, I become mute as a Mummy.

Paris, , oth of the 12 th Moen, of the Year 1664.

LETTER XVIII.

To Mirmadolin, Santone of the Falle of Sidon.

WHA'T is this Worid, that on all Sides in. vades our Senfes? This Barth under our Feet; thole Clouds whirling over our Heads; thefe Winds thaking the Trees ; that azure Sky, with all its glittering Ornaments? What's all this but an eternal Dream; a meer Shadow of GOD Almighty's Thoughts ? 'Tis pleafant living in it; 'cis alfo painful In his Senfe, this Univerfe is perfectly Good; in our's, 'tis mixd with Evil He made it for his own Diverfion, and our Scrutiny. 'Tis to us a Field of Riddles and Contradictions. In Summer we curfe the Heat, and in Winter blafpheme the Cold. Yet we blefs both the one and the other, when we feel 'em in due Meafure and Seafon. One Hour, this Colour pleafes the Eye, another that; and perhaps perhaps in the next, "is difgutted at chem both. We never find Reft or Content in any Thing. The foftel Mufick at fome Times grates our Ears, like the Croaking of Toads. The moft agrecable Odours, are as the Smell of a Sepulchre, loachfome and abominable. The moft delectable Wines and favoury Meats, at fuch Seafons, are unpalatable as the Boverage and Diet of Hell. Neither can the more infinuating Charms of Women, put us in a better Hu mour. All the whole Syitem of Nature joia'd together, is not fufficient to afford us Eafe. Nothing but a Ray from the Onnipotent can alleviate our Meiancholy, or give us a Tafte of ourfelves. For we are the very Deity featerd in Pragments; or we are feparated Drops of the Divine Efince; Volatile Spivits of Eternity; by Fate or Cbance, fix'd in proper Vehicles of Time and Matter. O Santone! This whole Corporcal Univerfe is but a Wib fpan from the Bowels of an Infinite G O D, and wrought with iaimitable Artifice to catch Immaterial Forms, Ideas, and Soels in, which are the genuine Off-spring of the Etcrual Mind. We Morcals of Human Race, are but fo many Parcels of the Divimity in Difguife, trepan'd iato Bedies, by certain hidden Baits, Magnets, and Charms, lurking in Embryo's, with which we have fome Sympathy. We are all Gods in Marquerade. So are the Bealts of the Field, the Birds of the Air, and the Fith of the Sea.Let us not therefore condemn the antique Ceremonies of Gentile Religion, which taught' Men to adore the Sum, Moon, and Stars, the Eliments, and all that is within their Circumference, efpecially the Souls of departed Herves, Domi-Gods, Nympbs, and the reft of thofe Beings, which are the Eldef Progeny of Eternal Nature. For in fo doing, they did bat build Alars to the Original Fountaia of the Univerfe. Since GOD is in the Winds, in the Rain, in the Thunder, Lightniajo Hail, and other Mefeors; in the Heavens and Air, Sun, Moon, and Stars ; in the Fire, Earth, and Water ; in Plants and Animals : finally, Since He is in the Elements, and every Thing compounded of them ; He is not only in them, but is thefe very Things by an ineffable Produdtion of Himfelf. And when the Final Confummation flall conie, it will be but a withdrawing all the extended Lines of his Infinity, into their Center, where Thou and I, and every divided Ahom in Nature fhall meet, be united and fwallow'd up in Eternal Beatitude. Amen ! Amen ! Oh Thou Lord and Father of all Things, inexhauftible Abyfs of Miracles which know no End.Paris, 6th of the ift Moos, of the Year 1665.

Vol:VI. a Spy at Paris. 189

190 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

LETTER XIX.

To tbe Jame.

$$$Uppofing it were otherwife than I have faid : Grant the Doatrine of Epicurus True. Believe that We, and all Things were produc'd by the Forfrifous Conccurfe of Atoms: Yet fill we have the fame, or greater Reafon to value ourfelves as diminutive Gods, fince in this Senfe we muft of Necefity be Eternal, every Atom being fo, of which we are compounded. In the Opinion of thefe Pbilojopbers, there's no luch Thing as an Origin or Beginning of the Uxiverfe: Each Particle of Matter with them, is as old as the Divinity. We bave all rang'd Etermally from one Form and World to another; danc'd to the Meafures of Fave, been Parts of the Orbs above ; and of the Oaverns below ; fray'd tirough she Heavens and all the Elements, taken an univer-

Vol. VI. a Spy at Parie. ign

fal Career, through Ingmite and Eedlefs Spact, and are now (as fixd as we feem in thefe folid Huiks of Flefh) in the fame Hurly-burly as ever.

Thele Bodies which we carry about us are not compounded of the fame Atoms as they were feven Years ago. There is a perpetual Flux and Reflux of Particles. We die as faft as we live. Every Moment fubftracts from our Duration on Earth, as much as it adds to it. We move, breathe, and do all Things by Paradox. Our very Eflence is a Riddle

With an open Heart therefore, I applaud thy Religious Negligence of Human Affairs, in that thou art divinely carelefs of thy felf, and every Thing elfe, fave only to conferve thy Innocence.

What fignifies it, Whether we believe the Written Law or the Alcoran; Whether we are Difciples of Mofes, Jefus, or Mabomet; Followers of Arifotle, Plato, Pytbagoiras, Epicurus, or Ilsb. Rend Hiw the Indian Bramin ? Or what Import is it, Whether we pray or not ? Whether we kneel before Images, or in a naked Mo/gue? 'Twill be all one in the winding up. We are but the Machines of Cbance. As we live, fo thall we die; and GOD knows what will become of us afterwards; neither is it worth our while to be follicitous, fince we can be certain of nothing. Perhaps, every Atom of which we are made, may be fcatterd from the reft; we may be sranfported piece-meal into Ten Hundred Thoufand Millions of Worlds; and feven-fold as many Years may expire, before Two the minuted Particles of our Frame, meet together again. We need not to be troubled at all this: Nothing can hinder us from being Immortal and Eternal, tho' it be but in Fragments.

Go on then, Sacred Vagabond, Pious Rambler, Moly Fugitive ; go on, to affert, in the Courfe of thy Life, this great Truth, Tbat all Tbings depend on reverlafing Cbance er Definy. Thy Attions thall reprove the Hypocrites of the Age, who abound in fpecious Words. And thy Divine Indifference fhall condemn the Hellifh Zeal of Furious Bigots, who think to pleafe GOD, and atone for their Sins, by Sacrificing Human Blood, and Mafficring all that are not of their Faith.GOD, or Cbance, or Fate, fhall tranfport thee after Death to Happy Regions. Immarceffible Joys, and an Endlefs Succefion of Blifs. Every Atom fhall find iss Paradife. Thou fhall mount by Degrees, to Full, Infinite and Eternal Felicity. Adien for a Time.

192 Letteas Writ by Vol.VI.

Paris, 2oth of tbe it Moon, of tbe Cear 1665.

LETTER XX.

To Ifouf, bis Coufin, a Mercbant af Aftracan.

WHEN I reflect on thy Happinefs, in having been all thy Life at Liberty to change thy Refidence, and ramble whitherfoever thy Fancy inwited thee ; and that even now at Affracam, Thou art no longer confin'd, than by thy own Pleafure or Iatereft: I cannot forbear envying thee.

There is an inexprefible Delight in ranging the various TraEss of the Eartb. Whereas to be perpetually fhut up and imprifoned, as I am, in a City, fo clofe and high-built, that the very Winds can fcarce find Way into her Interior Parts, is a perfect Hell upon Earth.

Vol. VI. a Spy at Paris. 193

To fpeak the Truth, Paris may be call'd a Heap, or Aggregate of Cities, built one upon another, like Perioz upon Offa, fince the Houfes here are as high as the Minarets at Confiantimople, and divided Ikie the Air, into the lower, middle, and ufper Regioms or Apartments ; or, rather like the Heavems, whofe Number Aftromemers affert to be Nine. For with fo many Stories do fome Houfes, nay, whole. Streets in Paris, lift up their Head a and every Story or Apartment is peopled like a Bec-Hive. So that in this infinite Throng of Inhabitants, and fuch as come hither about Bufinefs, we are realy to be ftifled with one another's Breath: Whereas thou knowelt, in the Cities all over the Eaf, the Houfes are intermix'd with Gardens : They are low built, with Terrafis on the Iop to take the cool Air on by Night, with Paiturres, K feangs, Divans, Confirvatories, and all the other conveniences for refrefhing the Senies, by Water, Wind, and Odorifcrous Smalls.

This makes me long to be at Confastimoplo, $D_{a}$ mafces, Moful, on even at Aftracar, where thou refidelt, though that City wants many Delights which others enjoy. However, I fhould there encounter with Tiara's and Turbands, the very Sight of which would half cure my Difcontent. May my Portion be with Tagot, if 1 am not tired with feeing Nothing but thefe Hats, and thort Coass, thele ridiculous Franks, thele Apes without Tails. And then to hear them rant againtt the Grand Signior, and all the Trac Believers; to hear them Blappheme the Meforger of God, Curfe the Alcoran, Revile the Mafti, and all the Mollab's, wids a Thoufand other Impertinencies, which none but fuch Riprobate, Giaurs, and Infidels, would be guilty of; make me either wifh myfelf Deaf, or that my Tongue were at Li berty to anfwer them. But, much rather would I defire to be in a Place where I might enjoy my Ears, to receive the Salem fiom my Friends, that are Muf$J$ Julmans, and to hear the Name of GOD devoutly Blefs'd, on any Occafion that awakens the Senfe to Piety.

194 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

Oh, that I were among my Countrymen, the Arabians, who dwell in Tents, and frolick about, from Hills to Valleys, tafting by Turns, the various Sweets of the Fereft, and the Plain. The Groves and Meadows, Paftures and Arable Grounds, Cities and Villages, all contribute to their Delights. They want no innocent Joy that the Earth can afford. Their Wealth confifts in the Multitude of their Sheep, Camels, Goats, and Oxen. And for them is a!l their Care, that they may not want Grafs, and Water, in due Seafon. As for themfelves, they àre refign'd to Providence.

So are the Tartars, who fleep in Hords, or Wag. gons, the only Cavaliers of Afia: whofe Life is a perpetual Campaign, from the Cradle to the Grave: Their Labour and Eafe, are deriv'd from the fame Fountain; exercifing themfelves on Horfeback, at Seven Years old; and feeding on the Milk of Mares, as foon as they are wean'd from their Mother's Breafts. Toil and Recreation, with them, are one and the fame Thing, fince they know no other Pleafure, but what conlifts in Riding, Fighting, and Conquering; or elfe in Death, which, they believe, tranflates them to new Joys, and thofe more poignant than they knew before. Therefore, they bravely court it at the Point of a Sword, or the Mouth of a Cannon : Nothing being more fcandalous, or hateful, than $x$ Coward among them.
I proteft, the very ldea of Palus Maetis, and Taurica Chirfonefus, with the reft of thofe borrible Fens and Marfics, on the North of the Black Sea, which encompafs the Dominions of the Tartars, affects me with a Palfion, or rather fuch a Medley of Paffons, as-I know not how to name. Thofe ample Defarts, thefe untrack'd Solitudes, appear to my Imagination, tike the Limits of this of habitable World; and the Frontiers of fome new, ftrange, afld anknown Regions; fome Tarma Incogrioa, Whpre an univerfal Diffolution and Silence keep their Seat for civer: Where no Voices are heard, but thofe of uncouth Satyrs, Faxns, and other expotick Temants of the Woods and Moors. No other Sound, but the Whitting and Roaring of the Winds. No Profpoft, but that of Trees, which have appear'd from the Infancy of Time; andwhere thole are wanting, the Eye is wearied in a long endlefs Wafte, which Nothing feems to boand, but the declining Arch of diflant Skies, or low, black melincholy Clouds, (kirted with Mifts and Fogs, eternal Mantles of the Nortbers Climes.This is the Figure of shofe folitary Tracks, where I would chufe to live, rather than in a City which fifles me with to much Plenty of every Thing, but freth Air, and honeft People IJouf, The Contrarieties which we find in Earthly Thinge, give a Guft to each other; and the mott magnificent Palace would feem a Prifon, were a Man al was confin d to live in it.

Vol.vi. Set at PaRzs. 295

Coufin, I wilh thee perpetual Liberty, and Happinefs.

Paris, fth of the 2d Meon, of the $Y_{\text {car }} 1665$.

196 Letteas Writ by Vol.VI.

LETTER XXI.

To Hamet, Reis Effendi, Princtipal Socretary of tbe Ottoman Empire.

AM ID S T the Variety of Obligations which I have to difcharce, I forget not to obey thy Commands. I have already, in my former $D_{i / p a t c h e s, ~}^{\text {p }}$ acquainted thee with the Characters, and fome remarkable Paffages of Hiary IV, Lequis XIII, Leweis XIV, Cardinal Ricblics, Cardinal Mazas ini, and the Prince of Conde. Now I will fay fomething of the famous Moref bal de Turenne, whofe Fame reaches wherefoever the Freach Wars have been talk'd of for there Forty Years. The Name of this Great Gencrulis, Henty de la Tour d'Auvergne, Son to the Duke of Bonillan.

When his Father was near his Death, he call'd for both his Sons, whereof this was the youngett. And among other Exhortations, he recommended, in a fpecial Manner, Three Things to their Practice: Never to renounce or change their Religion: Never to take up Aras againf their Soverriga: Nor to provoke the Firf Minifer.

As to the Firft, The Mar $\int$ chal de $T_{\text {urenne has hither- }}$ to kept it inviolably; but he has faulter'd in both the other, having Revolted from his Mafer's Service during his Minority, and Oppos'd the Intereft of (ardinal Mazarini, when the Parliament perfecuted that Minifer.

However, this hinders not but that he is a Great Soldier; and befides, he is fince reconcil'd to the King. He feems to be born for Martial Affairs. And they relate of him, That when he was but Ten Years Old, and his Governor mifling him, had fought up and dowa every where for him, he at length, found him afleep on a Cannom, which he feem'd to embrace, with his little Arms, as far as they would reach. And when he afk'd, Why be chofe fuch a Couch to lie on, he made Anfwer, Tbat be dofign'd to bave flept sbere all Nigbt, to convince bis Father. that be was bardy enougb to andergerbe Fatijues of War, tbo' the Old Duke bad often ferfuaded bim to tbe contrary. And to (peak the Truth, no Mas was more carelefs of his Body than this Frince.At Fourteen Years of Age, he was fent into Hol. Land, to lerve in the Army under the Prince of Orange, who was his Uncle. There he apply'd himelf to all the Difcipline of War, doing the Duty of a private Soldier: Which is the common Way that Cadets, or Younger Brothers, take Rife to the moit eminent Offices. He was equally forward in Labours and Perils, never Mhaning any Farigue or Hazard, which might bring him Glory; yet he was not rafh, the common Vice of Youth, but temperd all his Attions with an extraordinary Prudence, and Solidity of Judgment, beyond what was expeited from him at thefe Years. Yet, on the other Side, his Coanfels were not llow and flegmatick, being of a very ready Forecaft: and befeldom fail'd in his Contrivances. He was foon promoted to a Place of Command. And the Exaetnef's of nis Conduet rais'd him a vaft Reputation ; fo that, by Degreef, hee at laff arriv'd to chat Heighth of rower and Honour he now poffeffes. He appears indefa igable in his Body, and of an invincible Refolution. He hares Flatterers, that think to gain his Friend hip by praifing him. And is equally averfe from making Ule of fuch fawning Infinuations to others, tho the greatelt Princes of the Blood, or the Firft Minifter himfelf.

Vol.VI. a SPY at PARIs. 197

He has alfo a certain Stedfaltnefs of Spirit, which cannot be warp'd by any artificial Addreffes, though made to his own apparant Advantage, if they propofe to him any Thing that has the leatl. Semblance of what is Bare and Difhonourable. Thus he would never confent, That the Honour of taking Dunkirk fome Years ago, flould be afcribed to Cardinal Mazaerini, tho' that Minifer privately courted him to it, offering him the greateft Commands in the Kingdom, if he would do him that Service; and the Marn'cbal kpew it mighe prove his Ruin, if he did $n>t$. Yet fuch was his. Integrity and Love to the Truth, that by no Means would he be brought to condefcend to this Meannefs of Spirit; Jet perhaps, it might onIs proceed from the Averfion which in thofe Days he had for the Cardinal. Many Times it is evident, that a netural Pafion is made to pafs for a moral Vir: tue. Befides, perhaps he was unwilling to be depriv'd of the Glory due to him for shat important Service.

He is a dan of few Words, and fo focret in all his Counfels, that no Body knows any thing of his De. figns, till he puts chem in Execution. Every Man efteems him the moft liberal Prince of this Age, having not other Regard for Money, than as it ferves the Neceffities of his Family, and enables him to oblige his Friends.
In a Word, Whatever Vices he may have, he is yet endued with fo many good Qualities and Virtues, that he is beloved by all the Nations and in particular Favour with his Soverrign, who treats him, not as a Sutjcer, but as one of his moft intimate Fricads.

May God, who has rais'd up this great Genixs, to aggrandize the Frencb Menarchy, continually fupply the Grand Signier with valiant and expert Generals, that the Empire of the Failhful O/mans may increafe like the Moon, but never be in its Wane, till that Planet fhall no more appear in the Heavens, and the Faftening of the Elcments fiall be difiolv'd.

Vol: VI. a Spxat Pasisi 192

LETTER XXII.

To Orchan Cabet, Student in tbe Sciences, and Penffoner to the Grand Signior.

THE Frencb King has lately receiv'd a grofs Affront from the Poris. They have ofien in Sclavonick. been Satyrical upon his Loves, and now they b:gin to Burlefque upon his Money. A Day or two ago, as he was newly rifen out of his Bed, he found on a Table in his Chamber, a Paper containing thefe Verfes.

Tw es TJue de Race Auguite, Ton fient eft Henry le Grand: Et ton Pere Louis le Fiufte;

Thou know't where the Force of the Poet's W't lies, having travell'd in France, and learnt their Lamguage. The king fmild at the Reading of it, ard feem to be pleasd with the Franknefs of the futbor, faying, He was wordb a Tboufand Flatteress. He promifed likewife, to give him Five Hundred Lowis's for his Wit, if he would difcover himfelf, as alfo to pardon him on his Royal Word. But the Satyrif would not ven:ure himfelf, knowing, that Kings have more Ways than one to revicrige themfelves of private Perfons, their Subjeis. However, fince the King appear'd fo well pleas'd with this, he was refolv'd to give him another Touch of his Skill. And the very next Morning, in the fame Place, the-King found thefe Words :

$$
\begin{aligned}
& \text { Tu me le fcaura pas, Louis. } \\
& \text { Car jetois feul quand je le fis. } \\ & \mathrm{K}_{4}
\end{aligned}
$$

There

100 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

There have been many Conjectures made about the Ausbor of thefe Lampooms. Some fay one Thing, and fome another. And there are not wanting fuch as futten it on a Virgin of Collen, now refiding at the Court: Her Name is Anma Marie de Shurman. She is very learned, and fpeaks Aratick, Lativ, Turki/b, Greek, Italian, Froncb, and Spanißh, as fluently as her Native Diale氏. She is of a fine Wit, and piercing Judgment, in the Controverfies of Pbilofophy and Religion.

There are feveral Epifiles of Her's in Print, fome penn'd in Lativ, others in French, addrefs'd to the Queen-Motber, Cardinal Ricbliex, Cardinal Mazarimi, and others ; befides a Book of Poems, moft of them Satires. And 'tis this laft, gives the Worldfuch a Jealoufy of her writing the Lines which were found on the Kirg's I able. For the Criticks have compar'd them with her Scyle, and find a very near Refemblance between them.

But lex who will be the-Antbor, I think the French King is wrong'd, in the Character they give him. For tho ${ }^{\circ}$ he has heapd up great Quantites of Gold and Silver, to carry on his vat Defignt, yet he is no Mifer, being very very liberal to Perfons of Merit.

I fend thee this for thy Diverfion, and in Orier to our future Correfpondence. Take it for an Example, and be as familiar with me, remembring the Old Latin Proverb, Manus mannm fricat.

> Paris, sith of the 6th Meen, of ste Year 166 g.

Vol.VI. a Spy at PAExi. 201.

LETTER XXIII.

To tbe Captian Baffa.

MA Y thy Heart be chearful, and thy Voyage crown'd with Succefs, wherever thou failef, noble, old Tarpaslin, and Favourite of the God of the Sea. The Empire of the Ottomams has not had fo. brave a Commander of the Navy thefe Thirty Yeurs. GOD grant thee good Fortune againat the Infidils, whether on the Wbire, or Black Seas. Thou art already famous for thy Exploits on the latter, in above Twenty Engagements with the Cofacks, Circaffans: and the reft of thofe Thievith Ceuatries. But Nothing has rais'd thy Charaeter fo high as the laft Combat thou had& with Pacbicour, the renowned Pyrare of thofe Parts, who threatened not only his Cbrifitan Neighbours, but alfo the Oisoman Empine, with infi : nite Ravages.

But thou haft ftem'd the Tide of Glory, humbled the Maritime People, his Confoderates, and by chat Means, made thyifelf a Way into the Archpelago and Mediterrancan, where thou ridelt, as anocher Neptune, King of the Waters.

Take not this for Flattery; for I tell thee, I have not faid fo much to a Baffa of the Sea, thefe feven and twenty Years. Neither indeed had I any Reafon. He that merited the moft Applaufe, in all that Time,' was the brave Zornefan Mufiapber. And I addrefs'd no more to him than his Due. Fortune did not favour him, orelfe he had done great Things. As for the reft, they were generally Men never bred to Sea-Affairs, but Minions of the Court, or Bullies of the City, who were better at making a Noife, than at any Action of Hazard or Importance. And there were fome bold Renegadoes, but they play'd $\mathrm{K}_{5}$

20a: Lemveris Writ by Voli/VS:

faft and loofe, and no Body knew where to have them.

Treachery infects the whole World; but in thefe Wfern Parts, ic reigns in its. Center. Here's nothing but Undermining and Amburfles: One State trepanning another out of their Guards, and then they play their own Game.
If would be endlefs to acquaint thee with the Driginal of the Quarrel between the Englibl and the Ddtch Let it be enough for thee to know, shat thefe People are at Odds now : And, in segand the Strength of bech Natioms lies in their Shipping, they are prepuring to cover the Nortberm Seas with Navies; but the glander, aill get the beft on't They claim the Scerreigwly of thofe Seas, and in my Opinion, they deferve it: I freak accord ing to my Intelligence; being after'd, that no Nation ever prevail'd againf: 'em on that Blemient.
They have had a terrible Fight this Summer, wherein the Durch loft feventeen Ships of War, befides Vefiels of Imaller Note. The Commander of the. Engtibu Fher is cally the Duke of Tork, a great General, and Bopther co the EnglifßKing. His Name was' famous in France and Flandereduring the Spanibs War. And thio the Land afforded him no farther Occafions of Glory, yet he has found fome in the sca. Opdam, the greateft Admiral that ever the Dutch could boaft of, fell 2 Sacrifice to his Grwius.
f ami the more particular in the Relation, becaufe it is fit shou Thould at know the Character of all the brave Freroes living.
Since this Fight, the King of Framce has fent an Umbbiflador to the Englifh: Cpurt, to mediate a Praces What Ifve his Negociation will have, is of no great Import to us, who ferve the Grand Signior, Sole Lord of the Fear Seas: But 1 will sell thee Something, which it concerns thee to know.

Vol. VI. a Spy at Paris. 203

The King of France is goirg to cut a Canal thro. Part of his Kingdon, by which the Mediterranean may be Joinct to thie Main Sik. TThis is a vaft Dez Gign, and moch difcourfed of in Exrope, being a Paralel to what has been formerly attempted by fome Kings of Egypt, and Emperors of Rome, to join the Mediterramean and Red See together, for the Sake of an eafier Traffick to the Eaff Indies.
Thou oughteft alfo, to be informed of the Duke of Beaufori's Exploits on the Coaft of Barbury. He If Commander of the Frencb Navy in thofe Seas, and has done great Injury tg the People of Algier, Sarcelle, Bougie, and other Ports.

Tho' thefe Rebele are defervedly punith'd, for deferting tha Protection of the Higb Porte, yet let us remember, That the Algerines are Muyfulmans, and therefore, ought not to be Abandon'd to the Malice of Infiaels.

Migbty Bafla, Sail thou in the Strength of COD, againt the Enemies of the Ottoman Empirc. And, when thou haft $\mathrm{h}^{2}$ ilg'd thy Voyage here below, may a Wind of Mercy waft thee o'er the Waters which are above the Firmament, and land thee fafe in one of the Ports of Pariadifes: … T. I. I Paris, 3d of the gth Moor. of tbe Meatr r665?

The End of the. Third Boox.

K 6
LETTER

 LETTERS Writ by   A Spy at Paris.   A Spy at Paris.     BOOK III.

   BOOK III.}

LETTERI.
To Achmet Beig.

THIS Court has put on the Exterior Semblance of Mowining, whilt they inwardly rejoice at the Death of Pbilip IV. King of Spain. Ho deceas'd on the $17^{\text {th }}$ of the 9 ith Moon. 'Tis poffible their Grief is more real for the Death of the Duke of Vendofine, a Prince of Reyal Extracion, and whilft Living, not far from a Poffibility of Inheriting the Crown of France. But now he is gone to the Grave, the general Receptacle of all Mortals, and which makes 230 Diftinction between the Neble and the Vulgar.

There

Vol. VI. a Spyat Panis. 20 S

There have been Abundance of Ceremonies perform'd, on the Part of the King, the Daxpbin, the Duke of Orleam, the Duke of Velois, and ocher Princes of the Blood, for the Health of the Departed Soul: For the Nazarenes, to give them their Due, fall not thort of the True Faithful, Believing the Refurreaion and Immortality to come. They confign the Bodies of the Dead to their Sepulchres, with Solemn Rites of Religion, perfuming them with Incenfe, and fprinkling them with Holy Weter; rehearing alfo, certain Sacred Hymns and Prayers appointed for that Purpofe. Neither do they negleat to Faft, and give Alms, to perform any fious Office, which is practifed by the Muywlmans, for their Friends who are gone to the Invifible State. They agree with us in Abundance of good Things, and, if they mix fome Superftition and Errors, let us pity their Weaknefs, and praife GOD, who guides us into the right Way, and fuffers us not to be feduced into the Way of Infidels. He is the Mercifint of the Merciful, the Joy of the Elea, and the Hope of all Nations. Should he punih Men according to their hourly Demerits, the Earth would foon be depopulated, and void of any other Inhabitants, fave the Beafis. But heknows our Mold, and remembers that we are no more, than mere Froth, or Spume of the Elements, and that in a very little Time, by the Courfe of Nature, we thall vanih like Bubbles, which yield to every Blaff of Wind. Therefore he Spares us, and connives at our Infirmities, becaufe he is the Lover of Souls.

I fpeak this, as an Incentive to Charity among our felves, and to our our Fellow-Martals. It feems to me unreafonable, that we flould purfue, with inexorable Hatred, all the Followers of 7 fefus. He was a Holy Propbet, humble, mild, chate, and harmlefs He did many Good Works himfelf, and commanded his Difciples to imitate his Example. He rebuk'd thofe among them, that would have call'd down Fire from Heaven to confunce his Enemies: Enjoining them to return Bleffings for Courfes, Prayers for Blasphemies, and Good for Evil. There are thole among them, who obey'd his Precepts: As for the Wicked, I am not their Advocate. If the greateft Part of the Cbrifiags live contrary to the Law of the Mefices, let us confider alfo, How many Hypocrites, Libertines, Hereticks, and Atheifts, there are' among thofe, who profele the Mufulinan Faith. Doubtiefs, There are Good and Bad of all Religions. And tis impofible to find an Affembly of Jut Men, without a Mixture of Sinners.As for our Differences with the People of $\mathcal{F}$ fus, in Matter of मेor $\beta_{i j} p$, it ought not to make us forget that weare Men, compounded of the fame Fleth and Blood as they. And for aught we know, GOD, who made all the Nations of the Earth, may accept of their various Rites anc Ceremonies, in paying him Sivine Adoration.

We that are the Pofterity of-I/mael, and worthip the Eicenal after the Manner of our Fathers, who followed the Pattern of Lbrabim the Beloved of God, cannot deny, but that the Law of Mojes was of Divine Original: And yet it contains Precepts and Injunctions, to wbich we are wholly Strangers in our Practice; tho the Jews, who áre the Defcendants of Ferib, obey them to this Day.

So we believe what the Alceran fays of the Mefras, That He is the Breath and Word of GOD; that He heald Difeales, rais'd the Dead, wirought many other Miracles, and preach'd the TJue Heavenly Dotrine. Yet there's Abundance of Difference betwien the Ceremonies, which the very Apofles ufed in the Service of GON and the Worfip ettablitid by Dicuomet, our Holy Law-giver. But he tells us That they who live up to the Law of $\mathrm{J}_{\mathrm{L}} \mathrm{Ks}$, flall go to Paradifo, as well as the Mufulmans.

Vol.dI. d Spix at Pasts. 209

The greatef Scandal which the Cbrifians give us, is, their fetiing upiPiguresand Images in their $\mathrm{Tum}_{\mathrm{cm}}$ ples, and the Reverence thy pay to thofe Infenfible Dieces of Human Art. And yet for aught medinow, the may be excufeable before GOD; fince they profefs openly, in the Publick Docrees of their Cqutsils. That the Veneration and Honour they pay to the Eigares of Saimes and Angelv, is only Relative; thelr Devecies, at the fame Time, refting not on this Side the Prototyper.

If this be true, I fee no more Hurt in their Worthip of Images, than in Bowing and Proftrating before the Aloprast, which is but another Sort of Imagery, reprefending the Divise Will.
Laa:Word, If the Hieneglypbicks of the Ancient Egyprians are allow'd to be lawful Letters, and Iniftruments, to exprefs the inward Copceptions of the Mind.: In my Opinion, the Paiating and Seulpture, swhich we fee in the Cburcbes of the Cbriftians, ought not to be Condemn'd, as an eafier Way to convey the. Higlory of 7 fous, and the reft of the Rrapocts and Seints, to she Wulgar, who are generally ignorant of Letcers. Unlefs we Mhall fay, That the Som of Maty is was an ILdol, and the Propbets and Saints were Devilh, -which GOD avert from the Mouth of a F ze-Believer.

2- Paris, 13 th of the inth Moom, - of the Year 1665.

208 Levteas Writ by Vol.VI.

LETTER II.

To William Vofpel, a Reclufe of Auftria.

THY Di/patcb came to my Hands in a good Hour. I perus'd with Reverence the Paternal Intructions it contain'd ; the Grave, and Judicious Apothegms; the Sacred Rules and Inftructions of a Regular and Spiritual Life ; the Morals more refin'd than thofe of Pindar, Epiltetess, Seneca, or Cato. But pardon me if I relifh not fo well the Panegyrick on fome of the newly Canoniz'd Saints; from which you take Occafion to extol the Pope's Infalibility ${ }_{2}$ and to exclude from Salvation, all that are not within the Pale of the Reman Cburch.

I am a Cbriftian and Casbolick as well as you. I Honour the Apofiles and Martyrs, with all the Primitive Saints, Confefor, and Holy Dociors of the Chwreb. But I can never be perfuaded, that a Man for being a Murderer, Traytor, an Inventer of cruel Devices, or a Learned Sycophant, can merit Heaver, tho' he may be rank'd in the Red Lines of the Cadendar. Much lefs can I believe, that all Men thall be damn'd, who are not in Communion wi:h the BiBop of Rome. Certainly the Catbolick or Univirfal Cburch, is not Mhut up within the narrow Confines of the the Thatter'd Ronman Empire. Confider Greece, Armenia, Egypt, Muscouy, Etbiopia, and all the fpacious Territories of Ewrope, and the Eaft. How many Millions daily fay their Pater- Nefer, and pray in Jfew's Name, yet never paid Obedience to any but their own Patriarclos and Biboops? Were not al the Apofiles equally in Commiftron? Were not the Cburcbes they Founded and Eftablifhed, equally Holy and Orthociox ? Where then commenc'd the mighty Scbifm, but in the morofe Pride of Viazor, who (for the Sake of Pajchal Nicctics) affronted all the

Vol. VI. a Spy at PARis. 209

Charcbes in the World, and was for that Reafon feverely reprov'd by a Frencb Bißhop of his own Obedience ; befides the Reprimands of Polycarp, and other

- Prelates of the Eaft P What not St. Fobn the Beo loved, that tefted his Head with Divine Heneur on the Breaft of Cbrift, as privy to the Laves of his Mafter, as Preer, Paul, or any o her Abortive Apofle? Remember the firf General Council at Jerufal:m, where James the Brother of our Lord fate Prefident, decreeing Aófinences, exactly oppofite to the prefent Roman Faich and Practife. And believe at the fame Time, that 'twas Imperial Vanity and Pride which firlt begot the fatal Separation. Hercfy was but the Battard of the Apofot ok Camons, cherith'd and too inuch countenanc'd by Conflantine and his Succeffors, till the fatal Time of Pbocas, whofe untimely Dearh made all Things ready for the Intended Ufurpation. Ou Guicciardine / How truely haft thou writ the State of Modern Rome! Worthy as Horace, of exernal Honour. Thy faithful Prole equals his courtly Verfe, and merits new Augufiw's to Patronize it.

Believe me, Father Willium, I have no Spite or Enmity againt the Roman High Prieft I reverence him equally with his Bretheru, the Patriarchs of Conflantinople, Fernfalem, Alexamdria, and Antioch. I would go beyond this, for the Sake of Conformity to ancient Cuftoms, and in Obedience to the relebrated Canncil of Nice: I would willingly acknowledge him the Primate of the World. Let hisn have the Firf Place in G O D's Name, among the Patriarchs of the Univerfal Cburch. But let him not ride on the Necks of his Equals. Let him not pretend a Power to cancel the Apofolick Camens; tresverfe the Traditions of the Fatbers, repeal the Decrees of General Conncils, difpenfe with the Laws of Na. ture, Grace, Reafon, Morality, and the very InftituLions of his Predeceffors, Men, without Queftion,

2fa Letters. Writ by Vol.VI,

as infallible as he. This is not the Way to make Profelytes to the Romon Faith, uulefs it be of Fools and Knaves: The World has receiv'd New Lights, Father William, and Men, begin to hifs Religious Bantering off the Stage. Nay, even they who are moft guilty of it, I mean the Roman Courtiers, Cardinals, and Pricits, cannot forbear laughing at the Folly, and credulous Eafinefs of thofe, to whom they impofe their pious Fravds. The bigotted Laity are by them effeem'd no better than filly Affes, tamely couching under the Burthens of their Ecclefrafical Lords and Drivirs.

Therefore, 'Tis Time for thee to open thy Eyes, lift up thy Head, and lay afide Monafick Simplicity: I do not counfel thee to curn Liebrtines or imitate the lealian Gallantry, which bas taught the Priefts, inftead of Sacred Continence, to qquint 2 Benedietion on fome charming Lady, from the AItar, in the Name of Dominus Vobicam, or Surfum Corda; even whiltt they are preparing for Divine Revels, to Ranquet on the Flefh and Blood of GOD. Oh ! monftrous Perfidy, and execrable Profanenefs? Nor, if thou art Afronted and Revengeful, would I advice thee to time the Execution of thy Wrath like the Sicilian Vefpers, and make the Bells become the Signals of thy Cruelty, which ought, and were Defign'd, and Confecrated, on purpole, to drill op harmlers Souls to Church, with their dull, Aleepy, jangling Chimes; and with their more triumphant, lofty Mufick, on the Fefinvals of the Saints, to make deyouter Chrifiams dream they're gging to Heaven, infead of a Ma facre. I would not paye thee hope to merit Paredife, by fending thithcr, in Obedience to the Pope, or General of thy Order, the Majeftick Souls of Kings, or Emperers, in Vehides of Sacred Poifon, or envenom'd Eucbarifs. Believe that thole Prelates, Priefts, or Monks, who are thus divinely prophane, and mercifully cruel, hall become Mitred, Vefted, Cowied Morfiers, in the fierceet and moft violently glowing Dens of $\mathrm{Hell}_{3}$ there with the moit exalted Arfemicks; Mercurtes, and whatfoever gives the bigheft Pains, to languim, pine, and rack away, Tea Thourand, Thoufand, Thoufand Ages in Penances of llow Effect, which expiate, but very late, the crying Sins of Guilty Murdirers, and Bloody Hypocrites.

Yet fuch as thefe, fince Modern Times, are the only Man thought worthy to be Canoniz' 4 for Saints 3 which made a certain honeft Cardinal cry out, in the Prelence of the Pope, Thefe Now Saints force me to doubt ibe Old Omes.

Father William, The fame Thought begins and ends my Letter. Your's was upon the Stretch, Extolling far too high, the Largneds of the Roman Church. the Infallible Pewerr of Popes, the Mirachis of thele Niwu Saints. And I, for my Part, am a Man abhorring Bigotry. I cannot believe Things contrary to my Reafon. I wifh the Differences of Mankind, in Point of Religiom, were rationally compofed, and that the Good of all Sects, Factions, Parcies, Churches, and Communions, were united in this Life, as they furely will be in the next.

In the mean Time, To the Father without Beginsing; to the Son without a Yaung er Brotber; to the Holy Gbef, the Firf and the Laf: to the Virgin Ma5y, the Motber of the Entire Deity, I recommend thee, and all good Cbrifiams; hoping to fee you in Heaven, tho' we cannot, it feems, think alike on Earch.

Paris, in of the 12 th Moan, of the Kear 1665.

LETTER

212 Lextexs Writ by Vol.VI.

LETTER III.

To Nathan Ben Saddi, a Jew, at Vienna.

ACcording to thy Defire, I have procur'd, and fent thee the Alcoran, and other Writings of our Holy Dociers ; Books, which will conduet thee in. to the Right Way. Thou wilt find in thefe Volumes, a Spirit of Life and Power. There breathes in them, a certain, vital Principle of Reafon; fo that, whofoever will read them attentively, may feel ifI may fo (peak) the very Pulfe of Incellectual Wifdom, beating in every Sentence.

There is a vaft Difference between there Writings, full of Arguments clear and intelligible, and the Whimfies of thy Rabbr's, who abound in Sacred Fables, and Divime Romances.

Who can perufe your Cele brated Mifmab without Difdain? Or, Look into your more Applauded Tal. mud, and not feel Himfelf touch'd with Horror, at the Monftrous Blafphemies, and Riviculous Forgeries therein contain'd? Dof thou not laugh at the Story of G O D's pickling up the Leviatban, till the Days of the Me (J)..b; and, that other of the Bull, which daily devours the Fodder of a Thoufand Mountains ? Or, Wilt thou thew me the Neft of that Bird, from whence, the Talmad fays, An Egg, falling on the Earth, threw down Three Thoufand tall Cedary with it's Weight ; and at length treaking, overflow'd Sixty Viliages with the Liquid Subltance incluced in the Shell ?

Such as thefe muft needs be fit Themes for the Contemplations of the Omnipotent! And yet your Rabbi's teach, That G OD ftudies nine Hours in the Lay in the Talmad. Canany Man of common Piety hear thefe Blafphemies and not tremble? What Affronts are thefe to Human Senfe, What Impofitions on the Reafon of the Credulous Jows? Does the noft perfect of all Beings acquire Knowledge by Degrees, or is the Eternal Intellea improv'd by Reading of Books? Or, if it was fo, Would he not make a better Choice, than of a Volume, which in the Incredible Stories it relates, exceeds all the Figments of Poets.

Vol. VI. a Spy at Pasis.

Tell me, Natban, Cantt thou fwallow that loud Lye of the Talmud, which tells thee, That there was a Lyon, who when he Roar'd at the Diftance of Four Hundred Miles from Reme, all the Women that were with Child in that City, being affrighted at the Noife, Mifcarried, and the Walls of Rome fell down ? And when he drew nearer by an Hundred Miles, he fet up his Throat again, which made fo terrible a Sound that all the Romams Teeth fell out of their Heads, and the Emperor himfelf felt fuch Convulfions, as had well nigh coft him his Life.

Surely, the Croww, which the Talmad Speaks of, in another Place, was but a Puny to this monftrous Lion; and yet it feems, that Crow fwallow'd a Serperrt that had eaten a Frog, as big as a Village of Threefcore Houfes, and when he had done, flew into the next Tree. I fuppofe, that was the Tree which grew in Paradife, and was Five Hundred Miles high according to the Talmud. Have I not Reafon for this Raillery, when one of our Rabbis folemnly fwears, He was an Eye-wiruefs of thefe Things ? Who can forbear to ridicule the Bigotry of thofe, who give up their Faith to fuch Delufions?

Thou wilt meet with more rational Entertainment in the Books of the Mufulman DoCiers, more efpecially in that Tranfcript thou haft of the Vofume firtt dietated in Heaven. That confirms the True Law of Mofes, but damns the Impoftures of the Talmad, attributing the Invention of fuch Errors to the Devil.But thon wilt ank me, perhaps, What I mean by. the True Laiv of Myfes; thall 1 tell thee the Opinion of one of thy own Nation, a Helrew of the Hebriaus, as he pretends, and, for aught I know, of the fame Tribe with thy felf: For I am a Stranger to the Genealogics of you both.

214 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

Some Years ago, here was in this City a Man, who, if we may believe him, bas been in all the Cities of the World. The Frencb call him, Tbe Wandering Firo; and he confirm'd that Title, by the Profef. fion he made of his Birth, Defcent, and univerfal Travels. No doubt but thou haft heard of this Man, or at leaft of fuch a Character, and therefore Ineed not repeat what he faid of himfelf, and what the Generality of Mankind believe of him. Suffice it to tell thee, That I was once in his Company Half a Day together; when among other Dilcourfes, he told me, That the True Law of Mofes has heen loft for above thefe Two Thouland Years, except in the Norrh Parts of Afra, where there are an infinite Number of Hebrews, but far different in their Religion, from all the fews in the reft of the World. He fays, The Country where they inhabit, is environ'd round with high and inaccefible Mountains. I afk'd him the exact Geegraphical Situation of this Country, but receiv'd no other Anfwer, than that it lay beyond the River Sabbation. Then I remember'd what 1 had read in Efdras, a Scribe of thy Nation, concerning the Tranfmigration of the Ten Tribes, who were carried away Captives by the ADyrians: How they pafied through a certain River on dry Ground, the Waters being divided to the Right-Hand, and to the Left. and that after the fame Manner they fhould return again, in the latter Days; but that in the mean Time, the Region where they live, was pidden from all other Mortals.

Vol.VI. a Spy at PARis. 215 Comparing this Paffige with what 1 had heard from the Wandering yew, I became almot perfuaded that the People and Country of which he fpake, were the very fame mention'd by E/dras. GOD only cah difcern the Truth from Error, in Hiforias of fo remote' and ancient a Subject.

As to their Religion, I was going to give thet an Account of what he faid concerning it,' but ait interrupted by Company. Wherefore 1 am forced to break off abruptly. Expect a full Relation in my next. $I$ am in Haffe.

Paris, $4^{\text {th }}$ of the It Moom

LETTER IV.

To tbe fame.

$T$HE Interruption which made me fo fuddenly conclude my other Letter, lafted not long; fo that I have Time enough to perform my Promife, by the fame.

I was about to relate, what the Wandering Fode told me, of the Religion of thofe remote Hebrews in Afia, which take as follows:

He fays, They are a Nation of Pbilofopbers, bound by theirs Laws to ftudy the Liberal Arts and Sciences. They have none but Iron Money current anomg them; the Ufe of Gold and Silver Coins being exprefsly forbidden by their Laws, to prevent the Temptation of Avarice and Tbift: For, Who would fteal, or covet a Metal, which for it's Bulk, was not caly to be hid, nor for it's Beauty very defirable, being every where common in the Veins of the Earth, and ferv'd only as a Method of Barter and Commerce among themfelves; where the Inequa ity, equality of Merchandizes entangled their Traffick, and would not admit of a ready Exchange.This took from them the Occafion of many unneceffary Arts, at Home, and they had no Temptations to travel Abroad; the chief Defign of their Law. giver being to oblige them to fpend moft of their Time in Religious and Pbilofophical Exercifer, and the reft in preparing Neceflaries for Human Suftenance. They bad no Need to buy any Thing, of Foreign Coxntries, or to build Ships for that End, who were bound to live content with the natural Product of their own fertile Cowntry: For Luxury has not as yet fet Footing in that happy Regicn, if we may believe this Traveller. He fays, They feed a'toge her on the Fruits of the Earth, not admitting any Art or Employment which tends to Super: fluity, but only fuch as deferve the necefiary Uies of Life, wherein they flhew an admirable Dexterity and Skill.

216 Lexters Writ by Vol.VI.

When they travel from one Town to another, which is very frequent, they never carry any Thing to defray their Charge, by the Way, or when they arrive at their Journey's End. All Entertainment of this Nature being free and reciprocal. Such is the Caftom of the Country.

They have no Laqugrrs among them, but if any Contention arife, 'tis prefently determined by the Arbitration of the next Neighbour, to whofe Sentence all fubmit: Every Man being willing to lofe fomething of his Right, rather than difturb the publick Amity and Peace.

As to the Manner of their Worboip, they are ftrict Obfervers of Purity in Wahing, Anointing, and Shaving their Bodies.

They have Temples alfo, where they affemble every Seventh Day; and having offer'd up the FirftFruits of the Earth, they fit down in the Ceurts, and Banquet together with Joy, whillt the Priefls entertain them with excellent Mufick anid Soags in praife of GOD and his Warks. To this End the Courts of their Temples are made very large, that they may contain fo many difina Familict : and flately Pavilions are fe: op, adora'd with the Boughe of green Trees, with all Mauner of Flowers carclefly intermix'd. But amidf all their Feafting they are not permitted to tafte of Fleh: They eat only the Fruits of the Earch, with Mi.k, Honey, and Oil. And their common Drink is Water and Wine.

Vol.VI. APM at Raxisid ang

At the Age of ixtien Years, every Man is bound to take the following Oath.

1
Swear that I will ancre but One GOD, who brought our Eatbers out of Egypt, aud bas conduace us by a myfterious Petb to this Land of Promife. I will religiungly forve bim all my Life, for that be bas suschfafid so plant me in the Fawily of his Elad, and not in citber of the Two Tribes whbo surne lefit bebind in the Land of Delafiohs. I wwill do juily to all Mer, mither will voluntarily burt or kill any living Craetance, walefs it be in my own Defence, I will not tafic of the Fiefb of any Snimal, bat in ell Things obloreve the Abfinence commanded by Allah te Moies en the Mount. I will religionfly aboy my Prince, to nyy left Breatb, and rather be torn to Picees by wulid Beaffo, then betray bim, or confent to betray binm to asopber: For be is the Vice-Ray of GOD. I will newer cemceal my Knowledge of ary Confpiracy againg bim, in my Country, meitber will I difcever bis Secrets to amy, if it Bould ever be my Honour to know them. I will ab. ferve the Treditions of my Fatbers, and teach the fame and mo arber to my Poflerity. In fine, I will inall $T$ pings abey the Laws of this facred Kingdom, this Regien of. Pcace, this Garden of Blijs. All tbis I Jolemnly fwear by the Firft Father of Ligbt, and by Notbing, the profound Womb' Darknefs, and by Silesce the Companion of that Deach wibich wo created Being sam fatbom; which is the fame as if I Bould wifß myfelf ammibilamd, if: I violate this Oatb in tbe leafl Poinf.

218 Letrers Writ by VoliVI.

Thele are all the Terms of the Oath, that I can diftindtly remember, which I bere infert, to thew thee what Opinion thefe People have of the Law which was given to Mofes on the Mount, and they they reject the Two Iribes that were left in Palefine, and efteem'd of that Country but as the Land of De. lufion, as counting their own Country the Region of Promifer, and themfelves the Elea of G O D.

One would think, that thefe were the Pofferity of the Ten Tribe that were carried away Captices by -Salmanajar King of ASyria. And this was alfo the Opinion of that Waderer, who told me, that both their Pentafeurch was different from yours, and the Langange whereis in it is written. For he faid, It was rather a Dialect of Arabick, in which Language thou know'it GOD wrote the $T_{f n}$ Commandments on the Two Tables: Among which, one is, Tbou foa't not kill. This Prohibition, they fay, extends to all Living Creaturas, tho your Doctors interpret is as only reaching to Men, and fo do the Cbrifiazs. But the Mufiutmams interpret it thus, Tbow foalt meitber kill Man nor Beafl wwitbout Reafon. By which Claufe, the Beafts are privileg'd from the wanton Cruelty of Men, who otherwife would murther them only to make Sport ; yet wicked Men are not exempted from a violent Death, as a Punifiment of their Crimes.

This Travel'er faysalio, That the Pcople of that Country are fo Healthy, that they generally live till they are a Hundred and Twenty Years old, which is almoft twice the Age of other Mortals. This he afcribes to their exquifite Temperance and Moderation in all Things, as alfo to the Drynefs of the Soil, and to the Force of certain Winds, which continually fweop the Air of this delects.

Wol.VI. © Spy at Paris. 219

 deletable Region, and purge it of all hurtful Qaalities.If it ever be thy Fortune to fee this Parron, He will acquaint thee with a great many more delightful Paflages, which it would be too tedious for me to infert in a Letter; befides, my Memory is treacherous, and I often forget thofe Things at one Time, which I remember at another: But if thou art follicitous to hear more, I will-oblige thee with all that I can call to mind of this Traweller, in another Letter.

In the mean Time, make a right Ufe of thefe Hints, and weigh one Thing with another, examine all Things wiryout Prejudice or Partiality. 'Truft no Man's Reafo but thy own in Matters-of a difpucable Nature, fince thou halt as much Right to decide the Controverfy as any Man. And thus thou wilt never become a Braukrupt in Religien.

Paris, th of the ift Meon, of she Year 1666.

LETTER V.

To Mohammed Hadgi, Dervich, Eremit of Mount Uricl in Arabia, the Happy.

$A$S I think, This is the Laft of my Hours in this World, and the Firt of a New Life, whith I Shall commence in Immortality: I perccive, That the fatal Period, the Moment of Tranfmigration, fet by Dofiny, is approaching. The Crafis of my Blood is diffolving apace; my Spirit haftens to get lodfe from thefe mortal Chains : I feel my Soul trying and Atretching her Wings, preparing to take her evernal Fight to the Region affign'd her by GOD and Nature.

220 Letters Writ by Vol. WI.

I have not Prefumption enough to hope for Paradife, nor am I fo abandon'd to Defpair, as to condlude I Aall go to Hell. I rarher believe, Aaraf, or the Place of Prifons, will be my Portion; in regrard I fear the Evils which I have been guilty of are not over-balanc'd by my good Action, Tis well if Virtue has counterpoiz'd Vice in the Courfe of this mortal Life. However, I am refign'd, and commit miy felf to the Indelgent Creater of all Taingt, who will not fail to dilpole of me according to the Order which he has eftablifi'd in the Ynivarfo.

Methinks, Were I even in Hill, I could not forbear praifing that Fountain of $A I I$ Things. I would teach the Devils and Dampid a new Lefion of Patience and Contentednefs, of Humility and Devotion, of. Generofity and Love, amidft their tremendous Torments. I would furvey with an Indiffen sence becoming a True Believer, the Horvid Abyss. with all its dreadful Vaults and Aparıments. 1 would confider the wonderful Architecture of thofe Infernal Prifons, inexpugnable Strength of the Walls; their prodigious I hicknefs and unmoveable Faftnefs; I would contemplate every Thing with the Reafon of a Pbilof ifbrr, and the. Piety of a Mugutman, not giving myfelf op to the Paffions of a Fool, and an Infidit.

All this I imagine were ealy to perform iu thole fa. tal Caverns, and much more; but GOD knows how the Experiment of fuch an intolerable Anguifh and Reftraint, might alter $x$ Man's Mind.

However, I find it Medicinal to think of the lant and wort Things, to be always perpard for Death, and uhatfoever thall follow it: For, Surprizes are apt to unman cis, and plunder os of our Reafon: I was in the H tighth of a violent Fever, when I began this Letter; yet now 'tis abated, and 1 palpably foel the gentle Return of Healib and

Vol. VI. S SpYat PARIS. 2is

Life. This is owing, in my Judgment, to the real Belief I had, That my laft Hour was come, which I have fo long expected. And I could almeft perfiuade myfelf thae I thall difperfe a Thomfand Maludies, recover aat of the moft dangerous Parony/imo, and prolong my Days, to Old Age, by the meer Force of thefe Contemplations.

My Faith on this Point is grounded on Experienct: For, I have often found, That to be arn'd againt Calamities with an even Mind, is cither a fure Way to avoid them, or at leaf to protrat the Seafons of their Arrival. And if there were nothing elfo in't, But the rendring "em more ealy when they come, it were worth any Man's Pains to try the Experiment.

Doubtlefs, there is no Terror in Death, but what the vain Opinion of Men creates. 'Tis as pleafant for a Thinking Man to die as to live, if it be only for this Reafon, That in his Paflage from the Life bo had led before, He thall not have bare naked Iha's fer his Contemplation ; but Matter of Fait, and the molt importint, that ever employ'd the Soulo of Men.

Oh ajmirable Sytuarf Copfider with thyfelf, Whether it will not be highly grateful to thy languithing Soul, when thou fhalt perceive demontmatively, by the infalliable Entbymema's of the trembling Pulfe, that thoe art juft ready to be releas'd from the deceitul Sophiftry of Homan Life! That thou art near efcaping from 2 narrow Cage, to be upon the Wing at large, to fly into the ample Ficlds of Beauty, Lighx, and endlefs Happinels: Reflett alfo at the fame Time, O holy Ercmit, That I thould think it no Pain to be freed from my Confinement to a Alinking Net of Infidels.

Bus, Why thould I give them that reproachful Bpithet, when, for aughe I know, I am a greater Infided myletf! 'Tis true, "indeed, I ans of the Lineage of Ibrabim, Ifimad, and the holy Race; 1 bear ir thy Body the Seals of a Divine League or Covimant between GOD and Maw. I was Circwncifed in due Time, and gave fopreme Glory to One GOD, and Honour to Mabomet his Melfonger. I pronounced the Sceven Myfierious Words, whele Sound excites the Harmony of the Spberes, fets the Angels a dancing. puts all Natere into Motions and makes the Devil as deaf as a Beetle. Nay, as our Holy Doitors teach, The very Breath with which that facred Confeflion is utterd, blows the Ahes of Hell into the Eyes of the Damn'd, and frikes them blind. In a Word, I have fafted, prayed, given Alms, and perform'd all the external Duties of a True Believer; yet I have Reafon no fear, That the beft of my pious Actions are not fufficient to cancel my Sins. My Practice runs counter to my Faith; there feems to be a double Spirit in me, one inclining me to Good, and the other forcing me to Evil. For, whilt I really in my Heart believe the Alcoram, and obey Mabomet, our Holy Law giegr, I ap compelld to deny both, to profef the Life and Manners of a Nararene, to counterfeit a Infidel, and do a Thoufand other ill Things, to pleafe the Grand Signior and his sleves. Thus I play faft and loofe with GOD Almighty, and turn Religion into Crefo-Purpofes. Yet Heaven knows, that I obteft all the Elempents to witnefs, That I. would fain be innocent, and live in unblemin'd Virtue: : But the fatal Neceffities I lie under, conftrian me to a perpetual Courfe of Vice. Which makes me fometimes cry ous in the Agonies of my Soul, O GOD! I pray tbee citber to alter sy Gircumflances, and reform my Nature, or make new Laws mors cafy to be kept.

222 Letters Writ by Vol. V1.

Venerable and Patient Solitary, bear with my importunate Complaints and remember, That tho' Thou art as an Avgel for thy Perfections, yet Meb. mut is but a Man, fubject to a Thoufand Frailties.

Vol. VI. a Spy af PARIs, 223

Pity him, and continue to afford him thy fage Coune Pel; reft alfo affured, That among all his Infirmities, he ftill retains inviolable Affectiops, and dutiful Rer. gird to the Tenets of GOD's Prophet.

Paris, 22d of the 2d Moon. of the Year 1666.

LETTER VII.

To tbe Kaimacham.

THOU may'd report it to the Divan for a Certainty, That Mirammma, the Son of the Xeripb at Sallefe is taken Prifoner by the Frencb. That bold Youth has long rov'd the Scas uncontrould ; has dome many Injuries to the Cbrifiams fil'd Sellee with Slaves: Now he himfelf is becomen Captive. Such is the Fortune of War by Sea and Land; To-day Triumphant and Vicorious, To-morrow Vanquif'd, and in Chains.
: Yet he loft not his Honour wich his Liberty, having bravely defended bis. Vefiel, and frew d the Decks with flaughter'd Frenchs 'till overpower'd with Numbers, he was compoll'd to yield, His Enemies extoll his Courage, and the Greatnefs of his Mind, which would not fink under the Preffure of this Misfortune. He feem'd to have the Command of himfelf (which is the moit Glorious Vietory) and fuffer'd not his Free born Soul to be led Captive by his Paffions ; but behaved himfelf with fuch an even Temper, as placed him above the Pity of his Enemies, and rather made him the Subject of their Emulation. He is brought to the Court, where he is entertain'd as a Guef, rather than as a

$$
\mathrm{L}_{4} \text { Prifoner: }
$$

224 LETTERB Writ by Vol. VI.

 Prifonier : Being invited to their Banquets, Manks. Plays, and other Divertifements. Neither is He debarrd the Privilege of Hunting, which might give him the fairetl Opportanity to eckape. But he is ignorant of the Language of this Country ; and few of the French underftand Monefro: So that it is almot impofible for him to make a Paxty, or confult his Flight, unlefs the King's Interpreter fhould afift him . Befidet, the Fromb have a higher. Opinion of his Generofity, than to apprehend fuch an ungrateful Return of the Royal U歌e he finds in this Coart.As for Mabmat, He has not yet made mimfelf known to this Brave Captive Bat if the Minitters of the Divan thould think it the Interete or Honour of the Sublime Porte to engage in this Affair, I want but a Commifrom to fet Minthmod fafe afiore it spich.
I I will not hacard any Thing in an Affiar of this himportunce, without an Order from my Superiors. Whien their Pleafure is once known, the Executions象till be fiwift. I wit for chy Commendy, wo for a Detree of Delliny, which cannet be repealed:
The GOD of our Patheny who mulliply'd the Seed of $1 / \mathrm{mmeel}$ as the Grefs of whe Field, and guve them tbe Sovercignty over many Natiom, grame, That the Seblime Portc, which is the Nurfery of the Faitbfal, miny always talie fuch Meafuree as phall advance vhe Interct of the Mugiman Empirr.

> Plaris, 14 th of the 3 d MNon, of the Year 1666 .

Vol. VI. a Spy at PARIs 225

LETTER VII.

To Hamel Muladdin, Xoriph of Sallec.

THY Son is no longer a Captive, but a Comgw. rer: His firt Appearapce before the Ladice of this Court was an Equivalent to his Ranfom. Ho: is like so do shee grewer Service by hio Chains, thanwhen he rang'd the Seas. His Beauly may do more Mifchief in France, than all thy Ships of Wars: fince it hath already creaced fuch Rivalßips and Factions among the Fair Sex. as engages the Freach: Gallante on many unhappy Rencounters; and in a little Time, it will be difficult for the Interefted: Sparks to meet and part with unheath'd Swords. Libels and Panegyricks divide the Stadies of the Wics s while one flatters, the other lampoons the amorous Females; and Mirammad, the flluftrious. Slave, is all the Talk. In a Word, he fiods Royal Ufage, having the Liberty of the Caurt; and all are: pleas'd with his graceful Deportment, and undifguis'd Converfation: Every One affects his Company, and he has the Fite of Priaces, Niner to bo close. His Skill in Riding and Throwing the Lance, has infimed the Noble Youth with Martial Emulations. They efloem Mirammed the moft accompliB'd Perfon of this Age.

Can'it Thou now repine at thy Son's Glorious: Thraldom ? A Captivity that loads him with fo many. Honours? That lays his Conquerors at his Feet, and fubducs all Hearts to his matchlefs. Perfoction? His Followers find Friendßip among the Infidels for his Sake: 'Twere to be with'd, That equal Humanity were Bhew'd to the Cbrifitian Slaves in Barbary. Itell thec, thy son is fo admir'd and lav'd, that all thy Treafure cannot redemm him. The ## 726 Lettenst Writ by Vbl VI.

Frencb are generous, and fcorn to fell the Brave for Gold. They will fooner give thee thy Son again, expecting from his Gratitude a Recompence furparfing the Value of. Money ; that is, an inviolable obferving the Condifions of Peace, which, they fay Thou haft fo ofien broke. Thy Ambafladors are expetted here, to confummate a lating Fivendihip, When that is done, Theu wile quickly fee thy Son retarn, attended by'a numerous Train of French Who have vow'd to follow his Portune through the World, fo long as he draws not his Cymetar againt their King.
I have difpateh'd an Accent of this Adventure to the Kaimasbam; that fo the Sublime Port, which gives the Law to all the King of Earth, suay intereft itfelf on thy Behalf. The French feem to have a profound At ach to the Orroiman Empire: Whether it proceeds not more from Fear, and the Principles, of Policy, than from any real Love to the Muljulmans, I will not determine. They fpeak reverenlty of the Grand Signion, covet his Friendihip, and applaud the ViEtorious. Enterprizes of the True Belieecre. Indeed, they are naturally a Martial People, and honour all Men of Brave Spirits and Daring Refolutions. They bave this particular Reafon alfo to bear Friendflip to the Invinjble $O /$ mans, becaufe we are almoft continually in Wars with the Houfe of Auffia, the old Enemy of France. The Germans. are wont to fay, That the Dragon's Head and Iail are in Conjunction, when the Turks and Franch invade their Empire at the fame Time. Thefe are number'd amongt the Compellations by Afrologers, to which the Germans allude in this Proverb; being ever jealous of fome private Treaty between the Sultan and the French Court.
GOD, who is the Wifeft of the Wifef, inftruct thee to adjuft thy Difference happily with this noble Nation,

Vol. VI. a SPYat PARis. 227

 Nations, that fo thou may'A fee thy Son again in Peace at Sallee.Paris, 14 th of tbe 3d Mcan, of the Year 1666.

LETTER VIII.

To Pefteli Hali, bis Brotber, Mafter of the.Cuftoms at Conftantinople.

T PON my Word, thy Letter came in a critical Hour, to prevent, for aught I know, more Mifchief than could have been repair'd again all the Days of my Life. I have but juft taken my Eyes off from it, and fetPen to Paper, to exprefs my Thanks to thee for the Care thou tak'作 of thy exil'd Brother; for the. Poft gocs this Night, and I have appointed to meet Eliachins the Jow with fome Armenimens withia thefe few Minutes. It had been an unfortunate Meoting for me, had not thy Difpatch come fo opportunely to give me warning of our Coufin Solyman's Perfidy: For thefe Fiwred Capes are his Spies and Confidants. The back Blows of Tegers Nigedber. and the Great Devil, be upon him and them. What have I done to that ungrateful Villaia, to merit fuch ill Offices from him ? But upon thee be the Mercies of GOD, the Favours of his Prophet, and the Beneditious of all good Men and Angels: Por thou art to me as one of the Watches above, more than a Brother: Thou art the Twtelar Guide of my Life, my good Damon in Time of Danger:

We had defign'd this Evening for a private Banquet of Wine, which, thou knoweft, dilates the Hearts of Mortals, unlocks Secrets, and makes the moft referv'd Man in the World too talkative and open.I keep as great Guand upen my Tongue, perhaps as another; but GOD knows how far I might have been tempted by fuch good Company, to let it loofe for the Sake of Difcourfe: For thefe Fellows are foft as the Air in their Addrefs and Converfation ; they appear as innoccat 0 Samtents, fincere Hadgis, loyal and courtly as the Pages of the Seraill. They would whendie Ninety-aine of Arguis' Eyes out of his Head fuccefivively, before he miffed ope.

228 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

They cance firt to Pirvis as Meschanss; and no doubt but Solyman had given 'em Inftructions how to infinuate into Eliactim's Aloquaiatance, and fo by Degrees into mine. For that honeft 7 ewe trades with People of all Nerions and Cheraciers.

However it be, I remember the very Wonds which thou inferted'd in thy Letter, were fpolen by me in Compuny wich thefe Infiade. But I bhall finda Way to beeven wich then, and Sojman too, before they'ill drosim of it.
In che anean Time, I pray heartily, That if ever it Thall be thy Minfortune to be in rte. Hike Peril: Do Atiny or Chance, Providence or Fave may saife fome Friond to give thee a Caucion, and, That chournsy'it not. with the unhappy Coffor, neglect to read is in: Time.
I'm now going to encounter thefe Giafors: perhape Iftall earch thin in their own Snares. If not, I'll fecure they flall not catch me.

Dear Pofoli, may thy Soul repofo under the Procetion of GO D.

> Paris, int of the 5 th Moom, of abe Year 1666 .

LETTER

Vol.मI. ASPY at PARIS. 229

LETTERIX.

To Dgact Oglou.

3 O whom thould I complain in my Adverfity, but to my Friend? I have been more em. barafid within thefe two Moesc chan through all the former Conrie of my Life. Troubles of divers Kinds throng in upon me. I feem lise a Butt or Mark, whereat every Species of Migfirtucue, like a Reilful Archer, directs the fatal Aswows of its Malice. I am near overwhelm'd with Calamitics. Hean ven and Earch are fet againt mes and all the Blements confpire my Ruin. Yet no Perfecution appears fo terrible as that of Man, nor any Affiction to poigrant as that which proceods from the Ingratitude and Perfidy of my own Countrymen, Períons related to me by Blood.
Age and much Sicknefs have confin'd me to my Bed for confiderable Time, which is no fimall Al. loy to Human Happinefs. But to render me perfactly miferabla, the Misifers of the Porte ase: angry with me for being OLI and Infirm, and for not continuing to ferve the Gramd Sigwier with the fame Vigour and Strength as formerly: Blife whas. mean the frequent Reproaches they fend me, whilit I am not in a Condition to anfwer them, or make an Apology for my felf? Would they have me Immorta, and Proof againt the Surokes of Defliny and Deach, which thou know't ave unavoidable? When I was in my Prime, Healchy and Strong as an. Eagle, they enconraged me with the fairell Promifes in the World, telling me I thould never want for Money, or the Protection of the Grand Siguier. Yet even then, I receiv'd not my Penfion wicho. Murmurs, anid obfcure Menaces. So hard a Thing it is for Courtiens to be touch'd with any Man': Necer.

230 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

Neceffities. But now they threaten openly to fop all farther Supplies, unlefs I will grow young again, and do Bufinefs' as brikly as when I'd number'd but Thirty Summers. Thus they ferve poor Mabmut, as we ufe Oranges and Lemons, whofe vital Spirit, when we have fuck'd out, we throw the reft away as uniprefitable. Yet not one of them will contribute in the leaft to my Recovery. Only the generous Cara Hali, our beloved Friend, hearing of my Malady, fent me a ftrange Cbymical Liquor, with the celebrated Confeltion El Razi, fome Bezocr, and the mot precious Balm of Gilead ; all prepar'd to my Hand, with Direetions, and feal'd with an Authentick Signet.

Thefe indeed had a marvellous Operation on me. I tried them but Yefterday, and find myfelf fuddenly reftor'd to fome Degrees of Health, as by a Miracle. Whether it be the vaft Efteem I have for that excellent Phyfician, with the Confidence I repofe in his Skill and Judgment, las had fome Influence on me, or what elfe I know not; (yet we ufed to obferve, That the Patient's good Opinion of his Phyfician, is half a Cure:) However, thofe Soverign Medicines have infpired me with a new Energy : And had I not other Aflictions to break my Heart, I could almoft promife myfelf to reach the Age of Nefor. But my unfortunate Stars will have it otherwife, and I am refign'd to Deftiny.
Thou know'tt my Coufin Solyman, the TurbantMaker, and art no Stranger to his Humours and Fortune; what an unfetted Man he has been in the whole Courfe of his Life; that no Employment could ever pleafe him, nor he be long fix'd in any Place. How he has rambled from Conftantimople to Scutari, from thence to Cbalcedom, &c. always murmuring againt Heaven, and complaining of his hard Fate, in that he was not bred a Courtier, a Student, a Soldier, or any Thing but what he really is. Thou art acquainted alfo with fome of his religious Caprices, how he is addieted to doing the Book, making the tripple Knot, and to a Thoufand other: foolifh Supertitions; by which, whilt he afpires at the Charatter of a Sage, or a cunning Man, he renders himfelf more contemptible than an Idiot, forfeiting the Efteem of all Wire and Good Men, for the Sake of a little Fame, and ndify Charatter among the empty, giddy Multitude.

Vol.VI. a SPY at PARIs. 231

But after all, I believe thou art wholly a Stranger to his fecret Malice, and the Rancour with which he pefficcuted mes, his poor exil'd Uncle. I myfelf was deceiv'd by the fubtil Apology he made fome Years ago; for the Slander his Tongue had utter'd ; when he transferr'd all the Guilt of that Injury on Sbafbim 1ffham, the Black Ensruch, and Icbingi Cap Oglani, Mafter of the Pages. But now I'm convinc'd he is a Traytor, a Villain, and a Fellow void of Faith and Honefty.
I receiv'd a Letter from him within thefe Seven Days, full of tender and infinaating Expreffions, thanking me for all the good Offices I had done him, and for my feafonable Counfel in feveral Cafes: Profefing alfo at the fame Time an inviolable Friendifip, asd, That he would make it his Study to do me fome effectual Service Yet the next Poft brought me a Difpatch from my Brother Pefeli Hali, wherein he bids me beware of Solyman; affuring mie, That he had good Reafon to fufpect that Coufin of mine had fome ill Defign upon me. This is certain, fays my Brother, Solyman boafts of his Familiars, not without fome Infult, that there is not a Word.or Action efcapes his Uncle Mabmut at Paris, but he is ioon inform'd of it at Conflantimople. And that which confirms me in the fame Jealoufy with Pefeli is, That he inferts in his Letter to me fome Paflages and Difcouries

232 Letters Writ by Volvi.

Verbatiw, which I matt neods own to have beon botwoen me and Eliachim the fow, with Two or Three Anmonian Merchants, in dur molt private Meetinge at Eliecbim's Houfe, or my Chmaber. Thefe he learnt from fome of Solyman's moft intimate Compaaions.

What can 1 make of all this, but, that thefe A/ro moniuss are of Sodymar's Council, hie Privads's, his Cormeifs, Bec, whom having Bufincfs iob their owa at Peris, that perfidious Wretch has engaged to pry into my Secrets, to give him a conflant Account of what Difcoveries shey make, and if pofifble, to trepan me intofome irrocoverable Error in my Conduet, that fo hemay finally ruin me.

O Mabomit! What is become of the Revcience due to thy Secrral Name, to thy Law, and to the Book poon'd in Heaven o Whose is the My liwman Faint and Intrgrity? The Religious Fiaftnefs of Friendllip, wish wdich our Fathers prop'd up one another in the Service of God, and the Empire of Irwe Believers? But there is no need of exclaiming againt Faitb and Piety on this Account : Human Nature it folf is refponfible for the Bafenefs and Ingratitude of my Kinfman. He no longer deferver the Character of a Man. I advife thee to flun his Company as a Pett, 2 walking Contagion among Mortals.

In a Word, dear $D_{\text {swet, }}$ Lot not Thou and I fuffer. ourfelves to be carried away by a vain Pity or Tendernefs for any Man, tho' he be the Son of a Mother's Sifter, fince there is no Truf in Blefh and Blood: But let us leara the Maxims of Froucb Wif. dom, which teach Men tolay the Eoundation of their owin Happinefs, in fmiling at the Misfortuncs of others.

Paxis, 14 th of sbe 6 ch Moom, of the $Y_{\text {eafe }} 1666$.

Vol. VI. a Spy at Paris. 233

LETTER X.

To Hamet, Reis Effendi, Principal Secrotary of the Ottoman Empire.

BE S I DE S the general Characters of Countries, and the People inhabiting there, it is neceflary for thee to be informed of particular Emergenciet, and foch Events as deferve a Place in the Eternal Rerords of the Ottoman Momarchy, the Fifth and Laft in the World; that fo the Minitters of the Auguft Divam, the deflin'd Arbitraters of the Univerfo, fadges of all Hmman Affairs, and Counfollors of the Great Sulrent, may in the Socrval Cade, as in a Mirror, behold whatever happens in the diftant Climatces: worthy of Remark.

After the Salutations, therefore, procoeding fromprofound Humility, entire Refpect, and perfeet: Friendinip, knows That a devouring Pefiltonce hase lately made a fical Decimation in the $E_{\text {w }}$ dij Territories, efpecially in Londom, the Capitul City to thate Ifiam, whereabove a Huadred Thoufand Soulaytruck with Invincible Darts from GOD, went off the Stage of Eimman Lifo, in left than Six Moons RevoIution.

The dire Contagion by Degrees fpread farther through the adjacent Provincer, and sewch'd the moft remote and folitary Corners of the Land;: Deach fet bis Standard up, proclaiming open War againt the Inhabitants ; with flying Troope of mortal Plagues, he ravag'd over the life, filling all Parts with doleful Cries and Lamentations: The. Cemeteries were not large enough to hold the Carcaffes of fuch as fell before the dreadful Conqweror: But open Fields were turn'd to Sepulchres, and.

234 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

cramm'd with Spoils of Human Race: An univerfal Defolation reigh'd : Death celebrated cruel Triumphs every where.

Such as pretend to Afrology and hidden Sciences, will have this to be an Effeet of the late Comet which appear'd at the End of the Year 1664, whilft others. attribute it to nearer Natural Caufes; and fome conclude it is a Judgment fent from Heaven on that Rebellious People, who a few Years before had involv'd the Nation in a Civil War, and barbarounly maffacred the King. GOD only knows the Truth that is conceal'd from Man.
Thou may't Regifter alfo, That the QeeenMetber of France is newly dead, and the Crookback'd Prince of Conti. On which Account, this Court is now in Mourning, and the Churches hung with Black, which melancholy Bells perpetually invite the Living to pray for the deceafed Royal Souls; and deep-bals'd Organ-pipes breathe out inceflant doleful Afpirations, founding like inaticulare Prayers, and Funeral Sighs for the Departed. In this the Nazerrenies approach pear to the Faith of Irue Believers. They give Alms alfo, as we do, and fetle Stipends on certata Priefis and Derviches, to mumble over daily Maffes for the Dead : which is an evident Sign, That they have Hopes of Immortality, and look for the Refurrection, Doubtleff, there's fomething Good, at the Bottom of all Religions, though it be overkid with Errors and Corruptions.
GOD direct us through the Meanders, which Human Frailty involves us in; and grant every Mu Julman a particular Charts and Compafs, whereby to fteer his Courfe through the uncertain Tracks of mortal Life; that He may at laft arrive in Paradife. For we fhall nevar find the Way thither by general Rules.

Vol. VI. a SPY at PARI9. 235

Illuftrious Hamet, I pray that Thou and I may at a deftin'd Hour encounter one another in the Walks of Eden, there to Converfe under Immortal Shades, near to fome warbling Stream of matchlefs Wine or Water; to revolve our paft Fatigues on Earth, and to carefs ourfelves in the Security of endlefs Blifs.

Paris, 1 gth of tbe $\boldsymbol{7}^{\text {th }}$ Moom, of the Yeat 1666 .

LETTER XI.

To Nathan Ben Saddi, a Jew, at Vienna.

T
HOU and thy feign'd Meffies be damn'd together for Company I. Muft I be baulk'd of my Money for the Sake of your new Superfition ? How many Mefies's have ye had, Twenty Five at leaft, befides the Son of Mary, who is acknowledg'd and blefs'd for Ever? Muft all the Warld be bubbled to Eternity by the Fables of your Natien? Curfe upon your Rabbis and Cocbams, thofe Pimps to the miore religious Debaucheries of Mortals. Nathas, I took thee for another Manner of Man. However, if thou art a fworn Servant to Sabbati Scevi the new SbamKing of the Jowf, I have nothing to fay to it: Do as thou wilt. But, I dare be a Prophet fo far as to tell thee, thou wilt be curfedly left in the Larch, with the reft of the Fools, thy bigotted Brethren. Let what will be, it behoves thee as an honeft Man, to tranfmit the Bills that are entrufted to thee. Whether Sabbati Sevi, Bum Fofopb, or Ben David be the Name of your expected Mefras, I would not have Ben Snddi degenerate. Continue thou Faithful, and the few others that are entrufted with the Sublime Affairs: And let all the reft of the Common Freus go to Gebenna, or to the Vale of Iopbet, which you pleafe: But I would fain have thee in the Number of the Righteous, who thall poffefs Paradifes. Some of thy Letters have encouraged me to hope for this, but thy laft makes me alinoft defpair of feeing thee happy either in Tbis World or the Next: For, thou writeft like one in a Frenzy, raving on Cbimera's of ftrange Honour, Giory, and Power. which thou Ohalt Thorily enjoy in the Kingdom of thy Fantaftick Meffus; thou art already a Prince in thy own Conceit.

236 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

For God's Sake, Natbian, wean thy felf from there Religious Fondneffes: Awaken thy Reafon, which is the diftinguifhing Character of a Man. Examine the Grounds of this new Delufion; fearch into the Birth and Origin of Sabbati Sevi, and thou wilt find him to defeend of an obfcure and bafe Pa rentage; Mis Pather being but a Kind of Mungrel Fow, and by Profefion an Ufurer, which is forbid by the wriken Law of Mofes, and in the Great Alcoras it is accounted Execrable: His Mother a Woman of the Cards, furpected for a Witch, in regard moft of that Infidel Nation practice Magick Arts, and Diabolical Charms. And nis not altogether improbable, That your counteffet M-ffas was educated privately by her in the fathe Stedies, whence he learn'd the Methods of Enchantments, and Illufions; to deceive the Senfes, and impofe on the Reafon of Mankind.

I can tell thee of a Truth, That there are more Eyes on him and his Aetions, than he is aware of 3 and I myfelf, at this Diftance have receiv'd a particular Relation of his Life, from foch as knew him a Youth at Smyrna, the Place of his Nativity. He is accufed of many Vices and Extravagancies doring his carly Years. His Converation was wild and difSolute, being a noted Ingmerato or Stallioes over all that City. For which, and fome other Crimen, he was expelld the Symagogue; and banin'd from Sugrna, by the mutual Confent of the Mugwiman Cajfis and your own Rulers. Howas alfo excommunicated by the Ral bi's as a Heretick, for broaching certain Doatrines nepugnant to your Law, and the general Faich of the frews. All which cannot but be prevailing Recommendations of him to the Office of Mefias, or King of ljsael.

Vol. VI. © SPY at PARIS. 237

From thence he rambled up and down the Miria and other Provinces of Greece, leaving a Memorial of Infan:y, wherever he fet his Foot: Continually Marrying and Divorciag of Wives, Debauching of Virgins, and frequenting the Company of Harlots, till thofe Countries grew weary of him, and threat. ned to chattife his Wickednefs. Then he pafs'd over into Syria and Paleffime, beginning to fet up for, a Reformer of your Law, and at Jonafalem openly profefling himfelf to be a Mefras; whereby he drew a Rabble of Lunaticks and frantick People after hign. But as for the Seniors and Gevernore, they have rejected him as an Impoftor.

Confider, Natban, the Fa:c that befel Bea Corbab, as he call'd himielf, that is, the Son of a Star, whi pretended to be the Meffias in the Days of Sderian, Emperor of the Romame; reflect on the Calamities which overwhelm'd him and his Followers, to the Number of Four Hundred Thoufand 7 fus; ; who all fell, with their falfe Prepbot, Sacrifices to the juft Revenge and Fury of that incens'd Monarch: For they had impudently boatted, That by fuch a prefix'd Time, He thould be taken Captive, and depos'd from his Throne by the M. fias, who thould affiume the Imperial Dignity, and all the World fhould bey him. But, when thofe who furviv'd tho Slaughter of their Brethren, reflected on the Au .
chg Letters Writ by Vol. VI. thor of fo Tragical a Catafiropbo, they chang'd his Name in Conteimptand Hatred, calling him no longer Ben Coctbab, the Son of a Star, but Bar Cureiba, the Son of a Lye, a Falfe Prophet, and Seducer of the Bretiren.

Thou haft all the Reafon in the World, to have no better Opinion of Sabbati Sevi, fince he is rejected by the wifer Sort of Gerus, and has not perform'd One Miracle in Confirmation of his pretended Mcf. fras-ßip. Neither has any uncommon or prater-natural Appearance happen'd before or fince he affum'd this Dignity. Whereas, all your Rabbi's teach, That no lefs then Ten Eminent and Remarkable Prodigies thall precede the Coming of your Me:fias. And I remember, Thou thyfelf, about Ten Years ago, fenteft me a Letter much to the fame Effect, telling me, That certain monftrous Sorts of Men thould conse from the End of the Earth, whofe Eyes thall be as venomous as Bafulifes; with a great many other Staries of like Nature.

Haft thou forgot this Natban, or art thou fo far infatuated with the bold Impoftures of this impudent Deceiver, as for his Sake, to deny thy former Faith, reverfe thy own Sentiments, and difannul the Traditions of thy Doctors? For fhame souzz up thy intellectual Faculties, and fuffer not thy Reafon to be lull'd afleep by the prefligious Umbrages and Charms of a lewd Vagrant, a Wizard, a Cheat.

Have but Patienec, at leaf, till Thou fee thofe Signs accomplifh'd which are to uther in your Meffias, before Thou give up thyfelf to fo dangerous a Credality. Let the Sun firt emit thofe Pettilential Vapours, which frall kill a Million of the Koplorim, or Infidels, every Day, as your Traditions threaten. Let that Luminary be alfo totally Eclips'd for the Space of Thirty Days. In a Word, Let all the other Prodigies come to pafs, which thou thy felf didft once fo paffionately believe : And then I pro-, mife thee, on the Word of a My Mu/man, That I will be thy Profelste, and embrace thy Law, and adore thy Meffias ; on the Condition, That ocherwife Thou wilt be my Convert, believe the Alcoran, and oboy the Meffenger of GO.D, the Lat and Seal of the Prephets.Paris, I th of the gth Moome of ibe Year 4666.

Vol.VI. $\operatorname{SPY}$ at PARIS. 139

LETTER XII.

To the Kaimacham.

IA M afraid the Divan will be obliged to lead asother Agent to Vienna, to fupply the Place of Natban Ben Saddi, who is, running mad after the new Meffas of the Fows. Their is no Doybt but Thou and the other Happy Minifters, refiding at the Augyt Port have heard of a certain Impofier, at Smyrna, hy Name Sabbati Sevi, of Hebrew Race, who calls himfelf The only Bigetten Som of GOD, Mefras, and Rcdeemer of $1 / \mathrm{rael}$; and what Multitudes of doting, sredulous $\mathcal{f}$ qus he draws after him. So that there is a. Schijm broke out between them, and they are divided into Two contrary Facions, both in Smyrna, and all over the Levant. It is impolfible that there Things. fhould be conceal'd from the Refplendint Seat of Fame, fince they have reach'd even our Ears, who dwell at this Diftance: Nay, there is hardly a Prosvince or City in all the Wef, which has not receiv'd Intelligence of fo semarkable a Novelty.

I have receiv'd a Difpatch from Zeidi Alamanzi at Wenice, wherein he informs me, That all the fews of .Italy are freparing to vifit the $\mathrm{H}_{\mathrm{f}} \mathrm{l}^{\prime} \mathrm{L}_{\mathrm{a}} \mathrm{m} / \mathrm{l}_{n}$ and to fee the Face of their long expected Mefrias, who they now believe is really come on Earth, and is that Selbati Sevi, at Smyma. They are fettling their Affairs as fot as they can, acquitting themfelves from all worldly Engagements; and thoie who are devout, give themedves up to Prayer and Mortifications; whilf others fpend their Time in Feafting, Dancing, and all Manner of Mirth. He Cays, fome of them will fit or fand up to their Nofe in Water, for Four and Twenty Hours together. And this they do in Imitation of Adam's Penance, according to their Traditions: For they are taught, That the Firjt. Fatber of Mortals, after he was baniflid from Paradifes as a Punifhment for his Sin, ftood a Hundred and Thirty Years together in Water shus reaching up to his Nottils.

240 Letteirs. Writ by Vol, Vi.

Others of thefe fuperftitious People will fit naked many Hours together on a Heap of Pijinires, till they're almoft fung to Deaty. A Third Sort dig their own Graves, and going down into them, caule themfeves to be coverd all over with Earth, except only their Faces; and is this Condition they will he till they are almof famiff'd.

In the mean while, they fend Circular Letters from all Parts, congratulating each others approaching Happinefs and Deliverance from the Oppreffions of the Gentilis: lor they fo term all that are not of their own Nation. And in thefe mutual Addrefles, they fail not to prophecy, That their Meffias thall, in fuch a Moon, go to the Great Tyrant, King of the Ifinaelites, and Lord of the Clildren of Meab and Edom; (fo they blafpheme our Gloiious Sultan) That He fhall depore him from his Tbrone, and lead him away Captive; afier which he thall have the Dominions of the whole Earth laid at his Feet.

With fuch Kind of wild Stuff, do thefe deluded People flatter one another and themfelves, as if in a little Time they were to be Lords of all Tbings. So that no Trading or Commerce goes forward among them ; an univerfal Stop is put to all Bufiners, it being efteem'd an inexpiable Sin, to follow their Trades in the Days of the Mefras, who is to enrich them with Wealth of all Nations.

Vol. VI. a Spy at Paris. 241

Strange Rumours are fpread abroad of the Retura of the Ten Tribes over the River Sabbation, who were carried away Captives by Salmamafar, King of A/fy. ria, and were never heand of fince, till now they difcourfe of their being encamp'd in the Defart of Mownt Sinai, in their March to the Holy Land. 'Tis reported alfo, That a mighty Fleet of Ships were feea at Sea, whofe Sails were of Sattin, and their Streamers bore the Figure of a Loin, with this Infcription, The Lyou of the Tribes of Judah.

The Cbriffians feem'd aftonifh'd at thefe Thinge, yet fome look on them only as Dreams. As for honof Eliacbim here, he is no more movid at thele Things than I; only he laughs at the Polly of the credulous World, and curfes the $\mathcal{F}$ ows, for bringing fuch Contempt on themfelves and their Pofterity. But Natban is like one Hag-ridden, or defild by the Lamie of the Night. He has loft all Reafon, and 'twill be no lefs than a Miracle that muft reftore it again.

Sage Minifer, Whild thefe execrable People thus lele themfelves, for the Sake of their counterfit Meffias, let us continue to Honour the True One, even Fefus the Son of Mary, who is now in Paradife, and our Noly Propbet with him.

Paris, 21 if of tbe gth Moos. of tbe Tear 1666.

242 Letters Writ ty Vol.VI. LETTEL XIII.

To Murat, Baffa.

THIS has been a confiderable Year of Actions and Events. At the Beginning of it, I fent to the Porte an Account of the Death of the 2xcenMotber of France, and of the Prince of Comli; now I will farther inform thee of a War that is broke out between this Crown, and that of England. The Occation of it was this: The Englifb and the Hollanders trafficking in America, had had fome Mifunderitandings and Feuds, about the Limits of their feveral Conquefts in thofe remore Parts of the Wor!d. The Hollanders being the ftrongeft, did many Injuries to their Neighbours the Eiglijb, and domineer'd over them as their Lords. The Englifor refenting this very beinoully, and giown weary of their Oppreffions, fent Complaints to their King. He, to redrefs his Subjects, order'd his Refident at the Hague, to demand Satisfaction of the States. They refus'd to do him that Juftice; upon which he, was refolved to have Recourfe to his Arms, and accordingly proclaim'd War againft Holland, making all neceffary Preparations to carry it on. The fame did his Adverlaries. The Frencb King, in the mean Time, was oblig'd by a Treaty with the Hollanders concluded in the Year 1662, to efpoufe their Quarrels ; yet, that he might not break with England rafhly, he firft fent an Ambafador to that Court, to mediate a Peace. But that proving ineffectual, he proclaim'd War againft that Nation, and commanded the EngLifb Ambaffador to depart his Kingdom. The Duke of Beauford, who is Admiral at Sea, was order'd to equip a gallant Fleet, and join the Dutch Navy ; which he perform'd with all imaginable Diligence, and and Expedition. There have been two Combats between there Enemies at Sea, and in both the Dutch had the wort of it: Ncither did the French efcape without fome Lofs, having Two of their greateft Ships feverely fhatierd, and a Third taken by the Engliß.

Vol. VI. a Spy at Pakts. 243

The Plague Atll rages in England, and has almott depopulated whole Provinces. Whilft a milder Death has robb'd France of one of her greatelt Heroes: The Count d' Narcourt, of whom I have often made mention, is gone to celebrate the Triamphs due to his Valour and Fortune in another World.

The Emperor of Girmery has at lait marricd the Infanta of Spain, after Aburdance of Demurs and Hefitations about that Bulinels Thefe Nazarcnes can do Nothing with Experti ion. The Spiritual Courts, as they call then, have more Tricks and cramp Words to amufe People with, than an Indian Mountebank, or Jugler. Neither are Sovereigz Primces more exempt from their Jurifdietion, than the mcaneft of their Subjects: Elpecially the Court of Rome can make or annull Marriages at Pleafure. And they are fure to be Excommunicated, who refufe to fubmit to their Orders. This Holy Court can alfo bind or releafe Sins, open or fhut the Gatcs of Paradife, make a Devila Saint, or a Saint a Dewil. In a Word, They can do every Thing, if there be Gold in the Cafe. But if that be wanting, they can do nothing but fhrug their Shoulders.

Thou may't alfo inform the Diven, That the Frencb King has given Permiffion to fome of his Subjects, to undertake the Conqueft in America, and eftablifh a Commerce in that Part of the World. Many Veffels are equipped, in order to this Expedition, and they that are concern'd in the Voyage, are as merry as 'fafom and his Argonauts, when they were perparing to fetch the Golden Fleece from Colchos. That Wefiern Contineut affords immenfe M 2

Riches,

244 Lexten: Writ by Vol.VI.

 Riches, and tempts all the Nations in Earope, to make an Experiment of their Fortune, in gaining one Past of it or other. 'Twere to be wifh'd, it lay nearer to the Ottoman Empire. No Record can difcover the Origin, of the Inbalitants. Yet moft Axtbors conjecture, they they pafs'd over from the Nortb-Eaft Parts of Afia, where the Streights of Anian are very norrow, and would invite Sea-faring Men to feek new Adventures. Befides, by their being Cawnibals, it appears very probable, that either they defoended from the Tartars, or the Tartars from them. GOD alone knows how to adjuft the Difference, and reveal the Secrets of Hiffory.Brave Bafa, 'Tis no Matter from what Stock we are defcended, fo long as we have Virtue; for that alone is the only true Nobilty. GOD regale thee with his Favours.

Paris, 30th of tbe gth Moom, of the Year 1666.

Vol.VI. a Spy at Panis. 245

 LETTER XIV.To Pefteli Hali, bis Brotber, Mafer of the Cuftoms, and Superintendant of the Arfenal at Conftantinople.

WHEN I hear of thy Profperity, my Heart is dilated, like his who has found hidden Wealth. Yet, I am forry for the Difgrace of the good Old Man, thy Predeceffor: But we muft not cenfure the Conduct of our Superiors. The Juftice of their Actions is not to be call'd in Queftion. The Sultan cannot err. This is an eftablifh Maxim in all Monarchies, efpecially, in that Part of the Renowned Ofmass.

As for what relates to thee in this new Advance thou haft made ; thy own Experience acquir'd by many Years Travel and Obfervation in Foreign Countries, added to the Knowledge thou haft in the Laws, Difcipline, and Cuftoms of thy own, will be a fufficient Guide to conduat thee in the Management of thy Bufinefs. Yet defpife not the Counfel of others. A Man is never nearer to Ruin, than when he trufts too mech to his own Wifdom. Therefore the greateft Emperors undertake Nothing of Moment rafhly, or without Advice. Temerity often blafts the faireft Defigns.

It will be of particular Import to thee, to hear of a Tragical Event that has late happen'd to Rezam, a great City in Rufia, by the Blowing up of the Magazine. This Gun-powder does more Mifchief than Good in the World. The Anvients fought as fuecefffully, with Rows and Arrows, Swords and Spears, and other InAruments of

246. Letters. Writ by Vol, VI.

War, without running the Hazard of Blowing up whole Cities into the Air, in Time of Peace. And they could undermine the Arongeft Caftes, even thofe fituated on Rocks, withoat the Help of this infernal Duft. Nature taught 'em' to be induftrious, in defeating their Enemies, and they fpar'd no Labour to gain the Vietory. Our Fore-fathers were hardy and firong, patient of Toils and Fatigues: They cut their W ays into Mountains of Stone, if any Place of Strength were built on it, which they had Occafion to befiege. And as they hew'd away that Part of the Rock which fupported the Walls, they underprop'd the Foundation with Wooden Pillars, And when they had finih'd their Mines, they fet Fire to certain combultible Matter, which confuming thefe Eupports, the Walls and Gates that refted on them funk down, and left the Fortrefs naked and open to the Befiegers.
It had been well for the Inhabitants of Rewan, if their City had been only thus gently difinanthd by fome Enemy, againt whom they might have afterwards imployed their Courage, to defend themfelves, or make Compofition But, poor unfortunate People, they have felt a ruder Sbock, an unmerciful Blow of Fate, in their City being in a Minute's Time, without the leat Warning, Storm'd, Plunder'd, and laid in a Heap, by an Enemy which gives no Quarter.

This Accident happen'd on the 15 th of the latt Moon, about the Hour of Ulanamifs. There were. Five Hundred Earrels of Powder in the Magazine; and the Force of the Blow was fo violent, that; befides the Deftruction of the City, or at leaft, the beft Part of it, all the neighbouring Villages sound about it, felt its fatal Effects, fome of their Houfes thaking as in an Earthquake, others falling to Ficces.

Afuredly,

Vol.VI. a Spix at PARI s. 247

Affaredly, Heaven is angry with thele lanfidels, and turns the very Inftruments of their Defence and Safty into Scourges for their Chaftifement. I formerly fent Saleb, the Superintendant, an Accound of the like Misfortune, that befel the City of Gravelines in Flanders, and of other terrible Effects of the Wrath of Heaver in the Lown Countries. One Diafter follows clofe on the Back of another; yet the Infidels are infenfible and ftupid, as they were in the Days of Neab, when the Flood came and furpifed all the Inhabitants of the Country. That Prophet gave 'em Warning of the approaching Danger. He was three whole Years in cutting down Indian Plane-Trees, and preparing Planks, Beams, Pins, and other Neceflaries, and feven Years more in Building that wonderful Ship. The Infidels went by daily, and faw him at work; but they derided the patient Apofle, and taught their Children to mock him, faying, Where is the Water this Sbip is to Sail in? After the Ark was finiked, it lay on the Gronnd feven Moons, till they had thrice facrific'd fome of Noab's Followers to their Idols.

It was perfected in the Moom of Rajob, and in the Moon of Sapbar was the Decree of the Chaftifement fign'd, which was t) be executed on all of Mortal Race, fave Noab, and the Fourfcore that were with him, wi h the two Pairs of every Species, which the Four Winds, by Gcd's A ppointment, collected together and drove in:o the Ark, aud the Body of Adam, which was enflarind and brought to Noab, by Angels out of the Region of Mecca. There was alio Pbilimon, the Good Prieft of Egypt, with bis whole Family.

Juk as the determin'd Day and Hour of the Flood was come, the Prince of the Country, Atimulated by his evil Deftiny, mounted his Horfe, with fome of his Retinue; and having facrificed to 248 Letters Writ by Vol.VI. their Iddols, rode toward the Place where Noab and his Company were thut up in the Ark, with a Defign to burn it to Ahes. He call'd out aloud to there Prophet with Scoffs, faying, O Noah Where is tbe Water in ubich tbis Sbip is to fail? It will be with you incontinently, replied the Holy Man, before yow can romeve ycur Station. Come doum, theu Dotard, faid the proud Infidel, otberwife I vill burn thee and thy Companions with Fire. 0 miferable Mant, faid Noab, turn to G O D, for bis fudgm wts are ready to burff fortb om you.

The Prince incenfed at this, commanded his Slaves to put Fire to the Aik. But while he was yet speaking, he manifeftly faw the Water gufhing out on all Hands round about him, and under his Feet. Then his Heart was troubled and full of Anguif and Fear. He hasted to fecure himfelf with his Fa mily and Goods, in the Caftes which he had build on the higheft Mountains. But alas! The Earth open'd, and broke like a Spider's Web; fo violent was the Force of the Waters which boil'd up every where. The Clouds pour'd down vaft Cataracts of Rain, mix'd with dreadful and unfupportable Thunder and Lightning. That miferable Irfidels throng'd upon one another, Curfing and Blaipheming their Gods, who had deluded 'em. Great was the Confufion and Cry every where; for fuch a Calamity had never been known, fince the Moon, gave her Light. If any were fo nimble as to reach the Foot of a Mountain, yet he could not Afcend by Reafon of Stones which fell on his tead, and Torrents of boiling Water that ran down upon him, as if it hiad come out of a Caldron. And fuppofe he had reach'd the Top, it had been but a fhort Delay of his Fate: For, in a Word, The Waters fwelld Forty Cubits above the highef Mountains, and all the Living Generations perifh'd.

Vol.VI. a Spy at Pakis.

Son of my Motber, When thou readeft this Memoir (for it is a Fragment of an ancient Arabick Writing) think on the Day of Judgment, which Shall furprize the World, even as the Deluge did. At that Hour, the greatef Part of Men will not dream of any fuch Things, 'till they fee Flames, and Rivers of Fire, burfting forth from the Springs and Fountains, which before yielded Water, and showers of Fire, defcending from Heaver, inftead of Rain. For the Elements will change their Courfes, to at complifh the Dicrees of him who made them, and to confummate the Revenge of the Omripotent againß Umbelievers.

> Paris, 2d of the 11 th Moom, of tee I car 1666

LETTER XVI.

To Ufeph, Baffi.

$\bigcirc$URELY, the Gods of the Englifs are angry with that Pcople, and the Gwardiam Spirits of the IJe have forfook their Charge. I fent a Difpatch at the Beginning of this Year to Murat, Baffa, wherein I inform'd lim of a deftructive Plaguc, raging at Londom, and in other Parts of the Nation. Thai Pefilence continue ftill, but under different Forms, to affault the Living, and augment the Nusaber of the Dear.

GOD only knows the Origin of thefe Efidemical Contagions; whether they derive their Pedigree form ileaven or Hell; from the Earth, or any other El:ments. Perhaps fome latent Poifons in the Air, mix with the Breath of Mortals, and, by their fubtle Energy, foon diffipate the vital M 5 Flame

290 Letters Writ by Vol.VI.

Flame of Human Bodies, like the infectious Blafts of the Wind El-Samicl, in Arabia, which is a Moment's Time, commits a Rape upon the Life of Travellers, fcorching their Spirits up, and leaving on the Sands, a black, itiff Carcare of jelly'd Flefh, as though they had been Thunder-fruck. Or, perhaps fome venomous Exhalations from the Minerals below, uranfieire through Chinks and Crannies in the Earth, to plunder Nortals of their Breath, like to the fatal Vapours in the Cave of Death, not far from Virgil's Grot' in Italy. Or, who can tell, tut that fome hidden Meteors above, or fome malignant Stars, may fend down whole Battalions of empoifon'd Atoms, to invade this Region of Mortality, and in Deatb's Name, King of the WorldInvincille, to claim and carry away a certain Number of Gbofis, prick'd down by Definy, a Tribude fet by Fate? However it be, that whole Inand may be well call'd, at this Time, the Grand In firmary of Earope, where baneful Sicknefs makes its publick Refidence. The timorous Giafars ran from Place to Place, thinking to efcape from Hcaven's all-fearching Purfuirants. They flee from popular Towns to Villages; and from thefe again to unfrequented Defarts, Woods, and Heaths, carrying their Wives and Children with them, and all the Subflance of their Houfer. The Roads are covered with the Caravans of doubtful Pafiengers, who dread to think of going back to the contagious Seats they left behind, yet know not where to be received a new. So general is the Confternation, fo ftrong the Fear of thofe, who yet furvive, left they fhould alfo catch the Infeetion and die.

Befides this, they have felt the Strokes of another furprizing Calamity; London, the Capital City of England, being newly confum'd by Fire. It is not certain, whether Defign or Cbance firft kindled the devouring Element. But it fell out at an unlucky Seafon, when the Wind was high, and from its Eaftern Quarters blew the Flames full Weft, which fpreading North and South, demolifid all before them, laying the greateft Part of that rich and famous City in Aftes.

Yol. VI. a Spxat Paris. 251

Some afcribe this to a Plot of the Frencb; Others term it a Judgment of God, for their Rebellion, Pride, and other crying Sins Whilf with equal Probability, a Third Sort affirm, 'twas contriv'd and put in Execution, by a Cabal of Carpenters and Mafons, who wanting Employment, and projecting the Method of enriching themfelver, difdaining alfo the inartificial and obfolete Form of Buildings, refolved to put this City into a new Figure, and raife it, according to the Models of Foreign Arcbitecture. Every one gueffes as his Affections incline him, or his Conjectures follow the Byafs of his Intereft. Men are aways partial to themfelves and the Caufe they have efpous'd. God only knows the Truth.

The Superftitious among the Roman Catbolicks take Occafion, from the Timing of this horrible Conflagration, to infult o'er the Engli/b Pretefiants: who, from fome obfcure Paffages in the Book of their Gefpel, ufed to foretel, in a Propbetick Manner, Thrt the final Ruin and Catafropbe of Rome would happen in this Year 1666: Whereas, by fatal Experience, more fure than vain Predictions, they find the Metropolis of their own Nation reduc'd to Athes.

Whoever are the Intruments in thefe Tragedies, 'tis certain, the Defigns of Fate are ftill perform'd. Every Kingdem, State, and Community, has its critical Periods and Climacters, wherein it fuffers De$\begin{aligned} & \text { triment, } \\ & \text { M } 6 \text { This }\end{aligned}$
$25_{2}$ Levteas Writ by Vol.VI.

* Tbis Blank the Italian Preface mentions, and fayso

Tis owing to the Lefs of fome Part of the Arabick Lefter, Juppos'd to tern off by Cbance, or on fome otber Occafien.

Paris, 2d of the 11 th Moon, of the Year 1666.

LETTER XVI.

To Cara Hali, Phyfician to tbe Grand Signior.

1A M melancholy, beyond the Difcription of Paimters, Poets, or, the Lively Eloquence of Cicrro. Methinks, 1 am fome Exotick Being; a perfeet Foreigner on Earth; a Stranger to its Laws and Maxims. I appear to other Mortals, like a Giafar, or Frank, in his Wefern Drefs at Merocco, Babylon, or Conflantinople. I mean not for my outward Habit (for in that I'm conformable enough to the Mode of the Region where I refide) but I'm all unfafhionable within; ridiculous in my Sentiments ard Converfation. When others laugh, I Gigh, and find a Reafon to be fad, in the Midit of merry Company. Even Wine itfelf, that exhilarates all the World befide, does but increafe my Melancholy, by adding Strength unto my labouring Thoughts. It fublimates my Spirits up to Sacred Phrenfies. I am a Lunatick at fuch a Time. Each Glafs creates new Dreams more wild, than the ftrange Flights and Raptures of a Santone. My heated Spleen, like Mouut Gibel, belches forth horrid Clouds of Smoak and Vapours, which lay long fmothering in its fpongy Caverns; thefe quickly fpread, and cover all the Horizgn

Vol.VI. a Sprat Paris. 253

Horizon of my Soul, rendering it dark and gloomy, as the Cimmerian Solitude, or the more difmal Vallies bordering on the River Stgx, where furly Cbaron waits to ferry over the Caravans of trembling Gbofss and land them in Elyfixm.

Oh! That thofe Fables of the ancient Poots were but true! Or, That I kaew but fomething certain of our Future State! Whether the Soul furvives or no, when Death has ftopp'd the Circulation of our Blood? And what becomes of that Immortal Subfance, after its parting from the Body? Whether it pafs by Tranimigration into the Embryo of fome other Animals, as Pytbagoras taught; or be united, fwallowed up, and loit, in the Univerfal Soul of the World, as Plato did believe? Or, if fome other Magnet does attract its Prefence; and hidden Symphathies of Nature teach to form itfelf a Vehicle or Body of the Elements ! Perhaps, fome Souls unite with Air, whilf others mix with Water, Earth, or purer Skies. This for its horrid Sins in Martal State, may be, by the Eternal Nemefis, funk down into the fatal Caverns of Mount Ef. na, Strombolo, or Vefwvius ; there to incorporate with Burning Rivers, and Lakes, of Sulphur, and and other Minerals, to hear perpetually the frightful Cracking, Rumbling, and loud Thunder of thofe infernal Vaults ; to be, witheut Intermiffion, annoy'd with the eternal Stench of melted Mines, whole poignant Vapours equally kill it, and revive it every Moment, that it may be confin'd to an endlefs Circle of Miferies: To feel the excruciating Torments, which no Tongue can utter ; whilit the incefliant, rapid Motion of thofe exalted, and moft violent Fires, with which it is embodied by Decree of Fate, rob it of the very Poffibility of the leaft ealy Thought, or quiet Minute; and at the fame Time rack it with infinite Tortures.

254 Letreas Writ by Vol.VI.

Think not, my dear Pbyjician, That it is impofirble, a Separate Spirit can thus be fenfible of Pain. There's no fach Thing as a feparate Spirit, fave G.OD who made all Bodies, and therefore was before them. The Angels themielves are partly Corporeal; fo are the Devils. Do not believe then, that Mortal Man, who is in a Middle State between thefe Two, thall by Dying, gain a Privilege above the moft illuftrious Spirits in Heaven. As foon as Deach as diffodg'd us from one Body; Nature, Providence, or Fate, provides us another, according to our Qualities, Inclinations, and Merits. We may as well by Metcmpfycbofst, become the Spirit or Soul of a flaming Sulphur-Mine, or at leaft of fome Part of it, as of an Hode, an Eagle, or a Dove: For fuch, for aught we know, may be the Difpofitions of Divine Wifdom, Juftice, and Omnipotence.

By the very fame Reafon another Soul may be tranfported to the open, happy Skies, where it may either range in boundlefs, free, and ferene Tra&ts of Bliff, or be Enfranchis'd in the Corporations of the Stars, to dwell in Palaces of Avewre, Topazer, and Diamonds; to poffefs Provinces more rich than in Prrw, or Guinea, where the Rufticks plow up Gold, more beautiful and pleafant than the famous Fields of Tbeffaly. GO D knows what will become of us after our Diffolution : But the Ignorance of this one Truth occafions all my Melancholy.

Death is not formidable of itfelf, nor all the dolorous Circumftances that precede it: 'Tis only what comes after, raifes all my Terror. Were I to melt away in lingring Agues and Confumptions ; or to be fooner pofted off in high-wrought Fevers, Pleurifies, or Peftilence: Or, if it were my Fate to die by Piftol, Sword, or Poifon, or any other Kind of flow or fudden Death, allotted me from Chance or Nature, Providence, or Fate: fhould Heaven confume me in a Trice by Lightning; or this Globe with equal Swiftnefs, bury me in fome farprizing Earthquake: 'T would be all one to Mabmut, were it not for the After-claps, to which I am a Suanger. I tremble at the hidden and unfearchable Force of Natare: I dread the irreverible, unknown Deceess of Fate, the Secred Mesbods of Eternal Definy, the Lawt, and Order of the other Werld, in billeting the Troops of Human Souls, that go to Winter there, after this, Life's Campaign is finifh'd.Once in a cold and frofty Evening, as I was travelling ©ier a bleak, wide Plain, and felt the penetrating Blafts of North Eaft Winds, with chilling Sleet, which fell upon me from the Clouds; my Spirits alfo tir'd with tedious Journies, and my anxious Thoughts being wholly saken up about a Refing-Place that Night, and how to avoid the Affault of Robbers, with a Thoufand other Perils, threatening a Stranger on the Road; at length, I chanc'd to think of the untry'd and remote Voyage I muft one Day make to another World. It chill'd my Blood, to imagine the difconfolate, naked Circumfiances of a Scparate Soul, which, for aught I knew, might be bewilder'd, loft, and forc'd to wander up and down, through untrack'd Waftes of mifty, frozen Air, where the inhospitable Element affords to Guides, no Caravanfera's to comfortlefs poor, ftraggling Gbops; unlefs they would accept a Lodging in fome Cloud, the Ciftern and Chariot of Kain, Hail, or Snow; there to incorporate with the unwelcome Meteors, and be whirl'd'round the Globe, or elfe precipitated down to Earth again in Showers ; from thence perhaps, to be exhal'd by the Sun, and mix'd with Embryo's of Ligbtning, Ficry Dragens, Ignes Fatui, or other Bodies hourly flaming in the Welkin, and thus to circulate in endlefs Tranfmigrations. Who knows the Circumftances of departed Souls, or Laws of a Separate State? Let him declare what Ufage we mall find in that 256 Letters Writ by Vol.VI. that invifible and dark Recef́s from Life: He ftall be then efteem'd more than Apollo, by the penfive Mabmut. Not the old Delpbic Oracle could receive greater Reverence from the Inquifitive World; nor Mecca, now from devout Mufu/mam Pilgrims ; or Mo dime Talnabi, where the Propbet refts in Peace, than fuch an one thould have from me, who would with unfeigned Truth difcover, how we Chall be difpofed of when we die. But I am cloy'd and naufeated with dull Romances of the Priefts Dervifes.

Vol. VI, a Spy at Paris. 255

My Friend, Let Thou and I learn to improve the Joys of prefent Life, and not by damn'd Miftakes, deprive ourfelves of double Happinefs. But let us fo comport ourfelves, that our Tran/migration may be but from the Pleafures of Eartb to thofe of Heaven ;from one Paradife to another.

Paris, 6th of the it Moen, of the Year 1667.

Vol. VI. a Spxat PARis. 257

LETTER XVII.

To Kerker Haffan, Baffa

THE Bleflings of GOD, and his Prophet. chear thy Heart, as thou haft exhilerated mine by thy laft Letter, wherein thou encourageft me with the Hopes of being remov'd from this difagreeable Poft, to one more delightful and happy, even to a fweet Country Retirement, either in Arabia, or any other Part of the Grand Signier's Dominions. which is the very Mark of all my Withes.

I have a natural Averfion for great and populous Cities. They feem to be fo many magnificent Sepulchres of the Living, where Men are Mhut ap, imprifon'd, and buried from all Commerce with the Elements; or they are like Hcfpitals, or Pcff Houf.s, where People crowd, infee, and Rink one another to Death, with a Thoufand Pollutions. They hive together like Bees, and build their Apartments in Darknefs. Like Nefts of Pifmire, they trudge up and down all the Summer of their Youth, to heap up Treafures, that they may fpend the Winter of their Old Age in loathfome Eafe, and benumb'd Stupidity; not daring to venture out of the Purliea of their nafty, fmoaky Habitations, and yet they'ro ready to be ftifled with their own Breath.
"Tis with Pleafure I contemplate the Face of the Infant Earth, before it was deform'd by the unneceflary Arts of the Carpenter, Smitb, and Mafom: When Men had no other Houfes, fave what they made themfelves, every one for his Family, of the Branches and Boughs of Tress, interwoven with Ofiers, Reeds, and Ivy ; and cover'd thick with

Leaves

258 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

Leaves and Grafs to fhelter them from Wind, Hail, Rain, and other Injuries of Weather, Or, perhaps, fome had found out a Den, or a Cave in the Earth, or the Hollow of a Rock, for a SanAtuary in fuch Cales, where they repos'd in perfect Tradquility, without Fear of Snares or Violence, without Apprehenfion of Robbers, or any Tragical Surprize. They went out and in, nept and wak'd labour'd and refted, in Safety and Quiet. Avarice, Envy, and Injuftice, had not as yet corrupted the Minds of Mortals. The Earth brought forth Corn, Herbage, and Fruits without the Hußbandman's or Gardener's Labour : All Places abounded with Plenty of innocent Refrefhments, and thole primitive Inhabitants coveted no more. The Cattle and Bees afforded them Milk and Honey, and the Fountain-Waters were generous as Wine. This Glabe was a compleat Paradife, and no miftaken Zeal had taught Men religioully to invade one another's Rights, and in a pious Fury to murder their Neighbours, in Hopes of meriting Heavew hereafter. There was no fuck 1 hing as Bigotry or Supertition to be found among any of Human Race. I he Law of Nature was in univerfal Force : Every Man purfued the Diclates of Reafon, with. out hearkening after Religion Sopbifry, and Sacred Fables.

But when once the Lucre of Gold had corrupted Men's Manners, and they, not cont inted with the Riches and Sweets, which they daily cropt from the Surface of the Earth, had found a Way to defcend ifto her Bowels, ftung with an infatiable Defire of hidden Treafures; then began Injuttice, Oppreffion, and Cruelty to take Place. Men made Enclofures to themfelves, and encompaffed a certain Portion of Land with Hedges, Ditches, and Pales, to fence them from the Invafions of others; for the

Guilt

Vol. VI. a $S_{p x}$ at Paris. 159

Guilt of their own vicious Inclinations fill'd them with Fears, and made them jealous of one another. They built themfelves frong Holds, Fortrefles, Caftles, and Cities: And their Terrors increafing with their Criminal Poffeffions, they perfuaded themfelves, that the very Elements would prove their Enemies, if not pacified by Bribes and Prefents. Hence fprang the firft Invention of Altars and Sacrifices, and from thefe vain panick Fears of Mortals, the Gods deriv'd their Pedigree. For One built a Temple to the Sun, Another to the Moon, a Thind to fupiter, Mars, or the reit of the Plamets. Some ador'd the Fire, Others the Water or Wind. Every one fet up to himfelf fuch a God as he fancied would be propitious to him. Thus Error being equally propagated with Human Nature, they created an infinite Rabble of imaginary Deities, paying to thofe Idols, the fupreme an incommunicables Honours, due only to the Etcrnal Ef ferce, Fatber and Source of all Things.

Befides, they liv'd in intolerable Pride and Luxury, in conftant Wars and Strife, in Dasknefs, Ignorance, and Confufion. I speak of fuch as dwelt in Cities, and were incorporated together by one common Intereft. For fill there remained fome whoms obey'd the Original Lawvs of Nature, and the Iraditions of Primitive Humanity.

Theíe dwelt in Tents, or other Moverable Habitations, as our Courtrymen the Arabs do at this Day, with the Tartars their Brethern. They fcorn'd to faften themfelves to the Earth, by poffering any Part of it in Propriety: Every Field and Wood, Hill and Valley, River and Well, were with them in common. They fraggled whither they pleafed.

This is the Life fo emulated by me, or inftead of that, at leaft a Retirement from Cities, that I may breathe out my laft Hours in free. Air, remote from the ftifling Company and Contagion of Mortals. I long to range at Liberty through unfrequented Paths of Delart Ground, o'er wild, unpoHifid Heaths; from thence infenfibly to fall into fome venerable Solitude, where the dry, mofly Banks of Trees, in filent Characters proclaim the Antiguity of the Place; and gentle Whifpers of the Wind inftruet the Methods of Platenick Love; infpire ftrange Paffions, which we never felt before, and teach us to converfe with Satyrs, $N_{j} m p b s$, and other harmlefs Tenants of the Shadis. How great is the pleafure to be thus furpriz'd with fome harmonious, warbling Stream, or filent, foft, deep, - Cryfal River! To fpeak incognito with Dryad:, Hemodiyads, and the fporting Eacbo's; to lie dif: folv'd in loofe, yet innocent Enjoyments, on the Banks ; to talk with Nature, with Immortal Subficm. ecs. and with Eeternity itfelf! Oh Gcd! Is not this ravilhing ?

260 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

Tis difficuit to fay, Whether it would be pleafant or painful, to return from thefe ineffable Parades of the Send, to our Domeftick Felicities, tho' even in a Rural Life, which I acknowledge to be the Happinefs on Earth. Yet there to trace the Herds and Flocks to walk amidit the high grown Corn, and Grafs, to pluck the Bearded Ears of Bar. ley, to let our Eyes roll oves the various Figures of the Wind blown Wheat and Millet, our Nofes to fuck the fragrant Airs of Marjoram, Thyme, Oranges and Limens, with innumerable Spices; our Ears to hear the inimitable Melody of Birds, and every Senfe to be tranfported, fnatch'd away, ard loft in facred Extafies; muft needs be rank'd among the hig heft Kind of Earthly Pleafures.

Bet to defcend from thofe Enjoyments, to the meaneft, and mot common Diverfions of a Country Life ; methinkt, there's fomething peculiarly charming in the very ellenge Situation of the Houfes; whether whether it be on the Brow of an Hill, or the Bottom of a Valley ; in the Midft of a Wood or the Opening of an Heath; on the Side of a Road, or in feme obfcure Corner of the Country. Tis agreeable, when walking in the Morning, to hear the Bleating of Sheep, Lowing of Oxen, Scream ing, Quacking, and Crowing, of Geefe, Ducks, Cocks, and other Home bred Animals; to hear the louder Winds, threatning, to tear up Trees by the Roots, demolim Houfes, and remove the Globe iffelf, if poffible, from off its Bafis. This would be better Mufick to me, for a Change, than a Concert of Dulcumers, Tbeorbo's, Timbrels, and Viols. Human Nature delights in Variety, and there is a certain audacious Curiofity in the Soul, which loves to ventare on Extremes. The Rain, the Dirt, the Stink of Hogs, Camels, Dromedaries, and other neceflary Rurel Beafts, would pleafe me better than the conftant tedious Eafe, and fulfome Sweets of Conrt or Cty. I fweat whilf thus thut up within there Walls: It cloys me to be daily walking in a Circle; trample aways o'er the fame Ground, in a vaft Labyrinth of Houfes, where my Senfes meet no new refrehing Objects, but my Ears are hourly naufeated, vex'd and tir'd, with the rattling Din of Coaches, Carts, Artificers, and the hargh Voices of fuch as fell Fleß, Fift, and other Things about the Streets. My Eyes can find no grateful Profpests, but dath'd with farly rugged Looks of proud and wealhty Infidels; or with the fly Satyrick Smiles of well. fhapd People, who condemn me for my Bandy Legs, and Crooked Back.

- Vol.VI. a Spx at Paris. 26i

In a Word, My dear Baffa, I long to feel the gentle Breezes of the Eaff, purifying my Soul, and cleanfing it from fo many Pollutions. 1 languif for the Sight of Turbands, and Crefcents, for the devout Call of the Muezins on the lofty Minarets : I die in Contemplation of the Sacred Fafis and Fcafts, the Nocturnal Joys of Ramizan, the Revels, and chearful Illuminations of Beiram, and the Imperial Denalma's. When I think of thefe Things, my Soul burfts forth into fervent Invocations, and evesy Faculty cties, Alla, Alla.May that Divine and Immortal One hear my Prayers, and grant me the Happinefs to fee the Fate of noble Kirier Hafan, in an Horizon, pure and free from the Defilement of Infidels.

262 Letters Writ by Vol. VI.

Paris, 14 th of the 2d Moon, A. Pr of the Yiar 1667.

LETTER XVIII.

To Ifouf, bis Coufin, a Merclant at Aftracan.

ISent a $D_{i / \beta}$ atch to thee in the Year 1664, wherein, among other Things, I recommended our Coufin Solyman to thy Friendhip and Patronage, if ever he thould travel to Afiracan, as I advis'd him: For thou knoweft he has a roaming Genius, without the Wit to improve himfelf in any Foreign Country, unlefs he has a Friend to guide and take Care of him; And then 'twill be a difficult Tafk to make him fenfible where he is. He'll always think he's within the Verge of the Grand Signior's Hunt, where he may domineer at large, under the Notion of a Retainer to the Sultan. He's a Atrange Humourd Fellow. I know not what to make of him. He's as changeable as Proteus or a Camelcon: Sometimes religioufly dull and phlegmatick, like a Hadgi; at another Seafon, you fhali feel his Pulfe beating to the Tune of youthful Pride, Ambition, Luft, and other Vices. To Day he'd be a Derviche, Santone, or any Thing that bears the Form of Holinefs: But when he has flept upon't, the vain young Convert would return again to the World, and be a Soldier, Courtier, Profeffor of the Law, or any Thing that makes a Figure in the Eyes of Men. So unwelcome are the rigid Paths of Virtue to a Soul not well eftablifhed in its Primciples.

Vol.vi. a Spy at Pasis. 263

And yet our Coufin Solymam, as I am told, is the Mugulman of the Mufulmams, as to his Exterior. With Hand devoutly laid to Breaft, and humbleft Couch o' th' Earth he gives the Salem to his Friends and Neighbours : Soft, as the Sighs of Mutes in the Seraglio: Humble, as the Grecian Chapman, walking through the Streets, is forcd to imitate, when he is heitor'd by the rampart Ganizarics.

But, Oh, my Coufin IJouf, 'tis Grief to Cay, That Solyman, Partaker of our Blood, is bafe, ungrateful, and perfidious : That he fhould be thus unnatural, ftudying the utmoft Period of our Life; inftead of honeft, juft, and noble Prefents, to prolong it.

I had Reafon, long ago, to compare him to Portius Pilate; and if I had gone on, and fcumm'd off all the moa enormous Crimes of Human Race, twould be too little to exprefs his Enmity againft Mabmat, the kindert Uncle, and the truelt Friend, that eier poor Solyman could boaft of.

But he is degencrate, and that's too little, without the mouraful sighs of thee and me, to increafe the Aggravation of his Crime.

In fine, He is our Kinfman, and let us fhew Mercy. He has been perfidious to me, and I would retrench the Words I have fpoken in his Difgrace. If he comes to Aftracan, do as thou pleafeft : But have an Eye over thine own Affairs. Take not Solymang for an Angel. He is ftill but a Turbant-Maker; a frolickfome Blade; and a Merchant that makes a very fmall Figure.

264 Lexters Writ by Vol. VI.

Coufin Ifouf, Forget not the Maxims, thou hatt learned in thy Travels; Be true to thy Friends, and chy felf. Honour the Memory of thy deceafed Parents. Love all Men that are good. And be not remifs in praying for the Soul of thy deceafed Uncle, whenever God glall call for it.

- Paris 26th of ibe 2d Moon. of the Rear 1667.

The End of the Sixth Volume.

